

LAFAYETTE COURIER.

When George W. Peck took hold of the Lansing Journal he had the worst subscription book ever seen.

"Where's Peck?" he shouted as soon as his head was inside the door.

Mr. Peck responded, and the farmer pulled out and flourished the bill he had received, and continued:

"This is a nice way to do business, this is! Here's a bill for ten dollars for my subscription to your paper, and not a credit for anything."

Mr. Peck responded that if the farmer had paid anything it should be indented on the bill.

"Paid anything! I guess I have!" retorted the man. "Why there was a watermelon, and a peck of apples, and that Hubbard squash, and— and— wall, I guess that's all, and if you will just pass receipts and call it square I'll bring in some dried apples the very next time I come!"

Mr. Peck undertook to explain matters, but the farmer got mad and shot out of the door, crying: "Stop it! Stop it! Your paper never was worth readin' anyhow!"

An exchange gets off this: "A Cornwall farmer told us that his cattle were so gentle and kind that they followed him all over the farm, and in passing a haystack they would often call him, upon which he would obligingly give each one a lock of hay. The traits referred to are not uncommon among domesticated animals. We were visiting a family last week in the vicinity of Goshen, and, having occasion to cross a field where a male cow was grazing, when he followed us to the gate with an eager expression, and, lifting the gate off its hinges, he took after us at full speed. No doubt he would have called when we passed a haystack, but the folks were waiting dinner for us and we couldn't stop. So we left our coat tail and a portion of our pants on the gentle creature's horns, and went into the house."

Remedy for rheumatism.—A patent medicine advertisement says "This article will cure the rheumatism of nineteen years' standing." As far as it goes this is perfectly satisfactory; but we want light upon another view of the matter. Suppose a man's rheumatism is only of three years' standing, must he let it stand sixteen years more before the medicine will cure it? Or if it has stood twenty years is there no hope of a remedy? We want to know about this. It is going to be very unpleasant for a man to endure rheumatism for seventeen or eighteen years before he can take medicine for it.

An exchange says that "M. T." writes us: "You remarked in your paper last week that you felt your pockets in vain for a cabbage to level at those three Hiawathas who were so discordantly whistling 'Mulligan Guards' through Main street. You should have felt about your head." So we did. Our hat was felt.

In a country town in Illinois a few evenings since, at a panorama of the Bible, a little eight-year-old sat wrapped in admiration at the scene until the picture of Jacob and Rebecca at the well appeared, when he looked up and said: "Pa, do you see that picture? I'll just bet five dollars they are Grangers."

After several years of reflection, I have come to the conclusion that the three most difficult things in life are—1st. Carryin' an arm-full of live eels up a steep hill without spillin' an eel; 2d. Actin as a referee at a dog fight without getting mad; 3d. Editin' a newspaper.

A New Bedford paper tells a story about a shop keeper, who advised a lady customer to buy two mohair switches instead of one, as the article was becoming scarce. He said that the man whom he hired to hunt moos had only caught two within a fortnight.

We hear of men confessing on their death-bed to the crimes of murder, abduction and incendiarism, but whoever heard of a dying man confessing to stealing papers? Nobody! Death cannot scare that man.

A young widow advertises in a Cincinnati paper that she has an income of three thousand dollars a year, and will marry any man, young or old, who possesses the same means, and can produce a certificate of good character.

GILKAD'S SECTION.—Stephen Gilkad used to say in his old days: "I have always considered advertising liberally and long to be the great medium of success in business, and the prelude to wealth. And I have made it an invariable rule to advertise in the dulllest times as well as the busiest, long experience having taught me that money thus spent is well laid out, and by continually keeping my business before the public I have secured many sales that I otherwise would have lost."

Advertise Your Business. Keep Your Name before the Public. Judicious Advertising will insure a Fortune.
