HOW TO JUDGE CHARACTER BY THE HAIR.

Coarse black hair, and dark skin, signify great power of character, with a tendency to sensuality. Fine hair and dark skin indicate strength of character along with purity and goodness. Still black hair and beard indicate a coarse, straggling, rigid, straightforward character. Fine dark brown hair signifies the combination of exquisite sensibilities with great strength of character. Harsh, upright hair is the sign of a reticent and sour spirit, a stubborn and harsh character. Coarse red hair and whiskers indicate powerful animal passions, together with a corresponding strength of character. Auburn hair with florid countenance denotes the highest order of sentiment and intensity of feeling, purity of character, with the highest capacity for enjoyment or suffering. Strait, even smooth and glossy hair denotes strength, harmony, and evenness of character, hearty affections, a clear head, and superior talents. Fine, silky, supple hair is the mark of a delicate and sensitive temperament, and speak in favor of the mind and character of the owner. Crisp, curly hair indicates a hasty, somewhat imperious and rash character. White hair denotes a lymphatic and indolent constitution; and we may add that besides all these qualities there are chemical properties residing in the coloring matter of the hair-tube which have undoubtedly some effect upon the disposition. Thus, red-haired people are notoriously passionate. Now red hair is proved by analysis to contain a large amount of sulphur, whilst very black hair is colored with almost pure carbon. The presence of these matters in the blood points to peculiarities of temperament and feeling which are almost universally associated with them. The very way in which the hair flows is strongly indicative of the ruling passions and inclinations and perhaps a clever person could give a shrewd guess at the manner of a man's or woman's disposition by only seeing the backs of their heads.—Secrets of Beauty.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON SPEECH.

At the reception of the recent election news a large concourse of people serenaded Mr Johnson who replied in the following beautiful and patriotic speech

FELLOW CITIZENS—It is not my intention to make an address on this occasion, but simply to tender you my thanks for this demonstration—a demonstration approving what your fellow citizens have declared in the recent elections in various States of the Union. They will appropriate your response to what they have done and send back greeting that the union of the States must be maintained according to the original design of our fathers. I am gratified but not surprised at the result of the recent elections. I have always had an undoubted confidence in the people. They may sometimes be misled, by a lying spirit in the mouths of their prophets but never perverted—and in the end they are always right. In the gloomiest hours through which I have passed—and many of them God knows have been dark enough—when our Constitution was in the utmost peril, when our free institutions were assailed by a formidable force and our great Republic seemed tottering to its fall, and when I felt how vain were my efforts alone to preserve those institutions in their integrity, and to save the Republic from ruin. I was still hopeful, I had still an abiding confidence in the people, and I felt assured that they in their night, would come to the rescue.—They have come, thank God, they have come and our Republic yet may be saved.—It was but the other day that I officially declared that the people themselves. They know what they remedy is and how it is to be applied at the present time. They cannot according to the terms of the Constitution, repeal obnoxious laws. They cannot remove or control this military despotism. The remedy, nevertheless, in their hands, and is a sure one, if not controlled by fraud, over-awed by arbitrary power, or from apathy on their part too long delayed. With abiding confidence in their patriotism, wisdom and integrity, I am still hopeful that in the end the rod of despotism will be broken, the armed host of power lifted from the necks of the people, and the principles of a violated Constitution preserved. The people have spoken in a manner not to be misunderstood. Thank God that they have spoken for it is upon their intelligence and their integrity that I have always relied and still rely. The Constitution of the country, which was unimpaired, had received been before them for consideration, and it has had new life and vigor imparted to it from its original source, the people. It comes back to us with renewed strength and vigor. Let it now be translated high up in the heavens, written in letters of living light as the symbol of liberty, union, justice, magnanimity and fraternity. Goodnight.

The President was cheered during the delivery of his speech and also at its conclusion, and retired from the stand amidst repeated cheers and instrumental music.

PROGRESS OF THE RAILROAD.—Some time since an ordinance was introduced in the City council of Portland, to endorse, and pay the interest on $250,000 of the O. C. R. R. Co's bonds for twenty years. The local of the Herald of the 24th says:

THE RAILROAD PETITION.—During yesterday the petition to the Common Council for the passage of the ordinance published in the Herald yesterday morning, was presented to the leading capitalists and industrial citizens for their signature and approval, every one of whom, we were informed, unhesitatingly endorsed the plan and placed their endorsement in writing upon the petition. To speak of the local benefits of a railroad to Portland is not our object, but to call the attention of every voter, every citizen, and every property holder to the fact that those whose interest is the most extensive have done just what duty and that interest dictates, and signed with a perfect willingness the petition referred to, which prays the Common Council to pass the ordinance which was introduced on Wednesday evening in the body, by Councilman Besser. We learn that some of the leading business men on Front street have even proposed that the aid by the City should be such greater than what the ordinance provides, and hence they heartily extend their influence toward the accomplishment of the present object, which tends only to the benefit of our city, and to the detriment of not one single citizen.

Three cheers for the enterprise and Statesmanship of Portland, and one groan for the puny attack made upon the "Yamhill Road" by the "Secretary" of Salem.

Rev. P. S. Knight, a Congregational Minister has been for some time lecturing on Paine's "Age of Reason." The lecturer does not attempt to detract from the author's abilities as a man, or his wisdom and greatness as a Statesman, but contents himself in attacking the reasoning of the great American Infidel.

Mr. Brown has retired from the Vancouver Register, and is succeeded by Stephen P. McDonald.

Clubs are being organized throughout the entire State by both parties. The Reds know this is their last chance and they die hard.

The secessionists expulsionists and Despotists of Polk Co. put forward the Hon. P. C. Sullivan as their champion to meet the Hon. Ben. Hayden, who, sadly demoralized him. S. is their ablest man; but he is no more than a cat-bird in a garret in such a fight, for secession cannot be sustained by reason.

The Salem man, failed to connect last week.

We hear encouraging news from all parts of the State, touching the rapid increase of the Democratic Party.

We see by the Portland papers that the friends of the Railroad are trying to perfect an ordinance to guarantee the interest on $250,000 of the Company's bonds.

Our friend C. J. Chapman is deserving of much credit, as are also many others.

A new Lodge, I. O. O. F. has been organized in Portland.

We are sorry to learn that our friend the Hon. C. H. Burch, has lost a number of valuable sheep.

The Lafayette Lodge No. 34 held an election on the 28th at which the following officers were elected.

James Olds, W. C. I.; Mrs. J. Olds, W. V. T.; J. W. Johnson, W. K. S.; T. Belcher, W. F. S.; Miss R. Cary, W. T.; Miss L. Martin, W. A.; Mrs. A. Olds, W. I. G.; M. McEvilly, W. O. G.
