ENORMOUS DIKE OF PURE LIME

$2.25 per barrel, holding about 200 pounds. The exceptional purity of the product will give it a great advantage over the ordinary commercial rock, it is stated. The successful development of this industry will add not a little to the business activity of Madras, and will also add much to the glory of the resourcefulness of Central Oregon. Heretofore scattered croppings of lime and gypsum have been discovered at different points in this county, but the "Spar King" which is the name applied to the Haycreek deposit is thus far the only one that promises to be of any great importance.

Only a short distance from the location of this discovery are the coal mines that have been partially developed. In close proximity to the lime dike Mr. Cavaney has discovered a ledge of rock that is highly mineralized and has indications of carrying gold, silver and copper. Samples of this ledge have been sent for analysis, and it may be that a valuable metal mine has also been located there. "If it's worth a dollar a ton," said the finder, "I will soon be a millionaire, for there is a whole mountain of it."

So little attention has ever been given to the search for mineral deposits in this part of the state, that the possibilities of this line may only be conjectured, but with the discovery of valuable coal beds, this great lime dike and the promising metal prospect just found, indications would point that there are still countless opportunities in this direction that are open to investigation.
