HOTEL QUESTION.

If a hotel with 150 rooms were erected in Marshfield and conducted in modern style with the best of service the venture as a financial success would be better than any investment that could be made at the present time on Coos Bay. The present hotels turn as many people away as are taken in. And at that about every available room in the business section of the city is under lease by the hotels. Strangers coming to the city seek first a good hostelry, and, suited in this respect, they have an inclination to look into the resources and advantages which are advertised for the city. A stranger coming in on a boat, however, and not being able to find lodging is not in a humor to investigate much further than the securing of a return boat passage. To build up a city the first thing to do is to eliminate those features which act as a serious detriment to the city's growth. Nobody will deny that the hotel question is an obstacle that should be removed first in this city's onward progress.

RUNAWAYS.

Several runaway has occurred in Marshfield of late because of the fact that teams have not been tied. That nobody was injured was because of the fact that each time the runaways have occurred pedestrians have had ample warning of the approach of the maddened beasts. If there is any one thing that should be rigidly enforced it is the matter of keeping horses tied when drivers leave them on the streets. The only way in which the necessity of it can be shown is to impose a fine on all who violate the ordinance. Human life is imperiled and property is endangered by runaway horses going at wild speed down a thoroughfare. It is understood that an ordinance is in effect which would compel drivers to tie their horses. Ordinances are not worth the paper upon which they are written if they are not enforced. Some day some little child will be trampled out of all semblance to a human being and too late we will realize—what ought to have been done.

GRADUATING DAY.

Soon "graduating day" will be with us once more, and we will assemble to see the white gown'd girls and the embryo men taking their farewell from the protecting care of the schoolhouse and entering into the busy turmoil of life. There is an impressive solemnity about a graduating day. It marks an epoch in the life of the school-boy and girl that stands out in after years, for it means the taking up of life in all its seriousness. The transition is so gradual, however, that few realize until after years when the happy care-free days of youth became a memory of the past. We never think of these things when we gather to receive the hard-earned diplomas and look down into the upturned smiling faces of friends and relatives. The spirit of the day is in harmony with the bright sunshine and verdant nature outside.

STEAMSHIP SERVICE.

Coos Bay people will appreciate the additional steamship service between this port and Portland. It is well known that the great portion of both the passenger and freight traffic comes via the Rose City. In the past we have found occasion to protest strongly because of the fact that Coos Bay had been slighted by the big steamship companies. The placing of the Breakwater and Czarina on the run clearly illustrates the fact that Coos Bay as a port of importance is coming to be recognized by the big steamship companies. The Czarina will be a valuable addition to our freight service. We can feel assured that with this freighter in service the congestion of freight that acted as such a serious convenience last winter will not be repeated.
