The Girl Who Lives Alone

whether she attends college or goes to business, needs the Perfection Oil Heater. It will heat a cold, cheerless boarding house or dormitory room and make it livable. It is always a ready help in the many things women do for themselves in their rooms. With the damper top opened it will heat water for tea or cocoa; it will dry the small articles that a woman prefers to wash herself in her own room. It will quickly heat an iron or curling tongs; quickly dry wet shoes or skirts—an ever ready help for the woman who lives alone, dependent on her own resources. The is invaluable in its capacity of quickly giving heat. It will burn nine hours with one filling. It is safe, smokeless and odorless; has a cool handle and a damper top.

An indicator shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cep is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain. It has an automatic locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being burned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so the wick can be quickly cleaned.
The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, and can be unscrewed in an instant for reworking. Finished in Japan or nickel, strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

Curiously expressed. Curious ways of expressing ideas in English may be expected from foreigners, as, for instance, when the Frenchman, who made a call in the country and was about to be introduced to the family, said: "Ah, so ladies! Zen I would before, if you please, wish to purify mine hands and to sweep mine hair."

DEFECT IN "GOOD OLD DAYS"

Children of Large Families Were Underfed, Overworked, Beaten and Ill Treated.

We are told by many that the modern woman is becoming forgetful that her chief and highest duty is to rear children in the fear of the Lord, or that if she recognizes this duty she is rebellious against it. And we are pointed admiringly and regretfully to the good old days when mothers saw their duty to church and state, and meekly performed it in the shape of families of eight, twelve and fifteen. There are only two defects in this beautiful dream of the days of old. The first is that neither the fathers nor the mothers of these huge families had any particular intention, or, indeed, any idea, of sacrificing themselves for the race, or doing their duty by the community; they were simply following their instincts and taking the consequences more or less patiently—and stupidly. The second is that with the exception of the small classes of independent means, these large families, if valued at all, were valued chiefly as a source of income to their parents from the earnings or work of the children during their time of dependence. We do well to denounce the modern sweatshop, or the factory or mine crowded with child workers, but let us remember that a large percentage of the children of these huge families, among the working and farming classes a hundred years ago were more underfed, overworked, beaten and ill treated, stunted physically and deformed mentally than of the children of any civilized community today, even in factory towns.—Dr. Woods Hutchinson.

CHARGE IT TO ADVERTISING

Veteran Actor's Good Story of the Theatrical Manager and the Evangelist.

"I lunched" in London with Charles Klein, the dramatist and author of "The Third Degree" and "The Lion and the Mouse," said a veteran actor in New York. Klein was the hero of the London papers just then. He had gotten into a taxicab one morning and said calmly to the chauffeur, "Edinburgh." It was a trip of a thousand miles—the taxicab record. Naturally, afterward, the actor continued, "our conversation turned to advertising. Klein told me an interesting case. While he was conversing with a theatrical manager in London one day an evangelist was shown in. 'My dear sir,' said the evangelist to the theatrical manager, 'I am taking notes and gathering material for a lecture on the evils of the stage. I hear that "The Blonde Widow," your present attraction, is decidedly a gem—sensational. May I ask for a ticket of admission personally?' The theatrical manager beamed with delight. 'Why, certainly, sir, certainly,' he cried, and turning to his secretary, he said: 'Rutherford, give this gentleman an order for a proscenium box, and charge it to advertising.'"

Called for Glory Divine.

Among the customers in the drug store conducted by George Epler, Twentieth and Berks streets, one day last week, was a little girl, who is known to her playmates in that vicinity as "Peggy." As she stood waiting for her turn, it could be noticed that she was repeating something under her breath, in her effort to remember what her mother had sent her to buy.
"Mother wants five cents' worth of glory divine."

"Of what?" said the young clerk who was standing there as if stumped by a hard blow of a baseball bat.

"Glory divine, glory divine," came the reply in a louder voice than when she had made the original request.

"You had better go home and have your mother write it down on paper, little girl," said the clerk, feeling that the girl was too sure to argue with him.

Soon she returned, and handing the note to the clerk, he read: "Five cents' worth of chloride of lime."—Philadelphia Times.

Owes Fame to Childish Friends.

Everybody knows that Lewis Carroll, the author of "Alice in Wonderland," was an Oxford don—Rev. C. H. Dodgson—and that he looked more like the high-and-dry old mathematician than an entertainer of children. Yet he had certain childish friends, and to these on their country walks he told the "Alice" adventures which he afterwards made into a book. But had it not been for the importunities of the children this great masterpiece would have died. The learned don thought nothing of it. Nevertheless, it will keep his name alive as long as the English language is spoken.

Marketing in Crimson Gutch.

"What makes the butcher put both hands in the air? Is he afraid you are going to shoot?"

"No," answered Broncho Bob. "He has gotten over being afraid. He knows I ain't going to shoot as long as he keeps his hands out of reach of the scales while the meat's bain' weighed."—Washington Star.

Why Locked Up.

"Ever been locked up?" demanded counsel.
"I have been," admitted the witness.
"Aha! And what had you been doing to get yourself locked up?"
"I had been doing jury duty."—Pittsburg Post.

CAP and BELLS

HIS LOBSTER RUSE WORKED

Old Bird Stays Out Until After Lock-Up Time and Gains Admission by Clever Trick.

The Old Bird reached home late, and found he had exceeded lock-up time.

He rang and rang, and then he rang again. After that he rang, and, as that had no effect, he thought he'd ring, and so he rang. At last his wife's head popped out of an upstairs window.

"You can go away," she said. "I'm tired of this."
"So am I," said the Old Bird.
"You won't get in tonight!" she declared.

"But, my dear," expostulated the husband, "I have brought home a bodied lobster and two bottles of champagne."
Mrs. Old Bird's head popped in, and soon she had stumped downstairs and opened the door.

"Till make a light, dear," she said, leading the way through the dark hall towards the dining-room.

Then she turned on the electric current, and, looking at her spouse, frowned.

"Well," she demanded, "where are the lobster and champagne?"
"Here, my dear!" said the Old Bird with a laugh, and tapped his vest.

In Paris.

The French artist was showing his latest picture.

"Eet is one noble picture," boasted the painter. "See ze fleece of ze clouds and ze fleece on ze sheep, on ze hillside."
"Any more fleece?" laughed the critic.

"Not now, monsieur. But zere will be some more fleecing when ze American millionaire ask for ze one old masterpiece and I sell him zis."

Those Jealous Summer Girls.

Clara—So you are really engaged to George at last?
Dora—Yes; isn't it just beautiful?
Clara—I'm glad for you; and he's such a brave fellow, too.
Dora—Is George brave.
Clara—I should say he was. Why, he upset the skiff we were in last summer purposely and declared he wouldn't save me unless I promised to marry him.

Druggist—Can't say, but Dr. Cubebs evidently doesn't think so.
Customer—But when he went on his vacation he turned his patients over to Dr. Pills.
Druggist—Well, what further proof do you want?

PROOF OF SINCERITY.

Polly—Well, in his love letters he never writes "Please destroy."

The Rival Belles.

She (rival belle)—If she had tried she would have succeeded. Did you ever see such a hatchet-face?—New York Weekly.

Had No Kick.

"Catch any fish?"

"Better luck next time."
"I'm satisfied. I don't care to have cheap fish biting these expensive toes."

As Pa Sees It.

Little Willie—Say, pa, what is organized charity?
Pa—Organized charity, my son, is the condensed milk of human kindness.

SPLINTERS.

Big Income—ship entering the harbor.
Too many people judge the world by their own breadth.
A man can be run down in the street as well as in health.
You want to be sure of your footing before you climb too high.
The increase in the price of leather has made shoes pinch more than ever.
Beners—A woman is always changing her mind. Jenners—Not when she decides that she wants a new gown.
It is a poor friend that will pat you on the back and kick your feet out from under you at the same time.
Boyce—I wonder what makes a dog howl when music plays. Joyce—I don't know, unless the music awakens the flea.

It Would Seem So.

The subjoined item appeared in a French newspaper: "There was found in the river this morning the body of a soldier cut to pieces and sewed up in a sack. The circumstances seem to preclude any suspicion of suicide."
