James Moore was found guilty of the murder of Louis McAllister last week of receiving stolen property at Opal City and given an indeterminate sentence of six months to five years in the penitentiary.

Mrs. Sanford Schultz of Cowdell has leased the Guerin house and on November 1 opened the first class hotel. It is known as The Mountainview. Mrs. Schultz's house on the old Shaniko road was a favorite stopping place for traveling men and The Mountainview will likely prove to be a popular inn in Bend.

Underwood
Standard
Typewriter

POPULARITY

When the UNDERWOOD made its advent in the market fourteen years ago, the original front stroke visible writing typewriter, met with instant popular favor because it marked a distinct advance in the art of typewriter construction. Typewriters representing design and construction of the best achievements of the mechanical world up to that time have been displaced by the UNDERWOOD in the markets of the world until today its sales largely exceed those of any other make of machine. In the effort to meet the universal popularity and growth of the UNDERWOOD machine, makers of "blind" writing machines have changed their models to visible writing in the last few years and visible writing has become the current talking point of its critics of yesterday.

The UNDERWOOD is designed on correct mechanical principles, is made of the best material and has fewer parts in its type mechanism than any other machine, and excels in point of durability, speed, accuracy, and ease of operation.

ERNEST ROBINSON
ACQUITTED OF MURDER

Sister's Testimony Saves
Brother's Life

TRIAL CREATES INTEREST

Prosecutor Charges 18-Year-Old Ruth
Robinson With Being Party to Murder

Ernest Robinson, on trial for his life for the murder of Louis McAllister, was acquitted last Saturday morning after the jury had been out about fifteen hours. The jury accepted the testimony of 18-year-old Ruth Robinson, who said from the chair that the fatal shot had been fired in self defense. This, despite a vicious attack by District Attorney Wilson, in which he charged that the girl had been a party to the pre-determined murder.

The case went to the jury at six o'clock Friday night. Early the next morning four of the jurors standing for conviction of murder in the second degree weakened and the jury finally brought in a verdict at 9 o'clock in the morning for acquittal.

Owing to the prominence of the principals in the tragedy, and the numerous friends on both sides, the case has attracted more than unusual interest throughout the county.

The trouble which resulted in the murder was started between the two over the possession of a gold mine in the Ochoco district last May. Ruth stated that she herself had fired at McAllister with a 22-caliber rifle she was carrying at the time. She said this shot was not accidental but was fired through fear that McAllister was about to open fire on her brother. The shot struck the ground at the feet of McAllister.

The girl testified that she and her brother were coming down the hillside when they saw McAllister tampering with her brother's ditch. She declared that when accosted by Ernest, McAllister hurled a shovel at them, which struck Ernest. At the same time McAllister attempted to reach for a weapon. At this moment, she declared, her brother fired. Still in the ditch she saw the injured man reach for his gun when her brother fired again, the bullet taking instant effect. The report from her own rifle was almost simultaneous with that of her brother's revolver.

Mr. Wilson centered his attack on the girl. He said there was no doubt but that the murder was of the most cold-blooded nature possible. He said the couple were going down the hillside out of their way and there could be no question but that when they encountered McAllister they had determined to kill him. Wilson pictured the girl to the jury as determined on revenge for an alleged wrong done to the Robinson dam.

It was shown during the testimony that McAllister had no weapon, and in fact was not accustomed to carry weapons of any kind.

The "English"

Here is a style which New York, Boston and the great Eastern cities have gone wild over. It combines the practicableness so characteristic of American styles, with that smart London "air."

It's made up in many bright weaves, has shoulders which snug up to your own, is slightly form-fitting at the waist and has an elegant sweep of skirt. In fact, the "English" is a model after your own heart. A sure winner. A real, corking style that will make decided "hit" with you. Of course, if you prefer the looser effects, we have dozens of them, tailored with precisely the same care that the "English" is, but built on broader lines.

The "Stroller"

You must not think from the name of this overcoat that it is one of those affairs which have so much style it can only be worn on special occasions or for just strolling. It is a great coat to wear on a tramp or a stroll, but it's equally appropriate for business. Its collar turns up about the neck and ears. Its length gives ample protection to the limbs. The shoulders are moderately broad. The fabrics are of various colors and mixtures any or all of which are charming as can be. You'll not be happy without a Stroller once you let us show it to you.

Other smart outergarments including the famous Raglans are here in great number. Don't put off seeing them until the season is too far advanced to warrant a good choice.

$15.00 to $40.00

New York. The show will open November 3 and closes November 12.

The Great Northern has contracted for a display booth more than 100 feet in length, in which specimen products of Oregon and other Northwestern states will be exhibited. Agents of the road have been busy gathering these samples for the last three months and have at last succeeded in collecting a representative display from the agricultural, horticultural, dairying, stockraising and gardening districts of the state. Among the exhibits from Madras will be many of the exhibits which won prizes for Tillman Reuter at the Dry-Farming Congress held recently at Colorado Springs. After the close of the New York show the collection of products will be taken to Chicago and St. Paul where similar exhibits will be held.

It was shown during the testimony that McAllister had no weapon, and in fact was not accustomed to carry weapons of any kind.

LOWER FUEL PRICES
IN CENTRAL OREGON

Cut in Freight Rate Will Enable Dealers to Sell Coal at Portland Prices

Fuel prices in Central Oregon will be materially reduced as a result of the wood and coal tariffs just announced by the O. W. R. & N. and Oregon Trunk roads.

Effective November 1, the rate on coal from Rock Springs, Wyo., the base of most local supply, will be $5.50 a ton to Madras and $6.00 a ton to Bend. The present rate to Madras is $6.25. These rates, it is believed, will enable dealers in Central Oregon cities to sell coal at Portland prices.

Rates on cordwood and slabwood from Portland, Bridal Veil Falls, Cascade Locks and Hood River will be $2.50 a cord to Opal City and $2.80 a cord to Bend.

The coal rate from Centralia, Wash., where much fuel is obtained, will be $4.25 to Madras and $4.75 to Bend, corresponding rates to intermediate points.

The lumber rate from Bend to Eastern common points will be the same as those from Portland to the same points.
