Suit after suit has been selling, and our workrooms are so crowded already that we positively cannot promise delivery of any suit that requires altering earlier than three days from the date of sale.

- $25 to $35 Silk Shirtwaist Suits, all go, choice ..... $15.00

From 8:30 Thursday morning until late last night this store was continually crowded with eager buyers throughout every section of the store.

We knew the values offered were better, and the prices lower than ever before, but, frankly, we never dreamed the people would so fully appreciate it and buy and buy as they really have.

For the coming week, we anticipate still greater buying, and why? Simply because those who have already bought will not only be back again this week to buy more, but they will have so widely advertised it to their friends and acquaintances that they, too, will be here.

And another good reason why you should be here is that many of the principal items offered at record breaking prices were not shown last week, owing to insufficient room. These will be put out early Monday morning, and, like all the other goods to be cleared, will remain on the tables until disposed of.

Here are given some items of interest, but hundreds of items of great savings must be omitted from this ad.

TALKS TO IOWA PENCIL ARTISTS

Geo. Roberts, Former Mint Director, Explains the Railroad Situation.

PUBLIC NOT WELL INFORMED

Says Newspapers Are Hastily Edited and Therefore Often Unreliable.

Esterville, Iowa, Aug. 7.—Geo. Roberts, former director of the Mint, was the principal speaker at the banquet at tonight's joint session of the Upper Des Moines and Corn Belt Editorial Associations. Roberts is one of the original members of the former association.

Roberts president of the Commercial National Bank of Chicago discussed the tendency to enlarge governmental functions and the difficulties to be met with in such efforts. He said in part:

"For a concrete illustration, take the situation now presented by the enactment of the new federal railway legislation and the public utilities act of New York State. These acts undoubtedly embody a sound public policy. The public control of monopolies whose services are necessary to the community is inevitable. That argument is over, but the problem I believe is yet to be dealt with. Nothing is disposed of by merely turning it over to the government to be managed. This question is much larger than the simple regulation of profits upon capital already invested in public service corporations; how much larger is indicated by the fact that more than a million dollars in new securities have been offered to the public by this class of American corporations since January 1, of the present year.

"There must be a broad and popular market, such as only general confidence can give to absorb this never ending stream of new securities. The amounts drawn from properties in dividends from year to year is small compared with the amount of new capital required to keep their facilities up to the expending needs of the country. It is obvious that unless this proposed regulation prove in practice to be reasonably acceptable to the investigating public, capital will turn into other channels, with resulting injury to the public enormously more serious than any probable loss to security holders. It may be agreed that the public has no intention of being unjust to railroad property; that is not the point at issue. The public can not be expected to act with wisdom unless it has full and correct information. The best board of directors would go wrong otherwise. Unfortunately the public's sources of information, particularly about any subject of political action are very uncertain. The average business man must form his own opinions upon a hasty reading of hastily edited newspapers, and nobody knows the faults of the modern daily papers better than the men who make them.

"The higher organization of society waits upon the development in the press of a higher sense of social responsibility. Society cannot undertake and successfully perform the more complex duties that are proposed for it unless this organ of social consciousness performs its work soberly and faithfully.

"There is no occupation in the world with a man can more worthily be content than that of editing a newspaper. He has a business and in it, if he has the true spirit of his profession, the money making features become subordinate and incidental. His heart is in the public concerns to which he devotes his pen. The most rational ambition a man can have is to be independent, have money, to care independently for those dependent upon him, hold a responsible position in the community and to be able to exert an influence upon his fellows. No other occupation realizes these aims more completely than that of the editor, particularly the editor who owns his paper and writes his heart's convictions."

ALFALFA CULTURE PROVES PROFITABLE

Considerable interest is being manifested in the raising of alfalfa in Oregon. Experiments have been tried in various parts of the Willamette valley, and all have met with good success; so much so in fact, that it is a certainty that alfalfa will soon become one of Oregon's best crops. The Southern Pacific company directed experimental tracts ranging from one to ten acres in size and the results so far attained from these experiments are much more favorable than could have reasonably been anticipated, and demonstrate beyond question that alfalfa can and will be successfully grown in all sections.

Armored Cruisers Will Sail Soon. Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—Within 10 days officials of the navy department says the Washington and Tennessee, two of the newest armored cruisers of the navy will be on the way to San Francisco, as advanced guard of the fleet to sail to the coast in the fall. The Washington and Tennessee have just arrived from France and will sail as soon as minor repairs are made.

MOORS' LOSSES IN LATE FIGHT ESTIMATED 2000

French Lost Five Killed—Spaniards Lose in Killed and Wounded. Paris, Aug. 9.—Admiral Philibert's report says that on August 7 the Du Chayla lost five killed. He adds there were also a number killed and wounded among the Spanish forces. The Moorish losses, on account of the crossfire of the Galliee, were large. Special dispatches from Tangier estimate the Moors losses in the 49 hours fighting at from 1800 to 2,000 men.

Willis Britt Denies Bribe Story. San Francisco, Aug. 9.—Willis Britt, brother of Jimmie Britt, denies the newspaper statement that he bribed Jimmy Burns (Memsie) to call off his fight with Joe Gans in Los Angeles. He said he went to Los Angeles regarding an offer of $50,000 by Ely Nevada, people for a fight between Britt and Gans.

Burns and Gans Fight August 23. Los Angeles, Aug. 9.—The fight between Joe Gans and Jimmy Burns (Memsie) set for August 16 and then called off, is reset for August 23.
