

Walter Lyon, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is one of the busiest men in Marshfield, and Miss Neilson, the stenographer, is getting buried in a shower of letters of inquiry. Yesterday 88 letters were received in one mail. That is a pretty good showing, and should an average be struck at that pace, a month's business would amount to 2640 letters, enough to keep several secretaries and stenographers busy night and day. The great interest which the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce has aroused throughout the East by judicious advertising is shown in the flood of letters which are streaming in every day. Easterners are becoming more and more interested and next year should see an influx of builders and business people, homeseekers and tourists coming to Coos Bay that will overshadow this year's stampede by several hundred per cent. The business men of Eugene, who used a page in the Pacific Monthly last year for two months, received somewhere between 700 and 800 replies, but the tide which the Coos Bay advertising is attracting is several times as great. The pamphlet which the Chamber of Commerce is having printed in Portland should be ready for distribution very soon, and then all inquirers will receive one of them. These are heralded to be the best advertising ever issued from Coos Bay.
