A Surprise For the Weather Prophet.

A century and a half ago people used to depend upon the weather prognostications in Partridge's Almanac. One day Partridge himself put up at a country inn for dinner. The hostler advised him to stay the night, as it would certainly rain. "Nonsense!" said Partridge, and proceeded on his way. Soon a heavy shower fell, which so impressed the traveler that he instantly rode back to the inn and offered the hostler half a crown if he would tell him how he knew the rain was imminent.

"Well," replied the man, with a grin, pocketing the coin. "The truth is we have Partridge's Almanac here, and he's such a liar that whenever he promises a fine day we know it will be foul. Today is set down as fine." The weather prophet, like many other weather prophets before and since, passed on discomfited.—Strand Magazine.

Portland Ore., May 1.—Good roads held the center of interest in Portland yesterday. Bedecked with gay bunting and banners, bearing legends boasting the cause, more than 40 automobiles with other vehicles forming a procession more than a mile and a half long, and filled with Oregon's prominent advocates of better highways, filed through the streets at noon. Thousands of people lined the sidewalks and cheered.

Yesterdays celebration ushered in a two weeks' campaign for the initiation of the six good roads bills now before the voters. Until May 14, the men handling the campaign will go at the work whirlwind style and try to obtain all necessary signatures to put the measure on the ballot.
