Culver Junction $1000 in Prizes

THE Oregon Trunk and Deschutes railroads are rapidly building into the Deschutes Valley of Central Oregon. On January 1st the steel was laid to within about 50 miles of CULVER JUNCTION and the grading was almost entirely completed. Ere long the first engine will be poking its nose over the boundary of the greatest wheat shipping point in Central Oregon. This town is located in Crook county at the junction of the Hill and Harriman railroads north of Crooked river and in the center of the most productive area in Eastern or Central Oregon. At this place we have a union depot and common warehouses from which grain or produce may be shipped over either railroad.

Culver Junction

In the making of a splendid town and the grade work is already completed with a crown of 95 feet and union depot grounds providing for 450 feet of 12 foot platform.

It is the watering place of the Harriman line, arrangements having already been made with that company.

It will be the distributing point for both freight and passenger traffic while the Crooked river bridge is being built and will be the terminus during that period.

It will always be a distributing point for a very large territory both east and west.

It has three times more farming country tributary than any other town on either road.

The farming section has splendid soil and excellent crops are produced without irrigation. The dry farming products raised by Mr. Reuter just east of here took 17 sweepstakes and first prizes against the world at the Spokane Dry Farming Congress.

It has splendid summer and winter climate and but very little disagreeable weather. Bright sunshine and spring-like days in December and January.
 Very healthful.

Has one of the most scenic locations of any town in the United States.
 Nine perpetually snow clad mountain peaks in full view from the town. Deep canyon scenery but a few miles away and lakes, springs and streams unsurpassed for beauty and grandeur are near us. This will be headquarters for summer tourists. Excellent hunting and fishing at our very doors.

Has an abundance of splendid, pure water, and street grading is being done.
 Business enterprises of all kinds are arranging to establish themselves here.

This is the prospective and logical connecting point of the railroad to Prineville.

A private Christian College with a course of study equal to any in the state will be established here.

Church organizations are preparing to erect buildings and one is already established here in its building.

Has a good common school and will soon have high school. It will be known as a town of schools and churches as well as a business center.

Electrical power will be developed in the river just west of here and the line will pass through here in its route to Prineville and will furnish this place light and power.

A large flouring mill is projected, the grounds already having been secured for the purpose.

Good roads already lead to this place and more are being provided from every direction.

The people of this community are all to sters and we have a splendid working organization of the farmers and business men in the Culver Junction Development League.

These are only a very few of the things which will make

Culver Junction Great.

We expect the first railroad engine to cross the line of this town some time in February—it may be earlier and it may be later—as track laying is progressing rapidly on both roads.

How Good Can You Guess?

 twelve, $25 each.
