The Rev. Owen F. Jones, general missionary for Eastern Oregon of the Episcopal church, was in Madras the first of the week returning from a visit to Prineville. Rev. Jones came as a special representative of Bishop Pad-dock, and while in the city spent the time looking up the members of his denomination who reside here.

William Blair, postmaster at Youngs was in town this week. He states that there is some talk of the early construction of the branch line of the Deschutes railway from near Gateway to Ashwood and that one of the men connected with Callahan's construction crew told him they expected to bring a number of horses there soon.

Mrs. J. E. Bedingfield left last week for Ashcroft, Alberta, Canada, to attend her sister, Mrs. Maude Pinkham, who is very low with tuberculosis. Letters received from there today state that her death is not unexpected at any time. Mrs. Pinkham is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Phillips, formerly of this place.

G. F. Smith, who is identified with the Central Oregon Ice & Cold Storage Company, and who has a homestead in the Summer Lake district, received the news the other day that his cabin on the claim had burned down, with all the contents, the fire occurring the day after Mr. Smith arrived here from a visit to his claim. While the building destroyed was not of any large value, Mr. Smith had stored in it a large lot of curios from most every country under the sun, which had been sent him by his parents while on a tour of the world, and these were valued at in the neighborhood of $1000. A man was living at the place and the fire originated from a defective flue.

Rain to the value of a million dollars or more has fallen over Crook county this week, and crops which were beginning to suffer for the lack of moisture are bounding forward with the prospect of a bountiful harvest. The latter part of the week several heavy showers fell, and while this moisture was still fresh in the soil another good soaker came with conditions right for the water to go deep into the ground. Spring sown grain now promises to make a fine harvest and will probably give a better yield than the fall sown fields.
