Will Smoke the Pipe of Peace
Salem, Or., Nov. 1.—Declaring that he has assurances from Sheriff Balfour, of Crook County, that he will hereafter enforce all the laws in his county, Governor West yesterday afternoon directed Attorney General Crawford to not institute a suit on his bond for failure to enforce the law. The Governor turned the bond, and various communications charging Balfour with failing to enforce the law, over to the Attorney General a month or so ago with instructions to bring suit on it. While ever since the Attorney General and his staff have been endeavoring to secure evidence against him their efforts have up to the present proved futile.

ALL RECORDS ARE BROKEN

Total of 13,013,402 Bushels of Grain is Sent From the Northwest in Four Months

Every record in the history of the Pacific Northwest has been broken in the matter of grain shipments during the fiscal year to the end of October according to data which was compiled by the Merchants' Exchange this morning. It shows that during July, August, September and October the cereal shipments set afloat at Portland and Puget Sound reached the grand total of 13,013,402 bushels in wheat measure. The nearest previous approach to this was in the season of 1908, 1909, when 11,085,464 bushels were shipped.

Including that sent coastwise, the wheat shipments from Portland in October totaled 2,211,538 bushels, as against 1,498,887 bushels shipped from the combined ports of Puget Sound. During the fiscal year to date the shipments from Portland amount to 4,501,967 bushels, as compared with 2,824,146 bushels dispatched from the several ports of Western Washington.

Of the quantity sent from Portland during the month just ended, 1,419,992 bushels went to Europe; 614,880 bushels to California, and 176,666 bushels to the Orient. From the Sound 680,883 bushels went to Europe; 427,568 bushels to California; 5027 bushels to South Africa and 386,000 bushels to the Orient. Each section exported about twice as much of the cereal as during October, 1911, when the Portland shipments comprised but 1,345,355 bushels, and those from the Sound 774,730 bushels.

The offshore and coastwise flour shipments from Portland in October totaled 118,680 barrels, of which 57,085 barrels went to the far East; 60,575 barrels to California, and 1020 barrels to South America. From the Sound, 255,206 barrels went to the Orient; 45,336 barrels to California, and 25,018 barrels to South America. Reducing flour to wheat measure the total shipments of the cereal from Portland and Puget Sound comprised 5,709,509 bushels.—Oregon Journal.

those sections had ever known. Even the quality of the wheat was not so badly damaged in the three states as first reports had indicated. Central Oregon and eastern Oregon wheat is up to every expectation; the Columbia river counties contributing their biggest as well as best quality crop ever known.

A surprise of the season was the big showing of the Klamath country, from which only a very small crop had been expected. Latest reports from there indicated that the harvest showed at least a fourth more wheat than had been expected and the only difficulty there was that growers never realized they had such a big output and did not purchase a sufficient number of sacks for their needs.

While no late estimate has been made of the oats crop of the three states, owing to the lateness of the season, individual yields in almost every section show a greater production than ever before.

"HOME, SWEET HOME."

How Dear to Our Heart Is the Sweet Memory of Mother and the Favorite Song She Used to Sing

(FRED D. PHILLIPS)

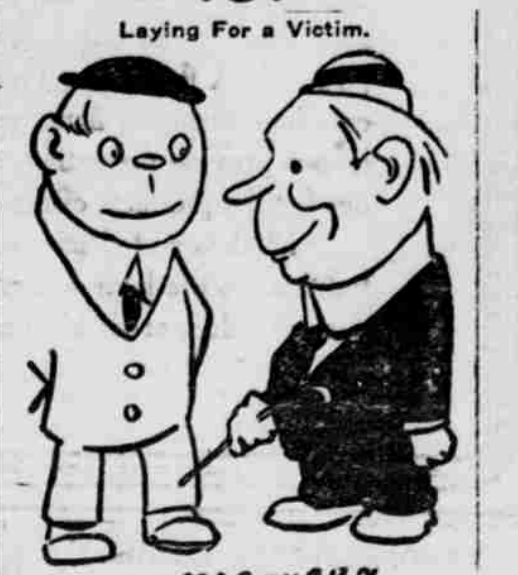

There is music in the word Home. To the old it is a bewitching strain from the harp of memory. To the young it is all that is near and dear to them.

Among the many songs we are wont to listen, there is not one more cherished than the touching melody of "Home, Sweet Home."

I will go back a few years, in the history of the past, and traverse, in imagination, the gay streets and gilded cafes of Paris, that once bright center of the world's follies and pleasures. Standing in one of its brilliantly illuminated cafes is one, an American, who had left home and loved ones to view the splendors of the French metropolis. He had beheld, with delight, its paintings its sculpture, and the grand yet graceful proportions of its buildings. Yet, in the midst of his keenest happiness, when he was rejoicing most over the many privileges he possessed, sin assailed him; temptation was presented in its most bewitching garb. He drank wildly and deeply of the intoxicating cup, and with the draught came madness.

Rushing from the place, his scruples overcome, continuing his mad flight beyond the limits of the city, he, at length, halted. The cool night breeze lifted the damp locks from his heated brow, and swept, with soothing touch, over his flushed cheek. While standing, in deep meditation, the sound of music from a distance reached his ear. Following in the direction the sound indicated, he soon distinguished the words and air. The song was well remembered. It was "Home, Sweet Home." As the voice of some sweet English singer rose and fell in the soft cadences of this beloved melody, he thought of his own Sweet Home; of his gentle mother, whose eye beamed with pride in her boy; of his loving sisters who trusted to his integrity; and he thought how little he deserved such confidences, and what their sorrow would be could they have seen him an hour before. As the last sweet strains floated through the air and nothing but the ceaseless murmur of a great city could be heard, reason once more asserted her right to control. Subdued and repentant, he retraced his steps, with no feeling of shame over the manly tears that fell as bright evidence of the power of song. The demon that dwells in wine had fled, and with the vow to never again drink of the draught that could so near bring madness was mingled a deep sense of gratitude to kind Providence for his escape from further degradation. The influence of home had protected him, though the seas rolled between.
