Protect Game From Wanton Hunters.

Mr. W. R. Hurst, wife, daughter and son-in-law, are in Marshfield for quille on their way back to their home near Port Orford. Mr. Hurst reports having a case to be put before the courts of a Baudon man who was recently in Curry county chasing deer with dogs and killing a doe. Mr. Hurst is game warden and proposes to protect the best hunting grounds in the state. He says people from California and some portions of Oregon are in the habit of coming into their country and killing deer regardless of law. He is going coming there from California to kill elk as soon as the season opens, and he proposes to camp on their trail and see there are no violations of the law, which allows a man to kill one buck only. Since the law went into effect protecting elk there has been a large increase and they are almost as tame as cattle, so that a gang of
