Profits of Farming.

The Louisville Courier-Journal has a suggestive article on "The Profits of Farming," in which it takes issue with the prevailing idea that agriculture is one of the least profitable occupations.

Agriculture should be the most ennobling of all vocations. It would be if farmers cultivated the earth as teachers develop the head, and preachers educate the heart.

Farmers have unequalled natural advantages for health, strength, and longevity. The statistics of disease and the tables of mortality, however, are against them.

Franklin said: "When you run in debt you give another power over your liberty." Our old friend Franklin was a practical man, and uttered many wise and truthful sayings.

Not less than thirty women are regularly employed upon the daily press of New York, says a correspondent, at a salaries of from $20 to $50 a week, and the number is increasing.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue will take no present action on the patent cigar-box question.
