START THE BALL ROLLING

Now that the holidays are over and everyone can see for himself there has been a lot of smoke but little fire in the scare that caused the recent rumpus, it is all right to start the ball rolling again. Christmas is coming on apace and now is the time to spend your money. If everyone would put part of his earnings in circulation—the bankers, the merchants, the manufacturers, the workers—would soon forget some of our past worries.

"Don't be a clam," or, to use that more expressive Americanism, "don't be a tight wad." There are some people here as well as everywhere else, more shame to them.

Let the manufacturer keep his men at work and advertise his goods.

Let the merchant buy them and advertise the fact.

Let the citizen purchase all he wants.

Make it from the factory to the consumer. Keep things moving.

If one stops the other necessarily must follow suit. There is no need of it in this great country of ours. Let the ones with plenty start the move.

Let them put their money in active circulation. Buy clothes, automobiles, turkeys, houses, build a school or church, anything they can afford.

Don't hoard. Don't pile up your gains. You might become a Carnegie with castles in Scotland and one or two other countries. Be liberal, be generous, not in the way of giving, but so it will provide work for the needy. Don't hold the cents to your eyes so close you can't see the dollars.

Coos Bay is a rich community and can afford all kinds of luxuries. Now is the time to get them. Make the town boom.

Don't be "a tight wad."

THE OREGONIAN'S IDEA

A recent issue of the Oregonian contained a denigrating editorial on the subject of railroads in Oregon. It mentioned the profits which the great Southern Pacific company had taken out of this state and the manner in which those profits had been invested, not in Oregon, but in localities altogether foreign to this profitable but neglected state. It went so far in its expression of hopelessness as to disclose that it was more than likely that no railroads would be built in the state for many years to come—not even the "spur to Coos Bay."

It is not difficult for the average Oregonian or even the intelligent one, to concede all that the Oregonian said in that editorial. The Coos Bay people, however, are more hopeful. They believe that the spur to Coos Bay will be built and they are satisfied that the opening of shipping will see thousands of men employed between Astoria and Seaside and possibly between Seaside and Marshfield.

But what is the Coos Bay spur?

Where does it connect the mainland and the mainland which is so necessary to the Coos Bay people?

From the coast the spur and connecting line will run through the mouth of the Coos Bay river, the bay, and on to the mainland.

What is the Coos Bay river?

It is the river which runs from the mouth of the Coos Bay river, the bay, and on to the mainland.

gonians will gladly advocate that plan. But it never can attract wide attention unless it can also reach Coos Bay, the deep sea harbor of Southwestern Oregon and the natural emporium of central and southern Oregon and southern Idaho.

The remarkable thing about the Oregonian's policy is that it does not dare to propose any other solution of the railroad problem than simply to appeal to Harriman or denounce Harriman when the railroad construction stops.

Does Harriman own Oregon?

Does he own Central Oregon?

Has he a fence around the state?

The people do not have to adopt Socialism in order to build a state road. They can grade it, iron it, lease it and make it profitable without going into the complicated business of operating it.

Has the Oregonian any other answer to make than simply to admit that Harriman owns the state and that he is a bad man because he does not supply the state with roads? If Oregon suffers, the fault is its own. New Zealand and New South Wales found that they could build and operate railroads.

Why can't Oregon?

Okahoma and Texas are about to build and operate a state railroad. Why can't Oregon build and lease a great Central State road and let every great trans-continental railway in America come over it to the coast?

When the weather kills your crop, Keep a-go-in'.

When you tumble from the top, Keep a-go-in'.

S'pose you're out o' every dime, Gittin' broke ain't any crime, Tell the world you're feelin' fine, Keep a-go-in'.

When it looks like all is up, Keep a-go-in'.

Drain the sweetness from the cup, Keep a-go-in'.

See the wild bird on the wing, Hear the bells that sweetly ring, When you feel like sighin', sing, Keep a-go-in'.

Beards are coming into fashion in Marshfield.

While the barbers' prices are going up the rain is coming down—and that is about the only thing that is coming down.

A Marshfield man when asked his food preference at a recent little dinner party, said he liked the dark meat of a brunette fowl.

The Times press was broken while running off Friday's edition and the delivery of the paper to subscribers greatly delayed. One might have known something would happen on Friday the 13th.
