Situated at the Gateway to the vast Oregon interior, in the heart of the most fertile dry farming country in the Northwest, Northern Crook County, whose products have received prize after prize at the Dry Farming Shows Wherever Madras products have been exhibited they have taken the lion’s share of prizes. They have entered into competition with the best specimens that could be produced from the fields of the most productive dry farms in the west, from localities where dry farming is a much older industry than it is in Northern Crook County. The transformation of this great territory from range to farm is a process that has occupied far less than a decade.

The prize-winning products of Northern Crook County are not limited to grain alone. Under the methods of scientific tilling practiced by the farmers of Madras, the more abundant and better quality of four, and numerous warehouses provide marketing and storing facilities for the products of the district. Madras and vicinity offer exceptional attractions to the traveler and the inventor. Present values are in keeping with production.