ALFALFA GROWING.

Washington Experiment Station at Pullman Gives Valuable Instructions.

For the guidance of persons desiring orchard is 25 per cent, 25 said the speakance, former agronomist of the Washington experiment stations, says:

"In preparing to seed alfalfa, it is usually best to plow in the fall, leaving the furrows rough over winter, in order to secure the benefits of weathering, and to permit the settling of the furrows by the action of the fall and winter rains. This also encourages the early germination of weed seeds, so that the soil may be partially cleaned of foul stuff in the spring preparation of the soil for seeding.

"As soon as the soil is fit to work in the spring, the surface should be given a light working in order to form a mulch to conserve the moisture and to smooth the surface of the furrows to encourage the germination of weed seeds that lie near the surface. The amount of cultivation must be determined by the condition of the soil, but should be sufficient to work up a good mulch of loose earth. Deep cultivation is not desirable. Up to the first day of May the land should be given sufficient cultivation to preserve the mulch, and to prevent weeds from seuring too much of a start. About the first of May the final preparation for ceding should be given.

"If the surface has been well worked prior to the first of May little more han a single harrowing may be needed, night? out the aim should be to secure a well pulverized seed bed of two or three all on that night, nches depth with the bottom of the farrow left firm. In case of spring plowing, the firming of the furrow may be brought about by the use of a roller, planker or other compacting tool.

"Soils west of the Cascade mountains seem to require inoculation for successful alfalfa production. This is pest accomplished by harrowing in at he final preparation for seeding, a eeded with alfalfa would do admira-oly for this purpose. "In securing seed, be very careful to purchase seed possessing high .vitality and free from the seeds of noxious you see, I'm not a married man. weeds. After the alfalfa has thoroughly established itself, it may be mowed or pastured off. Each spring as soon as the ground is fit to work it is best to give the soil a thorough working with a spring tooth harrow and disc, or some other effective tool."

In an address recently given to the student body of the State Agricultural College at Pullman, President Howard Elliott of the Northern Pacific Railway, said that one of the greatest needs of the present day is an appreciation of the values of country life. In part

"The railroads are interested in the general subject of education, and parleularly are they interested in better education, better methods of living, and bettering country living in general as compared with life in the cities.

"In the last 100 years there has been a marked drifting away from the country to the city. In 1800 only 3.1 per ent of the people of the United States lived in cities, and the census just taken will probably show over 35 per ent living in towns and cities.

"A great work is being done by the agricultural colleges of the country in showing how to make country life more desirable, how to make better use of the land. Especially is this a great work when it in an educational way reaches young men and women of the farming communities. We must have more people who like to live in the We must have country life made more pleasant. There is no better life for the young man or young woman than a home in the country. They can do better for themselves there. Scientific farming is just as important, and in time will produce just as good results as scientific work in any other

"The people who live in the Pacific Northwest, I believe, are very fortunate. It is a land which is just begin ning to develop. It is a land which will require a great deal of hard and intelligent work for its future development. If any young man feels that his opportunity is not as good now as it would have been twenty-five years ago, he is mistaken. Opportunities nev-er were greater west of the Rocky Mountains than today for an intelligent, thorough, patient young man or woman."

Than His Stomach consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despond-

To Cure Poverty. There is a rational way and a fool way of curing poverty. The rational way is to recognize that the world is full of magnificent supplies and to try to develop in the poor man a better kind of wants-i. e.: to change his low
