JOHN HIPPLE AGAIN.

The Oregonian, in a long article, tries to find excuse for our Senator with an alias, but concludes as follows:

The Senator says the act of changing his name could not be recalled when once committed. Why not? The step taken under the sudden perturbation of mind, had only to be repudiated when sober reason returned.

There is another matter connected with this remarkable history, which, besides being important in itself, throws a flood of light, it seems to us, upon the circumstances connected with his leaving Pennsylvania; and which we will state as it comes to us from an individual of high social standing now residing in this city, who speaks from personal knowledge.

By this person it is stated that about the last of April or first of May, 1860, (the reader will observe that Mr. Hipple left Pennsylvania in April of that year) the man whom we now call Senator Mitchell landed at the port of San Luis Obispo in Southern California, from a steamship bound from Panama to San Francisco.

Under the above caption, the Venango Spectator, published at Franklin, Pennsylvania, in the county adjoining the one in which John Hipple married and deserted his wife, speculates as will be seen below. Hipple's wife is now a servant in a hotel in the town in which the Spectator is published.

There is now employed in this city as a house-servant, a woman who was a few short years ago the wife of a rising young lawyer in Butler county. After her marriage there was a short year of wedded love and the birth of a daughter. Then came estrangement and aversion on the part of the husband, ending in his desertion of wife and child.

This is the statement made to us. We are not at liberty to use the name of the person making it unless the facts are denied. We do not vouch for the truth of anything of which we have not personal knowledge, but we do not believe the Senator himself will question the veracity of the person who makes these statements.

Another circumstance not without significance is that when the story of his changing his name was first made public here, the Senator denounced the statement as an unmitigated falsehood, and afterwards, and in a very short period, confessed its truth.

Does not the presence of the woman in California explain how he happened to leave Pennsylvania? Does not the whole transaction there explain the necessity for taking money with him in his flight? These questions we leave the intelligent reader to answer.

How far the Senator's course of life during his residence in this State has been such as to entitle him to oblivion of his past misdeeds, all can judge. Instead of discarding the false name he carried to California, as he might well have done on arriving here, he continued the deception till he was discovered by persons whom he could not control.

The Advocate emits a fierce criticism of Prof. O. S. Fowler's lectures in Portland. The professor has investigated theological subjects as well as others, the result being that he has come out a liberal. That paper, being the organ of illiberal dogmas, cannot be expected to look with the least degree of patience upon adverse theories though advanced by the wisest and best of our thinkers and scientists.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

Latest from the Front. Interview with Capt. Jack. Boyle's Camp, June 8.—Capt. Jack spoke as follows to-day when having his first interview with Gen. Davis. He tries to implicate Allen David, the Klamath Chief, and denies being present when Gen. Canby was killed.

Under the above caption, the Venango Spectator, published at Franklin, Pennsylvania, in the county adjoining the one in which John Hipple married and deserted his wife, speculates as will be seen below. Hipple's wife is now a servant in a hotel in the town in which the Spectator is published.

This is the statement made to us. We are not at liberty to use

States. He had left the wilds of Butler only some 13 years before, going, he cared not where, to escape the silken bonds of his marriage, which had become galling fetters of iron. Then his name was John Hipple, but the Senator, when the yeas and nays are called, will answer to the name of John H. Mitchell.

As to Gen. Canby's things he had on, he said: "I can't say anything about it. I went away. The boys who killed Gen. Canby got the things. I was there, but went off as soon as I found I could not stop them."

Jack being interrogated said: "Bogus Charley and Shacknasty Jim killed Gen. Canby. Allen David advised them to kill Canby, so they did it. I am telling the truth; I did not kill him; I had it done, but did not do it."

Jack's answers are, of course, a tissue of lies, but many of them agree that old Sconches, from the reservation, was a messenger and took the money given him by Capt. Jack, and charge Allen David, the Klamath Chief, with urging them to make war and kill Canby.

There are now but three or four Modoc bucks out. The only one of note is Long Jim, who escaped from the guard at Gen. Gillem's camp before the massacre of Gen. Canby.

Albany, June 11.—The Grand Lodge of I. O. G. T., now in session, elected the following officers to-day: Tilmor Ford, G. W. C.; Mrs. M. E. Hoxter, G. W. Counselor; Miss Annie Underwood, G. W. V. T.; James A. Smith, G. W. S.; J. B. McClane, G. T.

A dwelling, belonging to R. McConnell, on Oak creek, was burned yesterday. Loss unknown; no insurance.

Washington, June 11.—The massacre of the Modoc captives at Lost River crossing is denounced by every one here. Both General Sherman with the military and Attorney-General Williams with judicial authorities, will exercise every possible means to capture and punish the culprits.

A tin wedding was lately observed after a rather unusual manner. The wife eloped with a young fellow, taking with her all the "tin" she had saved in ten years. The discovery of her absence closed the festivities.

This odd advertisement is from an English paper: "My husband is out on a strike. He prefers that to work. He ain't of any use to me. I must work to keep the children and myself. His ten shillings goes in beer. I'll swap him while he's on the strike for a sewing machine."
