GEORGE ELLIOTT.

She Did It Mechanically.

A certain woman in a Connecticut town has quite a reputation as a singer at funerals. Last year she sang at 167 of these lugubrious functions. Not only her own town, but villages and cities for miles around bespoke her services on such occasions. Early last spring the woman foreswore funerals, and went away for a vacation. The day after her return she met a neighbor. The neighbor was 40, thin and plain-spoken.

"Good morning, Martha," said the funeral prima donna. "How is your mother this morning?"

"Ma's dead," drawled Martha.

"Oh, I am so sorry," said the singer. "Can I be of any assistance?"

"No, I guess not," said Martha.

The singer was surprised at that.

"When is your mother to be buried?" she asked.

"She is buried," said Martha, who in her turn showed astonishment.

"What!" exclaimed the singer.

"Why, its strange I didn't hear anything about it. When did she die?"

"About six months ago."

The singer's bewilderment increased.

"I must have been away at the time," she said, "but it is funny that none of my family told me anything about it."

"I guess," said Martha, "they did not think it worth while to tell you, seein' 's you was here and sung at the funeral."

Cloud Scratchers.

The mildly derogatory German word for our skyscrapers is "Wolkenkratzer"—cloud scratchers. It is astonishing with what unanimity the American travelers abroad seek to impress their foreign acquaintances with recitals of the tremendous dimensions of these structural giants. A Frankfort merchant recently related his experiences with his American customers.

"Last summer," said he, "a westerner was in my shop. 'Frankfort is a pretty good town,' he told me. 'It has good trolley cars, broad streets, fair hotels, bully beer places. But say, where are your tall buildings? Why, we have one 18 stories in height!'

"I expressed my appreciation, but really was somewhat skeptical at the time. During the winter another American friend paid me a business visit and I asked him whether it was true there were buildings in America which could boast of their 18 stories. 'Man alive,' he said to me, 'I have an interest in a building which is just completed and which is 24 stories in height!'

"What was I to say. I merely waited until I met another of your fellow-citizens and I asked him as to truth of the statement that America contained a single building of 24 stories. 'Hordes of them,' he assured me. 'They are mere cottages. My office is in a building which has 32 stories. I myself am in the thirty-first.'

"Really I was dubious. This summer I saw another American to whom I confided my doubts and inquired as to the real facts about that building 32 stories high. 'Facts!' said he. 'Thirty-two isn't so big. There is a new building on Broadway that is 42 stories from cellar to roof.'

"It is evident," the German merchant concluded, "that we have done you an injustice. We must change our word. Cloud scratcher doesn't seem to fit. I guess it will be moon scratcher in another year and sun scratcher before the next peace conference."

TO USE ORCHARD IN ADAMS TRIAL

Boise, Idaho, Nov. 3.—In all probability Harry Orchard will be taken to Rathdrum as a witness for the prosecution in the trial of Steve Adams, now in progress for the alleged murder of Fred Tylor, a claim-jumper. At the Haywood trial Orchard testified that Adams told him of killing Tylor.

Orchard was not used as a witness in the former trial of Adams at Wallace because the state did not desire to take any chances before the Haywood trial, it being feared that enemies of Orchard might attempt to do away with him, should the trip be undertaken. The state also desired to keep the nature of Orchard's confession from the defense until the Haywood trial.
