C. A. SMITH.

If it is the pay roll that talks then that of the C. A. Smith Company is talking like a peal of thunder, for it is estimated that he is paying out more money to carpenters, mill men, machinists and common labor than any other concern on Coos Bay. Not every incoming steamer is loaded to the guards with the massive machinery that will soon be installed in the Bunker Hill mill that, when completed, will be among the large sawmills of the Pacific Coast.

But the ships carry something besides machinery to Isthmus Slough, for every incoming boat brings to the north end of the bay not less than a dozen, and sometimes as high as thirty, of the sturdy sons of Minnesota, who have proved their mettle by the best of time as mechanics and mill men, and have in them the stuff to make Oregon citizenship equal to that of Minnesota to which the hardy races of Northern Europe contributed so much.

Nearly all the men coming here are sober and industrious and add materially to the wealth and development of Coos Bay. No one knows as well as C. A. Smith what he has done, is doing, and what big enterprises he has in store for the future. All that he has given out for publication is that he intends to close his mills in Minneapolis when through, for by that time he will have cut all the lumber.

It is the possession of this knowledge that causes C. A. Smith to predict with great confidence that Coos Bay will become the metropolis of Oregon.

Any one who is at all skeptical should take a walk over to Bunker Hill and see the flats for half a mile being planted over and supported by a forest of piles driven home by the huge pile driver.

He ought to inspect the three-story Bunker Hotel with every room occupied by the army of carpenters and mechanics that are shaping the timbers to bear the huge machinery for this giant mill.

This last week saw the boarded molds constructed to run in the foundation of one of the largest and most substantial office buildings that any mill can boast of.

Last week saw another pile driver completed and raise its head high in the sky; an 80-foot scow is now being corked and it will be but one of a fleet of barges to handle the product of the big mill.

One glance at the interior of the new machine shop shows that C. A. Smith means business, for it is equipped with the most modern machinery of any plant in the State.

IN SOCIETY.

ALUMNI MEETING.

The members of the Alumni association met with Tom Bennett, president and made arrangements for the annual banquet, which it was decided to give on the night of June 28 and in addition appointed a committee to make arrangements for the first Alumni hop. The dance will be given the night following the banquet and will probably be held in the Odd Fellow's hall. The committee appointed to oversee the dance and to appoint other committees for the carrying out of the work is as follows: Sam Marsden, chairman; Misses Eva Anderson, Alice McCormac and Agnes Hutchinson; Messers Walter Butler and John Kronholm. This committee will meet soon and appoint committees for decoration, music, invitations and general arrangements.

The committee to oversee the arrangements for the banquet are as follows: Mrs. E. Mings, chairman; Misses Genevieve Sengstacken, Eva Anderson, Nellie Tower, May Vanderburg and Messrs. Sam Marsden and Emil R. Peterson. Other committees will be appointed by this committee.

It was decided to have an Alumni song this year as something out of the ordinary and the following committee was appointed to arrange words to be submitted at the next meeting of the Alumni: Miss Agnes Hutchinson, chairman; Miss Genevieve Sengstacken and Mrs. E. Mings. The words will be arranged to go with some well known music.

STUDENTS' RECITAL.

At her studio on Broadway, in Marshfield, Mrs. Farringer held a students' recital for her piano pupils Friday afternoon. That the pupils are making rapid progress was attested by the ease with which they executed their various numbers. Following is the program:
Duet, "Restless Gallop" (S. W. Mecham)—Misses Wina and Isis Marsh.
"Lovely Flower" (Gounod)—Ursula Farringer.
"Dance of the Sea Dragon" (C. W. Cragmann)—Miss Wilson.
Duet, "Immortal" (Weber)—Mary Kruse and Mrs. Farringer.
"Valse, No. 5" (Charles Dennee)—Blanche Landrith.
"The Hunter's Song" (Gurlitt)—Mary Kruse.
"Tarrantelle, B flat" (A. Wesley Huges)—Ruth Allen.

EAGLES' PICNIC TODAY.

Today will the Eagles shine in all resplendent glory. The final arrangements for the annual picnic at Charleston Bay today were made yesterday. Three launches have been chartered to handle the large crowd expected. The boats will leave the local dock about eight o'clock this morning, and several return trips will be made during the afternoon. The final trip home will be made at sundown. Nothing has been left undone by the committee in charge to make this the most successful event of the kind ever given by the Eagles.

GRADUATING DAY.

The graduating exercises of the Marshfield school will be held June 28. As yet the details of the program for the day have not been arranged, but Mr. Francis Clark has been tendered the delivering of the baccalaureate address. The commencement exercises will be held in the Masonic opera house. The class this year will be composed entirely of girls. Following are the names of the young ladies now in the tenth year of the Marshfield school: Misses Clara Myren, Marjorie Cowan, Edna Brainard, Annie Parry, Selma Johnson. The class motto for this year is: "Here Endeth the First Lesson."

DR. INGRAM RETURNS.

Dr. J. W. Ingram arrived home yesterday by stage after a pleasure and business trip of several weeks' duration in the east and south. Dr. Ingram states he is back to stay a while and will take up his practice with renewed effort. Mrs. Ingram will return from Seattle in a few weeks.

MISS DELIA CHAPMAN LEAVES.

Miss Delia Chapman will leave today on the steamer Alliance for Portland, from which place she will go to Monmouth to attend the graduating exercises at the State Normal School, from which place her sister Miss Ada, will receive her diploma. Miss Ada Chapman will teach in the local school the coming term.

EAGLES DANCE.

In spite of a drizzling rain there was a good attendance at the dance given by the Eagles in the I. O. O. F. hall Saturday night. The musical numbers were especially good, and there were many encores.

COMING RACE MEET

Local Enthusiasts Making Extensive Preparations For Races on July 3—Hume's Horses.

Local racing enthusiasts are making preparation for what is believed will be one of the most successful running events ever held on Coos Bay. Several strings of horses are now receiving daily workouts, and more stables are to be represented the coming week. The track is now being rolled and the stables prepared to receive the horses. Work on the grand stand will be started the early part of the week.

F. P. Norton's horse, Headlight, is being trained every day and shows good form. Among the horses to be brought here the coming week will be three from R. D. Hume's stables, of Wedderburn. The races will be held July 3.

WEATHERWAX LEAVES.

The schooner J. M. Weatherwax went down the bay yesterday evening loaded with a cargo of lumber for San Francisco.
