It is regrettable that during the past few years not everybody that wanted an UNDERWOOD could get one—just when he wanted it. There were not enough to go around, not even with the considerable output of 400 machines per day.

Now, however, with the largest typewriter works in the world we hope to keep pace for some time with the demand.

It is not by accident that the Underwood Company has in a few years built up this enormous business. It is the logical result of selling the best typewriter at a price consistent with its value and giving the customer the best service ever offered in the typewriter business.

GOBBLER OR GOOSE—WHICH?

It was midnight in ancient Rome. After the thrill of the slaughter of a thousand in the arena, topped off with red wine, roast goose and garlic, the Romans retired, and soon their sonorous snore shook the rocky Tiber's shore. Then suddenly all the Roman geese cackled, and the burghers tumbled out of bed to find the enemy at the gates, and Rome was saved. Just so the fat and toothsome gander will save Uncle Sam the ignominy of having no big bird on the center plate at holiday feasts. You must eat rubberneck. "Not for mine!" you cry. "Turkey's the national bird, and your goose idea is absurd." Now, dear, don't be severe. This much is clear—the American people may decide an election with their ballots, but they can't decide this question with their palates.

Who blames you for loving juicy breast meat? "There are others." Yet the American public may rise, strike a Patrick Henry attitude and yell, "Gimme turkey or gimme me death!" and still get left, for the fellow's not born who can carve 7,000,000 turkeys into enough to help 100,000,000 other fellows to stuff. Some might get a little smelly. "That a sharp snout could hardly tell. But millions more would raise the yell: "Turkey! Gimme turkey!"

This is the cry today, but turkeys are growing scarcer and scarcer, while turkey lovers are more numerous than ever, and in some localities this year, even where people had boodle to burn, the festive bird couldn't be secured for love or money.

Unscientific breeding has brought disease to the turkey tribe, and many who formerly bred them have quit. Then, speculators have quietly bought up the birds on farm after farm, and thus many have had to eat rubberneck or nothing.

In the years to come it's going to be goose or nothing but ordinary quack or rooster unless these fellows preaching turkey culture get down off the fence and do the stunt.

OH, YOU ROAST TURKEY!

Now, there's the whole "effete east" yelling to the live west, "Hustle there and raise us turkeys!"

Why, when a crop fails in the east they just lean back on their cushions and sing:

Out west they've got enough for all Upon this great terrestrial ball. If the whole east blow up and bust, In God and the great west we trust.

But though California, Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Indiana, Illinois and the rest of the west are raising millions of the best they can't supply a nation of turkey lovers.

The future feast will be gobbler or gander, and if we refuse to grow gobblers our goose is cooked.

DON'TS.

Don't expect fine stock for little money. That's out of date and awful funny.

Don't sell a customer bad goods and think that's the last of it. Rotten chickens and eggs come home to roost.

Don't condemn faking and fake on the sly. All fakers go to hades by and by.

Don't keep too much stock over winter. A crowded henhouse makes a fat pocketbook.

Don't select market fowls in the dark nor take birds in filthy coops to market.

Don't keep eggs in the cellar with onions and turnips. Customers will turn up their noses.

Don't take ungraded eggs to market. Customers will pick out all the big ones.

Don't borrow incubators and forget to take them back nor let them rot in some old leaky shack.

Don't put every judge down as a grafter because you didn't get a prize. Your fowls may be standard and yet be undersize.
