SHANIKO WOOL GETS HIGHEST PRICES

Sales Held There Last Tuesday for 809,000 Pounds

The best prices of the year were received for wool at the sales held in Shaniko last Tuesday, when prices ranged from 103-4 to 16c per pound. A special to the Oregonian says:

"When the woolgrowers and buyers met at the warehouses here today the former were notified that they would receive a 90 per cent payment for their crop and that 10 per cent would be retained by the purchaser to guarantee against loss by shrinkage when the wool arrived at the mills. They were also told they must deliver their clips f. o. b. Shaniko.

This is unusual at this point and it raised a storm of protest from the growers. After a three hour conference it was found the buyers were immovable and selling proceeded on that basis. Fourteen buyers were at the bins and considering this is an off year, the growers received what considered fair prices, averaging from 11-2 to 2 cents higher than any previous sale held in Oregon this year."

Twenty-eight clips, aggregating 809,000 pounds, were sold at prices ranging from 103-4 to 16 cents."

Wool from the Haycreek ranch and also the clip of Morrow and Keenan is now being hauled to the Konoway warehouse at Madras. It is reported that the Haycreek wool, estimated to be about 250,000 pounds has already been sold at private sale. Wool from all of the growers in the county is now being received. The first sales date for Madras is June 24.

The Sprinkler at Work

The street sprinkler was put to work on the streets of Madras last Saturday and will be kept on all summer. The matter of oiling the streets was taken up by the council earlier in the year and it was decided to use oil, but for the reason that no funds were available for the purpose and the fact that the completion of the city water works was found to require more money than was anticipated, it was decided to pass up the oiling of the streets until finances were in better condition.

GARAGE SHOULD BE CLEAN.

How to Care For an Auto So Expenses Will Be Kept Down.

Cleanliness in the garage is essential to the well being of one's car. Next to that, cleanliness in keeping the car is most to be desired. The first of these two important points can only be secured when planning the building, and it is one that the owner will do well to look out for.

The draining of the floor should always incline toward the center and should be of a cesspool pattern. Below the opening there should be a receptacle to catch all grease and dirt and with it a grit chamber. These should be carefully looked after, so as to guard against any obstruction.

A good thing to keep the garage floor clean is a hot, saturated solution of common washing soda, which can, if wanted for use frequently, be made up in large quantities and stored away. If this is done, however, the solution must be reheated to about boiling point before making use of it. This will, of course, be too hot for the hands, so that an old broom or brush should be utilized to spread it around.

Another preparation as good, if not better, that can be used for this purpose is trisulphate of sodium, which can be procured from several chemical companies, priced at from 4 to 5 cents per pound. This solution, although strong enough to remove paint, can be frequently used for the hands with impunity. It is more convenient than the first solution in that it can be used cold.

For cleaning the body of a car the use of needlessly strong alkali soap should be condemned. This, with neglect to wash off the soap and failure to dry the varnished surface perfectly, is responsible for a great deal of the injury done to a car's paint. As a matter of fact, neither soap nor water should ever be used on a car above the undersides of the mud guards, except in cases where the mud is caked on the body in large quantities.

In most cars the first signs of wear of the painted portion invariably show on the varnished surface of the engine bonnet. This is due to the fact that it is frequently covered with mud on the return from a run and is then washed with soapy water while the metal is still hot. Soap should not be used on the bonnet until it has cooled and even then should be carefully washed off. After a number of washings while the bonnet is still hot the injurious effect is quite noticeable, and within a short period the car has to be repainted long before its legitimate time.

The problem of clean hands is frequently a difficult question with owners of autos who do any of their own driving or repairing. The use of a mixture of soap powder and powdered pumice is recommended. The proportion of the ingredients can only be determined by use, as it varies with the individual. This last fact, of course, precludes its being kept in stock any length of time.

How to Get Winter Eggs.

At this time of year good poultrymen are preparing for the winter, and the supply of eggs marketed in the cold weather largely depends on the preparations that are made now for several reasons:

First, because the cocks and hens are now molting and require extra care in the way of feed, water and grit. Boll corn and oats together and feed once a day. Wheat and corn are good foods, not cooked, for the balance of the day.

At this time of year good, cold drinking water kept in vessels is all right, but when the weather is cold heat the water. It will help to retain the body heat of the hens.

Keep sand at all times in your poultry yard. It is the cheapest and best of grit.

See that the broken panes of glass are replaced and the cracks all closed before the winter storms begin.

Fresh nests should be made at least once a month. The hens do not like to leave their offerings in soiled nests and often refuse to lay where lice are in the nests. Whitewash the henhouse and roosts twice a year and scatter dry lime over it balance of time or sprinkle with coal oil.

If cleanliness is closely watched there will be less danger of sick fowls.

How to Clean Woodwork.

The woodwork around my kitchen sink became very dirty, and I wanted it cleaned and revarnished. This easy method of getting the dirt and old varnish off at the same time was told me and proved to be a boon. The instructions were to make a soft soap from common yellow laundry soap and when it was nearly cool to stir in one tablespoonful of concentrated lye and one-half cupful of coal oil. When the mixture was like a heavy paste it was ready to be spread over the woodwork with a paint brush. I followed these instructions, letting the soap remain a day and a half, and when I washed it off with plenty of hot water was pleased to find the dirt and old varnish come with it, leaving the clean wood exposed. When it was dry I varnished it, and I had a sweet, clean kitchen again with very little labor.—Mrs. C. C. Andrews.

How to Clean a Black Skirt.

It is possible to clean a black skirt with very little trouble. Lay it flat on a clean table. Remove all grease spots with brown paper and a hot iron, then with a sponge dipped in kerosene rub over the entire dress, paying special attention to the front and edge of the skirt. After the whole of the skirt has been sponged and while it is still damp iron on the wrong side until perfectly dry.
