

IMMIGRATION.

It is confidently expected that there will be a very large immigration to this coast during the coming summer. Many causes are at work to induce our Eastern friends to emigrate. The winter has been exceptionally severe; business is wretched; work is scarce, and distress is almost universal. People passing through such experiences as these very naturally inquire whether they could not better themselves by emigrating to some other part of the country. Accounts of the mild climate, unbounded resources and commercial prosperity of Oregon excite a longing to share these advantages; and but for the extraordinary depression in real estate, which compels men to sell at a great sacrifice, or wait for years before they can realize on their property, the tide of travel to the Pacific coast would soon swell to ten times its present proportion. We shall, however, have an extraordinary influx of strangers this year; and we should make corresponding preparations to receive them, and encourage their permanent settlement. Opportunities should be given them to acquire moderate sized farms at reasonable prices. Small farms will give us population, schools, churches, civilization, wealth, and importance. We are glad to notice a disposition on the part of heavy land owners in California to divide their property for settlers. Years of stock raising has convinced them that an occasional dry season with short feed will suffice to sweep away such profits as may have been made. They have also noticed the effect produced on other large tracts by settlements and cultivation. They begin to see that, after all industrious settlers pay better than cattle or sheep, and all questions of philanthropy aside, our land owners are now beginning to see their interest. Whatever the cause we are glad that so many large tracts are coming into market, as it does away with the most serious objections that strangers make to settle in Oregon and California. In this connection we would respectfully suggest to the railroad and steamboat companies that a very material reduction of fare to actual immigrants looking for homes would now be in order. The transportation of his produce, and the money spent in ordinary travel by himself and family, will soon repay the company a thousand fold for any concessions made. In fact, a little assistance to the immigrant on his arrival is all that is necessary. He will soon be abundantly able to take care of himself.

DENONCED BY THOUSANDS.

There are thousands of honest Republicans all over the country, who indignantly denounce the Electoral returning board for gross partisanship, and who regard the work of Bradley and Strong as simply infamous. Even those who are willing to profit by their treachery and perjury will hereafter look upon them with the same scorn with which Benedict Arnold was looked upon by his purchasers. Strong and Bradley went upon the bench of the Supreme Court as the result of a corrupt bargain, by which their votes were literally bought in advance by the corporations which procured their appointments. They have not been entitled to confidence or to respect from that time, and whatever social toleration they have gained has now been destroyed by their submission to the demand of the old masters. It has been proposed to burn these judicial traitors in effigy, as a mark of the public resentment at their infamous action. But that is no remedy for the wrong they have inflicted. Let them be shunned and despised by all decent men, and their names be branded with deserved disgrace, so that the rising generation shall have the example as a warning before their eyes.

Secor Robinson has spent one hundred and twenty-five millions patching up old navy ships. Yet the navy is of about as much use for fighting purposes as a collection of mud scows. It will long remain a wonder how any people could in patience bear such corruption in high office. They did last November rise up and by a million majority of the white voters demand that honest men should be put at the head of their Government, but now the party which stole their money have stolen the Presidency from them.

A BEAUTIFUL GROUP.

As a national gallery of art is proposed to be erected at Washington, under the auspices of the Fraudulent President, the portraits of the National returning board should be among the first to decorate its walls. Judge Bradley, Strong, and Miller, with Senators Edmunds, Morton, and Frelinghuysen, and Representatives Hoar and Garfield—the immortal eight—would make a notable collection of heads. Wells, Anderson, Casenave, and Kenner, as pendants to this group of patriots, would give it historical interest, as the founders of a new system of making Presidents of defeated candidates, by counting votes that were never cast, and expunging inconvenient thousands.

If there be any choice between the National Board and the Louisiana Board, it is entirely in favor of the latter. They are only common swindlers, while the others are uncommon. Wells had cheated the State as a defaulter. Anderson had cheated at keno and defrauded the State while in the Senate. Kenner had forged dead men's names on the pay rolls of the city of New Orleans while a public officer. Casenave was a hired tool ready to do the work of his employers. They were pursuing their profession only when they altered, mutilated, or forged returns for a price in hand.

Strong and Bradley and Frelinghuysen are elders of the Church. Hoar is sanctimonious. Garfield preaches. Edmunds prays occasionally. Morton worships the devil and all his works, and Miller worships Morton. These eight Christian Judges and statesmen have approved, endorsed, sustained, and justified the work of their four brothers in Louisiana, who don't trouble themselves much about Christianity, the Church, or the devil. They mean business all the time, and do not affect puritanical virtues. Therefore, we insist they must all be painted together, and that Wells & Company have the advantage of the National Board.

SENSIBLE ADDRESS.

The National Democratic Committee has issued a very able and carefully prepared address to the American people, protesting against the vile processes by which the Hayes infamy was secured, and calling upon the honest and patriotic people to use every effort possible to manifest their condemnation and abhorrence of the act. The address is too long to admit of publication in full. It cites and condemns the frauds practiced by the partisan commission in order to secure a President to their liking and concludes as follows:

By these methods, under the forms prescribed by the law constituting the electoral commission, Rutherford B. Hayes has been declared President of the United States. His title rests upon disfranchisement of lawful states, certificates of returning officers acting corruptly, and the decision of the commission which has refused to hear evidence of alleged fraud. For the first time are the American people confronted with the fact of a President fraudulently elected. His inauguration will be peaceful, and in that hour the most infamous conspiracy of all history will receive its crown. In the exciting days past the forbearance of the people has maintained peace. Let it not, however, from this be understood that the fraud to be consummated March 4th will be silently acquiesced in by the country. Let no hour pass in which the usurpation is forgotten. Let agitation be unceasing, that at every opportunity the people may express the abhorrence of the outrage. Let want of confidence be voted at every election, in Mr. Hayes and his administration. Both must be controlled by conspirators, who have elected the one and will organize the other; and whatever of good may come from either, will always be darkened by stain upon the title. Let the Democratic party at once organize for new contests, to secure overwhelming victories that conspirators may never again attempt the experiment which now humiliates the republic, and has installed in its highest office an usurper.

Zach Chanler, boasts that the Republicans have reduced politics to a science about which the Democrats know nothing. This must be the science of theft. The Lieutenants of Grantism, such as Belknap, Robeson, Madison Wells, and Zach himself have displayed among them great proficiency in this science; beginning with the Treasury they have at last stolen the Presidency.

CONFIRMED.

The cabinet appointments of Hayes have been confirmed, there being very few dissenting voices. Those who opposed the appointments did so from a mere personal ill-feeling. It is hardly saying too much to remark that the cabinet had been selected beforehand and by those who will hold the reins of government in their hands, although they are in the back ground, and who are willing to let Hayes have all the honors or dishonors accruing from the good or bad policies adopted by the administration, so that their aims and jobs are carried through, and their pockets lined by measures which they will hereafter be able to work through. The appointees are all tools, and have been used to benefit returning board Hayes. In speaking of the new cabinet the Albany Democrat says:

It will be seen that Hayes is remembering his friends. Everts was his attorney before the bogus Electoral Commission; Sherman was his right-blower in all his Presidential aspirations; Thompson is Morton's pet, which the same it is rewarding the great Moxey himself; Key was a Confederate Colonel and a Democrat Senator from Tennessee who kept the Southern members from kicking up at the fraudulent Commission's acts, and Schurz went back on his Cooper Institute declarations and stamped Ohio for Hayes. Thus does inconsistency and treachery have its reward.

A BAD PRECEDENT.

The Fraudulent Vice-President elect looks upon the decision in the Louisiana case as "just and honorable," and says: "A bad precedent would have been set had the Commission decided to go behind the Returning Board's declarations," two years ago, William A. Wheeler said that a caucus made by this same Returning Board had no validity, and was "entitled to no respect whatever." We do not profess to understand the process by which Wheeler has wriggled round from one position to the other, but he has certainly done so, to the satisfaction of his own conscience, if he happens to possess one, and should therefore be known to history as Wriggle Around Wheeler.

THE DESTRUCTION OF THE SUPREMACY COURT.

If Congress had set out deliberately to devise a scheme to render the character of our Supreme Judges contemptible in the estimation of all Americans, Congress could not have invented a more effective plan for the purpose than this compromise farce has proved to be. It has already done more to bring that high tribunal into popular contempt than all that has ever before occurred. If, which we doubt, there should be left any vestige of a decent public respect for a court, the majority of whose Judges have shown themselves to be contemptible partisan demagogues, the world may well marvel thereat.

It certainly cannot be very pleasant for Radicals to contemplate the fact that the means which have been used to secure the electoral votes in South Carolina, Florida, and Louisiana, and which have been recognized as binding by the Electing Commission, if practiced in other states will always keep Democrats in power in a majority of the States and keep the count of 193 Electoral votes. If a Returning Board may count out and count in at will in Louisiana or Florida may not such Boards do likewise in other States. What is legal in Louisiana must be legal in Oregon, Ohio, or other States. This is a very short step to national ruin and anarchy blazed out by the Republican leaders. While our votes and voice shall always be in opposition to such violations of law and Republican principles, we cannot very well avoid pointing to the Radical cut-off to despotism.

It is a great misfortune, but it is a fact, that the Supreme Court of the United States no longer has the respect or confidence of the people. When it was packed to render a particular decision in the Legal-tender case, the popular faith in this court, once so illustrious and almost religiously esteemed, received a great shock; but now that is a plainly and avowedly partisan body, the regard for it is gone altogether.

John Sherman thanks God that Congress has no power to reverse the fraudulent decision of the Louisiana returning board. He should not thank God for this. He should thank Joe Bradley.

There are men in the country who cry out against popular suffrage. They attribute to it the evils from which the nation now suffers. But they are all wrong. Popular suffrage has stood the test well, and at the last election it gloriously vindicated itself. Against the millions raised by the party in power from its hundred thousand officeholders and its numerous rings, against artful appeals to selfish business and corporate interests, and against the vote of the blacks, driven to the polls by carpet-bag leaders, the people won a great and complete victory. Even in the States where the Republicans had always been strongest, their majority were largely reduced, and some of them only saved by the skin of the teeth. But now the people have been cheated out of the fruits of that victory so gallantly won.

According to the rulings and decision of the U. S. Returning Board or electing Commission, nothing can render a man ineligible as an elector—he may be dead, disfranchised, convicted of crime, hold another office be an alien, yet none of these can disqualify him. No provision of the Constitution, no law of the United States, no provision of any State constitution or any State law can effect his eligibility—provided always he is a Radical and his vote is necessary to elect a Radical candidate.

Hayes has not recognized Chamberlain or Packard as yet and from indications is not likely to. He has advised them to peacefully withdraw from the contest, and has offered them appointments. He accepts the count of the fraudulent returning board in his case but ignores it when others than himself are concerned. This is virtually admitting that he has obtained his seat through fraud. But then it is a poor rule that will not work both ways.

Jay Gould's Tribune says it will gratify the people to have Grant connected with further operations for funding the national debt. Grant's Black Friday financing, in partnership with Jay Gould and Jim Fisk, recommends him as a most excellent man to keep out of any place connected with the finances, for which Jay Gould's stock jobbing organ nominates him.

It is shameful that a man like Senator Robeson should be allowed to go out of office without punishment. He has got away with more of the people's money than any other of Grant's friends. It has been the most skillful and barefaced public plundering in all our history.

There have been several Presidents who represented a minority of the voters of the United States, but Returning B. Hayes will be the first occupant of the White House who received neither a majority of the popular vote nor a majority of the electoral vote.

The sum of $20,000 is to be taken out of the Treasury and paid over as a donation to sixteen unsuccessful contestants for seats in the House of Representatives.

HOLLOWAYS PILLS.

Let the Suffering and diseased read the following: Let all who have been given up by the Doctors, and spoken of as incurable, read the following: Let all who can believe facts, and can have faith in evidence, read the following: Know all men by these presents, that on this, the twentieth day of June in the year of our Lord, One thousand eight hundred and sixty six, personally came Joseph Holloway to me known as such, and being sworn deposed as follows: "That he is the sole general agent for the United States and is sworn thereof for preparations or medicines known as Dr. Holloway's Pills and Ointment, and that the following certificates are verbatim copies to the best of his knowledge and belief."

June 1st, 1866. Dr. HOLLOWAY:—I take my pen to write you of my great relief and that the awful pain in my side has left me at last—thanks to your pills. Oh, Doctor, how thankful I am that I can get some sleep. I can never write it enough. I thank you again and again, and am sure that you are really the friend of all sufferers. I could not help writing to you, and hope you will not take it amiss. JAMES MYERS, 14 Wall Street, New York.

This is to certify that I was discharged from the army with Chronic Diarrhea, and have been cured by Dr. Holloway's Pills. WILSON HARVEY, New York, April 7, 1866. 21 Pitt Street.

The following is an interesting case of a man employed in an iron foundry, who in pouring molten iron into a flask that was damp and wet caused an explosion. The molten iron was thrown around and on him in a perfect shower, and he was burned dreadfully. The following certificate was given to me, by him, about eight weeks after the accident: New York, Jan. 11, 1866. My name is Jacob Hardy; I am an iron founder; I was badly burned by hot iron in November last; my burns healed, but I had a running sore on my leg that would not heal. I tried Holloway's Ointment and it cured me in a few weeks. This is all true and anybody can see me at Jackson's Iron Works, 2d Avenue. J. HARDY, 119 Goerch street.

Extracts from Various Letters.

"I had no appetite; Holloway's Pills gave me a hearty one." "Your Pills are marvelous." "I send for another box, and keep them in the house." "Dr. Holloway has cured my headache that was chronic." "I gave one of your pills to my babe for cholera morbus. The dear little thing got well in a day." "My masses of a morning is now cured." "Your box of Holloway's Ointment cured me of moles in the head. I rubbed some of your Ointment behind the ears, and the noise 'has left.'" "Send me two boxes, I want one for a poor family." "I enclose a dollar, your price is 25 cents, but the medicine is to me worth a dollar." "Send me five boxes of your Pills." "Let me have three boxes of your Pills by return mail, for Chills and Fevers, as these, but want of space compels me to conclude."

In all diseases affecting these organs, whether they secrete too much or too little water; or whether they are afflicted with stone or gravel, or with acids and puny in the loins over the regions of the kidneys, these pills should be taken according to the printed directions, and the Ointment should be well rubbed into the small of the back at bed time.
