"EDUCATION" IS THE CRY OF THE LEAGUE
Delegates to Development Congress Adopt Plan for General Campaign

Realizing that practically the sole chance for the industrious farmer to fail in Central Oregon is through ignorance of how best to cope with local conditions in tilling the soil, the delegates to the recent meeting of the Central Oregon Development League at Lakeview, adopted as their slogan: "Show them how," and will carry on an active campaign of education.
In furtherance of this work, the League will endeavor to secure the following helpful legislation, and asks the cooperation of all who have at heart the best interests of the Central Oregon farmer.
First.—Adequate appropriations for establishment of demonstration farms in every section of the state.
Second.—Adequate appropriations for maintenance of a field corps of agricultural college experts in advisory, extension, and institute work, in conjunction with demonstration and experiment stations throughout the state.
Third.—Adequate appropriations for such assistance as may be needed by the superintendent of public instruction in promoting the teaching of agricultural, home economics and manual training in the public schools of the state, both common and high.
Fourth.—Authority for the county courts of the various counties of Oregon to appropriate funds for demonstration farms and agricultural extension in conjunction with funds appropriated for such purposes by the United States Government and the state of Oregon, or subscribed and made available by organizations or public subscriptions for such purposes.
Fifth.—That authority and direction be given the school districts of the state of Oregon to provide agricultural and country life education as a portion of the regular studies of the school course in the common and high schools.

The meeting was well attended and in all was the most successful that the League has as yet held. Delegates and visitors from the outside were very favorably impressed by the condition of affairs throughout the counties visited, and their trips will serve to bring a more complete realization of what the development of Central Oregon means to the state and country at large.
William Hanley of Harney county was re-elected president, and the next important offices came to Crook county, C. S. Hudson and J. E. Sawhill, both of Bend, being chosen treasurer and secretary, respectively. Klamath Falls was chosen as the next meeting place.

Her Leap in the Dark.
The wife of a leading minister in a New Jersey town was sitting on the porch of the manse when a man with a grip in his hand started to come up the steps. Spotting him at once for a book agent or a peddler, she said firmly, "Nothing today."
"Have you one?" queried the stranger.
Fearing that an affirmative answer might lead to further conversation in which the salesman would try to demonstrate the improvements made in the article since she had purchased hers, the minister's wife answered shortly, "No!"
Shaking his head, the man retreated down the steps, repeating this sentence several times, "Hasn't got one, doesn't want one."
The man's manner and tone of voice awakened the woman's curiosity, so very soon she went over to a neighbor's house where she had seen the man stop and asked:
"What was that man who was here a few minutes ago selling?"
To her astonishment and chagrin the neighbor replied, "Bibles."—Lippincott's.

PRODUCTS OF OREGON FOR YEAR OF 1911
Cold-Blooded Figures That Tell of Wonderful Resources of Our Native State

In 1911 the wool clip of Oregon weighed 6,000,000 pounds, was shorn from about 2,000,000 sheep and was sold for about $3,000,000.
During the same period the state produced 600,000 pounds of mohair, worth $240,000. Goats have been found nearly as valuable for clearing brush land as for producing mohair.
In 1911 Oregon produced 72,000 bales of hops, worth $4,000,000. The production was only half that of a few years ago, but prices have been extremely good.
In 1911 Oregon produced poultry to the extent of 9,000,000 birds, having a value of $7,000,000.
During the same year the state produced 32,000,000 dozens of eggs, valued at $9,600,000. The poultry business is still an infant industry.
In 1911 the Oregon potato crop was the greatest ever known, very nearly approaching the 60,000,000 bushel mark, with a value, to the growers, of over $4,000,000.
In the same year, onions were grown to the amount of about 175,000 bushels, worth $212,000. The bulk of this crop is produced within a small area, being grown almost exclusively on what is known as "beaver dam" land.
In 1911 Oregon produced $3,400,000 worth of butter, but in order to supply the demand, at least three times this amount was shipped into the state from other sections.
In 1911 Oregon produced 5,000,000 pounds of cheese, valued at $758,000. The quality is of the very best. Los Angeles uses more Oregon cheese in feeding its tourists than of all other kinds combined.
In 1911 Oregon dairies produced 17,000,000 gallons of milk and cream, having a value of $4,000,000. The product is said to be the cleanest and most wholesome of that of any state.
The standing timber of Oregon is estimated at 454,000,000,000 feet worth on the stump $680,000,000, and when manufactured into lumber it will be worth $6,500,000,000. The timber covers approximately 25,000,000 acres. About one-half is in national forests and the balance under private ownership.
In 1911, 4,123,000 head of livestock was raised in Oregon, valued at $87,854,000. Among meat animals the production of hogs has increased faster than that of cattle or sheep, due for the most part to the extremely high prices that have prevailed for the past two years in the Coast markets.
The fruit crop in Oregon in 1911 was worth over $4,000,000 in cash. The greatest part of this sum was received for apples, this staple commanding the highest prices both at home and abroad. Next to apples, peaches are the most important fruit in the state, last year's crop bringing $523,000. Pears were sold to the value of $300,000, being an average of nearly $1.50 per box. Cherries, prunes, loganberries, grapes, strawberries, etc., helped swell the sum paid to farmers and orchardists during the year. About 3000,000 pounds of English walnuts were produced, valued at $45,000.

In some parts of the world the silly hat is still the professional headgear of the chimney sweep. About a dozen years ago the writer constantly observed this in Wurtemberg, and last year he found the same combination in Switzerland. The mysterious relations between the hat and occupation, convictions and recreations, would make an interesting study. At one time the politician who wore a white hat proclaimed himself a Radical. Nowadays he would probably be suspected as an old fashioned Tory. Then no self respecting cricketer would have appeared without a tall hat in former days. But Mr. Jenner-Fust has recorded how he and others were compelled to drop the habit in the twenties and thirties by the spectators' jeers at "post boys."—London Chronicle.

Mother of Eighteen Children
"I am the mother of eighteen children and have the praise of doing more work than any young woman in my town," writes Mrs. C. J. Martin, Boone Mill, Va. "I suffered for five years with stomach trouble and could not eat as much as a biscuit without suffering. I have taken three bottles of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and am now a well woman and weigh 150 pounds. I can eat anything I want to and as much as I want and feel better than I have at any time in ten years. I refer to anyone in Boone Mill or vicinity and they will vouch for what I say." Chamberlain's Tablets are for sale by all dealers.
