Eccentric Work Basket.
 There are work bags made of turban. Is anything odder? And they are not unattractive, queer they sound. The shell of the turban is lined with some gay silk, and the tail is pulled over and inserted into the mouth, then used as a handle. They make nice sewing baskets, and will undoubtedly appeal to the lovers of the eccentric.

She Keeps a Secret.
 Coroner's Detective Frank Paul has an amusing experience recently and he has not as yet decided whether it was a joke or the truth. The circumstances are these:
 Paul was sitting in his office, meditating on the ways of the world in general. The telephone bell rang. "Hello," said the detective, in his best manner.
 "Come down here, quick," said an agitated feminine voice, "there's a murder being done."
 "What is the address?" asked the vigilant sleuth, "and I'll be down right away."
 "It's none of your business," was the snappy reply, and the receiver was hung up with a bang.

CURTAIN-FRONT HOUSES EXCELLENT FOR POULTRY

Building Shown in Illustration and Used at Maine Experiment Station, Affords Satisfactory Means of Ventilation.

The Open-Front Hen House.

The accompanying illustration shows one of the curtain-front houses in use at the Maine experiment station. Fresh air has been a big consideration in the building of this house, which has a curtained front to the house proper and a curtain-front roosting room. Professor Gowell, expert in charge of poultry raising at this station, has found this method of ventilation very satisfactory.

The building is 120 feet long and 16 feet wide. The front wall is 6-2-3 feet and the rear wall 5 1/2 feet high from the floor to the top of the plate. The roof is of unequal span, the ridge being four feet in from the front wall, and the height of the ridge above the floor is nine feet. The sills are 4x6 inches and rest on a rough stone wall. The floor, consisting of two thicknesses of hemlock boards, rests on 2x8-inch timbers, which are placed two feet apart. The rest of the frame of the building consists of 2x4-inch material. The building is boarded, papered and shingled on both roof and walls, and in addition the rear wall and four feet of the lower part of the rear roof are celled on the inside of the studding and the space packed with dry sawdust. Outside of the building a three-foot platform extends across the ends and along the front.

The house is divided into four 30x16-foot pens. In the front side of each pen are two twelve-light windows and a door 2 1/2 feet wide. The space between the window and door comes close up to the eaves, leaving an unbroken front three feet high below the eaves. The opening is 3x14 feet and is covered by a wooden frame, covered with ten-ounce duck. This curtain is hinged at the top and is swung in when opened, and it is always kept open, except on stormy days and winter nights. Each pen is of suitable size to accommodate 100 fowls, thus allowing 4.8 square feet of floor space to each bird.

A roost platform four feet ten inches wide and three feet above the floor extends along the rear side for the entire 30 feet. Three perches of 2x3-inch material are placed on edge ten inches above the platform. The rear perch is 11 inches out from the wall, and the space between the perches is 16 inches, which leaves 15 inches between the front perch and the duck curtain. The

MAKING GOOD ROW MARKER

Good Job on Winter's Day Is to Make This Useful Implement to be Used on a Furrowing Plow.

A good job on a winter's day is to make this row marker to be used on a furrowing plow. It is very easily made by anyone handy with tools. A is a piece of old wagon tire six inches long with each end turned up and a hole in each end for receiving the pin, B. The piece, A, is securely fastened to the plow beam with two screws, C. A is a piece of a wagon tire coiled at one end so that pin B, can be inserted. C is bolted to D, which is the arm of the marker and may be made of a 1 by 4 inch piece of wood six feet long, says the Farm and Home.

At the extreme end are several holes bored in this arm six inches apart. By means of the pin which fits into these holes the distance between rows may be regulated. F is a 12-inch board cut to a point at the forward end with a hole bored in this end where a line may be attached. This line is fastened at the other end to the top of the hames. G is a piece of scrap iron curved so as to drag through the ground easily, and marks the next row.

Making Butter.
 Clean milk, good tools and a careful milker, are the three principal factors in making good butter. Selling to private customers is the most profitable way of marketing. My cows average seven pounds a week, says a writer in an exchange. I use very little commercial butter color, merely enough to maintain a uniform tint.

HAY GRADES ARE FIXED

Timothy Has Lead, Especially Among City Feeders, Because It Is Not Only Nutritious but Palatable.

The rules of the National Hay association recognize 23 grades of hay, which seems to fall into five classes—timothy, clover, mixed timothy and clover, wild grasses and alfalfa. Choice timothy hay must be sound, properly cured, of bright natural color mixed with more than one-twentieth of other grasses, and well baled. Lower grades of timothy are No. 1, 2 and 3 and "no grade." Clover hay has two grades, No. 1 and No. 2. No. 1 clover must be medium clover, sound, properly cured, not mixed with more than one-twentieth of other grasses and well baled. Choice alfalfa hay must be reasonably fine, leafy alfalfa of bright green color, properly cured, sound, sweet and well baled. Other grades of alfalfa are Nos. 1, 2 and 3 and "no grade." These rules are used by most cities that have official inspection.

A large percentage of the timothy on the market is graded below No. 1. The reasons are that many meadows are cut for years until they become weedy and mixed with other grasses, and that the hay is often cut too late, so that it loses the bright natural color and palatability.

Timothy has the lead, especially among city feeders, because it is not only nutritious but palatable and non-laxative, and the horse is not likely to overfeed. Nevertheless, other kinds of hay would often prove better for the feeder. Alfalfa, for instance, has high muscle-building qualities and is especially valuable for draft horses. It is highly relished, however, and the horse may overfeed.

Leaving Parsnips in Ground.
 Parsnips will bear many hard frozes in the ground and do not have the best flavor till late in winter. The best way to handle them, except in the north, is to allow them to remain in the garden soil and dig them as they are wanted for use at times when the ground is not frozen.

When You Think

Of the pain which many women experience with every month it makes the gentleness and kindness always associated with womanhood seem to be almost a miracle. While in general no woman rebels against what she regards as a natural necessity there is no woman who would not gladly be free from this recurring period of pain.

THOROUGHBRED ANIMALS AND PLANTS.

Their Great Commercial Value.

"There is as much difference between thoroughbred and ordinary plants as between thoroughbred and ordinary animals." This statement is made by D. M. Ferry & Co., of Detroit, the greatest flower and vegetable breeders in the country, and appears in their 1911 Annual Catalogue just issued. They argue for the great value and economy of thoroughbred seeds. "Any fundamental natural law which applies to animals applies equally to plants." A good cow (i. e. a thoroughbred) eats no more than a poor one, but may give twice as much butter-fat. "Good blood" makes as much difference with corn as with cows. But thoroughbred plants, like thoroughbred animals, are not produced in one or two generations, for no matter how superior an individual of common origin may be, its progeny are as a rule like the general run of its antecedents. Hence the need for seedsmen like D. M. Ferry & Co. They have experience, the best plant breeding equipment in the United States, and the business acumen to sell only such seeds as have been bred from the choicest stocks for many generations. D. M. Ferry & Co.'s Seed Annual for 1911 may be had free of charge by writing to them at Detroit, Michigan. It contains much of interest for those who think.

10 Remove Mildew.
 If kid gloves have become spotted with mildew they should be placed in a bottle with a lump of ammonia about the size of a walnut; cork the bottle tightly and leave them for a short time, when the mildew spots will quite disappear. If left too long, however, the ammonia will rot the stitches; so they must be watched. An air-tight box will do equally well as a bottle.
