WHEAT CROPS SUFFER CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE

Hail Has Injured Many Wheat Fields In the Northern Idaho District.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 31.—Reports from the grain fields over the Inland Empire show that heavy damage has been done to the wheat crop by the rains of the past few days. At 10 o'clock tonight the Palouse country reported clear weather with prospects of resuming harvest tomorrow morning. Ritzville also reported a light shower but indications are that weather in Adams County will allow of the early resumption of the harvest work. The weather was threatening in Lincoln County. At Davenport, the harvest was stopped in the afternoon by heavy rains and late at night the indications are that more rain might follow.

Reports from Sprague were to the effect that there had been a very heavy rain and no harvesting could be done for several days. In the vicinity of Davenport there has been little damage done as yet owing to the fact that the grain there is all Spring wheat and is not ripe yet. Around Sprague the crop is more forward, and it is thought the damage will be greater. Growers in the vicinity of Colfax say that they do not believe there has been any damage that will cut in heavily on the output. There will be some shattering and this is the most serious proposition up to date.

Reports in the North Idaho country say that there will be heavy damage from the hail storms which have visited that country quite frequently this season. Some fields are beaten down and almost ruined. Belated reports show that on Saturday the damage from hail was quite severe.

In Adams County, this state, especially in the southern part, the rains of Saturday and Sunday were extremely heavy. In places there were cloudbursts, which swept away many fields, and there was hail which did heavy damage. On the whole, there is apparently little to base a forecast for good weather for the remainder of the season. Probably the harvest is half completed, taking the Inland Empire as a whole.

Some admired by hundreds the past week was grown in the yard of Mrs. Hazard. It was plucked from the only Magnolia tree to be found in Coos county. The large sun flower was grown by Mrs. Hirst. The sample of celery was placed on exhibit by Mrs. Scott. A number of manufactured articles will be put in place this week.

The friendly rivalry and interest manifested in Coos Bay products, presages that the time is nigh at hand when the people will resent derision that may be directed at them for carelessness in caring for orchards, ranches and dairy farms. Indications are that soon the slogan, "Coos Bay against the World" will be echoed by all.

NOTED SCIENTIST WILL VISIT MARSHFIELD

The phenomenal medical expert who has performed so many wonderful cures along the line of bloodless surgery is to visit this city in the next few days. He has been east and south installing the wonderful Syarthgil in the leading hospitals and medical colleges for the last year. He is the great champion of bloodless surgery, and has been demonstrating the science to the medical profession.

When the great Lorenz visited America and performed some wonderful cures the medical profession was greatly benefited—but the work that is now being done by the phenomenal medical expert far surpasses the great achievements of Lorenz.

Some friends have induced this marvelous man to visit the Coos Bay country for an outing prior to his engagement in San Francisco and Los Angeles where he is to install the new and wonderful methods of bloodless surgery. It is to be hoped that he can be induced to give some public demonstrations in the cure of the heretofore incurable diseases. The papers of the east and south have been filled with accounts of the marvelous cures he is making.

He has perfected the Syarthgil—which cures any form of pain without medicine—it also cures appendicitis in half an hour without the knife. With the Syarthgil and other methods of bloodless surgery he is enabled to remove gallstones, tumors and cancers without knife, pain or blood. Scjatic rheumatism he cures in a few days no matter of how long standing. Nervous troubles and female diseases vanish under this new system of bloodless surgery. There are many old chronic cases in the Coos Bay country needing his attention, and if he can be induced to see these people while on his visit here it will be a great blessing.

In these new and perfected methods many so-called incurable diseases vanish quickly.

An opera house will be tendered him to demonstrate in and make public cures if he can be induced to accept the invitation. Due notice will be given in this paper of time and place where the public can see this wonderful man and his marvelous work.
