"Jam-Bo-Res."
[Young Jam-Bo-Res, a boy about thirteen years old, son to the barkeeper of the Phtreanezie Saloon, remained at his post, in the back room (in a single handed game of euchre), after the "party" had broken up in a general "bust" and every "hand" had been abandoned except his own and that of one remaining adversary.]

The boy held on to the greasy "deck,"
Whence all but him had fled;
The lamp threw its light on his last red check,
And he hadn't another "red."
Yet beautiful and bright he sat,
As born to win and lose;
With the ace of trumps hid under his hat,
And a "bower" or two in his clothes.
The game went on—he would not "go"
Without his father's word;
That father drunk, on the floor below,
His voice no longer heard.
He called aloud—"Say, daddy, say,
Hada't I better 'go it alone?"
He knew not that the chieftain lay
Unconscious of his son.

"Speak, father!" once again he cried,
"I'm playing my best for even—
And"—but the man on the other side
"Ordered him up on the seven."

His countenance fell when his ear caught
that,
But it wasn't a time to grieve;
So he played the ace from under his hat,
And the "right bower" out of his sleeve.
And he shouldered loud once more at last,
"My father! I just stay!"

While over the table thick and fast
The fluttering "pastboards" play.
The tall dip burned fitfully wild
And flickered up on high,
And gleamed in the face of the gallant
child,
And nearly blinded his eye.

It flickered up and it flickered down,
And that last disappeared in the socket;
And the man at the table who "hailed
from town,"
slipped all of the stakes in his pocket.
And then with a burst of thunder sound,
He kicked over table and chairs,
And clearing the door with a single bound,
And slid down the banister stairs.

GRANT THE MONEY, AND THE MULE.

TO THE EDITORS OF THE CRISIS:—I read with interest your notice of Jesse Grant's biography of his son, the General, and send you the following as apropos:

CASSABIANCA THE SECOND
The boy sat on the pony's back,
As round the ring he fled—
The dust that flew up 'round the tract
Fell thick upon his head.

Yet, beautiful and firm he stood,
As born to ride— wild ponies—
A creature of uncommon pluck,
"A brick" among his cronies.

The mule ran on—he'd never stop
Without his father's word—
His father faintly crying, "wakes!"
Was smothered in the crowd.

The pony fast and faster flew,
With Joco running after—
Braided from the clown they drew,
Convulsing all with laughter.

Joco leaped with splendor wild,
Carrying his tail on high,
And set behind the gallant child
With mischief in his eye.

There came a burst of loud applause—
The boy—"O!" was he there?
Ask of Joco, who, with his paws,
Was combing Ulie's hair.

BY TELEGRAPH.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—At noon the Chief Justice took the chair. The managers on the part of the House entered. Afterwards the members of the House came in, in a body. Stanbery, Evans and Nelson, of the President's counsel, were present.

Senator Williams moved to rescind the order adopted at the last meeting, as to the order of voting on the articles.
Mr. Trumbull made a point of order that the Senate could not rescind an order which had been partially executed.

The Chief Justice submitted the point to the Senate, and the point of order was not sustained.
After some other points of order and arguments, it was voted down, and Mr. Morrill moved that the court adjourn till June 23d.

Mr. Ross moved to amend by substituting September 1st. Lost—15 to 34.
The vote on Morrill's motion resulted in a tie and the Chief Justice decided it lost.

Williams moved to proceed on the second Article, which was agreed to. The result was guilty 35; not guilty, 19.

The vote was then taken on the third Article with the same result.

Williams then moved that the Senate sitting as a Court do now adjourn sine die, which was agreed to by a vote of 34 to 16. Those voting nay were Bayard, Buckalew, Davis, Doolittle, Fowler, Henderson, Hendricks, Johnson, McCreery, Horton, Patterson, Ross, Sanbury, Trumbull and Vickers. Refuse announcing the vote, the Chief Justice said if there were no objections the Clerk would be directed to enter judgment of acquittal on the Second, Third and Eleventh Articles, which was done. The Chief Justice then declared the Senate sitting as a Court of Impeachment for the trial of Andrew Johnson, to stand adjourned without day.

Without any perceptible manifestations of feeling on the part of the supporters the members of the House then returned to their Chambers. Several Senators made brief personal explanations in regard to newspaper stories, whereupon the Senate adjourned.

Chicago, 26.—The Post's special says the Republican Senators held a caucus today to consider the propriety of accepting Forney's resignation. Quite a breeze occurred when the six Senators who voted against the impeachment entered. Wade, Chandler, Cattell, and other Radicals left the caucus and refused to participate while these were present.

The report obtained credence to-day that Seward and Randall tendered their resignation yesterday.
Washington, May 27.—Secretary Stanton has notified the President that owing to the failure of the Senate to convict the President on the articles of impeachment, thereby failing to sustain the resolution adopted July 21, that the President has no power to remove the Secretary of War, he has relinquished the War Department, leaving the same with all its books and archives in the care of Adjutant General Townsend, subject to the discretion of the President.

The nomination of General Schofield was deferred for several hours in executive session to-day. The difficulty was in the propriety of the President's message nominating Schofield, which reads "in place of Stanton removed." As the Senate had passed a resolution declaring that the President had no power to remove Stanton, Senators objected to confirming Schofield. It is probable, however, that he will be confirmed with an explanatory appendage.

Affairs at the War Department are unchanged. Gen. Townsend is still in possession of the office.
Chicago, May 28.—The Post's dispatch says Thomas has not taken possession of the War Office, and affairs remain as when Stanton vacated. The Senate will probably confirm Schofield to-morrow as Secretary of War. Cameron objected or he would have been confirmed to-day.

New York, May 27.—The Herald's special says Democratic members have signed a paper requesting the National Democratic Executive Committee to extend an invitation to the Conservative Sloopers and Sailors organizations throughout the country to attend the National Convention, July 4, and participate in the deliberations.

Gen. Thomas took possession of the War Office as Secretary ad interim.

CONGRESSIONAL.
Washington, May 27.—Upon opening the doors, the bill to amend an act granting land in aid of a railroad from California to Portland, Oregon, was passed. It extends the time for building the road. The bill to admit Arkansas was taken up and discussed without action.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Washington, June 1.—In the Senate Edmunds' resolution of thanks to Stanton was discussed. Henderson offered an amendment, voting thanks to the Chief Justice for his conduct during the impeachment trial. Rejected by 37 to 11. The Arkansas admission bill was taken up.

DEATH OF JAMES BUCHANAN.
Lancaster, June 1.—James Buchanan died at Wheatland to-day in his 79th year.

THE NEW SECRETARY OF WAR.
Washington, June 1.—Schofield took possession of the War Office. The President accompanied him and remained for a few minutes. Gen. Grant subsequently had a short interview with the new Secretary.

One of those mysterious individuals known in Tennessee as "Kuk-lux" scared a barkef out of ten years' growth. By the merest accident, the mysterious fellow, with hideous mask and grotesque costume, arrived at a spring just as a darkey came for water. "Give me a gourd of flat water, uncle," said he. The water was handed and immediately drank. Give me another. That was also swallowed.

"Uncle, hand me a bucket of that water; I'm a little dry," which also disappeared in the same way. "Look here, uncle, dip up that tub for me; I havn't had any water since the battle of Fort Pillow." But as the Kuklux man was raising the tub to drink it off, the darkey scratched gravel away from there. He had a small India rubber sack running from his whiskers through his clothes to his heel, and had his foot in the branch.

DEMOREST'S PARLOR MAGAZINE.
This excellent Magazine is constantly growing in popularity, and the secret of its success is the conscientiousness with which it is conducted. It gives all, and more than all, that it promises. It strives to meet the wants of American woman, and tells them what they want to know.

It is the most complete Fashion Magazine in the country. It is not frivolous; its teachings are high, pure, and sound, characterized by good taste and common-sense. Its departments of music, needlework, braiding, patterns, etc., are either one worth the price of subscription, which is only $3.00 per year, with a handsome and valuable premium. Office, 473 Broadway, N. Y.

"Yamhillian" terms—$3 per year.
UNION VOTERS OF YAMHILL: Shall I dribble away more time? I have been doing what I could to start you a paper. Does public sentiment demand a Republican paper? Then, it is very necessary that you extend me hand of assistance and speak a word of friendly encouragement; and that you furnish sufficient money to justify the establishment of such a sheet as will reflect credit on Yamhillian enterprise, and accomplish something for the interests of this county. No newspaper can subsist on protestations of welcome, nor grow fat on good wishes for its success. Such enterprises are introduced by a liberal advance of cash; and no journal can be started without funds.

It is generally conceded that a Republican paper ought to be established in this county. County affairs require it. RAILROAD interests affirm it. The majority demand it. Then, let no man of means take a back seat, when there are so many vacant chairs on the platform. I never like to see a man rake all his money into a purse, and then cling to it with a grasp of such tenacity, that it will be impossible for the funds to jingle. Be liberal. If you want a paper, send by the enterprise which I have undertaken. Make no picarist promises, but help what you can.

If we can enlist the masses of the people, all will be well. Success will crown our labors. Go to work, as soon as you read this. Collect all the money you can, and forward it to Dr. H. V. V. Johnson of McMinnville, who will refund it if enough is not raised. And if a sufferer at all is raised with which to start the Yamhillian, every person who advances funds shall be fully and amply compensated, or money refunded. We do not ask charity, but assistance—to start a newspaper which shall be of service to the citizens of Yamhill county. We wish every man to do his duty.
June 4, 1868.
