COMMUNICATED.

Editor Times: The selection of a suitable name for the great city that is to be built upon this peninsula is at present receiving much attention in your columns as well as elsewhere, and a few remarks from an interested reader may therefore be pardoned. The list of names presented for the consideration of the public is an imposing and attractive one, though doubtless many others equally good might be suggested. However, up to date few, if any others, have been mentioned. Let us glance at some of those published in your valuable fered has paper. First on the list comes "Empire," a good, substantial name with a magic ring and a stately dignity Empire has many claims to recognition. It is the name of the first white the way tDoneerv, settlement in the county. It was the the way to Denver, Salt Lake and "Ichabod" is now written on its walls mingled memories of joy and sorrow. If we call the future city Empire, we shall assuredly be neither sorry nor ashamed. Next on the list is "Coos Bay," or "Coosbay." Why in the name of at Geo. Goodrum's. common sense does anybody want to tack the word "bay" to a city, and spoil them both? Coos Bay is a thell's Delicatessen.

beautiful, euphonious and distinctive name when borne by the magnificent sheet of water which now proudly wears it, but apply it to a city and it | Heads Cracked by Policemen,-Sev becomes incorrect, ridiculous and senseless. The cities of Boston, New York and San Francisco might as sensibly and correctly be called Boscalled Coos Bay. By the same meth-Mr. W. T. For the love of humanity leave the name Coos Bay where it has been from time immememorial, and where Miss Grace Leaven, of Portland, is it rightfully belongs. We must not rob our glorious bay of its heritage, especially when to do so is to commit an absurdity.

Next on the list is "Coos." > This is a prodigious misstatement Rome, the greatest city the world because of their marvelous achievements and treasures, are other illustrious examples of one-syllable places. The great historic city of Tyre, in Phoenicia, is still another shinning illustration. Coming down to more modern times we find Bern Nice, Aix, Pau, Tours and Caen in France, Leith and Perth in Scotland -the other also in Australia-York and Leeds in England, Cork in Ireland, Hue in Asia and Fez in Africa. In our own country we have Lynn it Massachusetts, Butte in Montana and Pierre in South Dakota. These cities are all famous, probably all more so than our Coos Bay city will ever be. Examples might be multiplied, but enough have been mentioned to prove that the fame of a city has no connection whatever with the length of its name. Coos is a good name-it ence, and for "Coos" I unhesitatingly cast my vote.

> Doubtless there are many who would like a combination of the names Marshfield, North Bend and Empire. To such the writer would suggest the name "Bendemar"-accent on the first syllable.

The word has a smooth rythm that suggests a cross between the Persian and the Spanish.

In conclusion the writer has not intended to sit in judgment on those who favor the name "Coos Bay" or Coosbay." The intention simply is to express a private opinion in a public manner on a subject that is, or should be, of interest to every man and woman in this vicinity. A. R. S.
