LAW WHICH REACHED HILLMAN FRAUDS

Though the District Attorney and his deputies are unable to discover any law by which the perpetrators of the fake Hillman townsites proposition can be prosecuted, the law is on the books, according to the Evening Telegram.

Not only is it there, but it is said already to have been used by one lawyer in forcing the promoters of the goldbrick scheme to refund the coin which they are alleged fraudulently to have obtained from one of his clients.

The law which is said to cover the practices of the wildcat townsites is printed on page 164 of the Session Laws of 1909, and is entitled "An Act to Prevent False and Misleading Statements and Advertising, and Providing a Penalty Therefor." The text of the act is as follows:

"Section 1. Any person, who, in a newspaper or other periodical, or in public advertisement, or by letter or circular, knowingly makes or disseminates any statement or assertion concerning the quantity, the quality, the value, the price, the method of producing or manufacturing of his merchandise, or the motive or purpose of any sale which is untrue or calculated to mislead, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than $10, nor more than $50, or by imprisonment in the County Jail not exceeding 30 days, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

It was under this law that Attorney Julius Silverstone, last Spring, forced the promoters of the bunco proposition to return $150 which he alleged had been fraudulently procured from his clients. In discussing the affair the lawyer said:

"The promoters of this fake Hillman townsites deal obtained $150 by crooked methods from one of my clients. I went after them and swung this law on them and they returned the coin. There is no reason which I can see why the law should not be as available in case of the district attorney as it was in my case. The clause which did the work in the case of my client was the one reading: 'or the motive or purpose of any sale which is untrue or calculated to mislead.'"

"In the advertising literature which they disseminated freely the Hillman townsites people made the positive assertion that James J. Hill had promised to build a depot at Hillman. I saw the Hill people and learned that no promise whatever had been made. The only agreement was that a depot should be constructed there if found expedient or the business should be found to justify it."
