

IS YOUR STORE MANAGEMENT WEAKEST IN ITS Publicity Department ?

YOU WOULD not allow any one to persuade you to close your store for a few days or a few weeks now and then.

YOU WOULD NOT think for a moment of suspending your delivery service for a week now and then.

YOU WOULD not even try to hire clerks for an "occasional" day or two of service.

BUT WHO is it that induces you to conduct your store-advertising on that plan—the plan of adequate advertising now and then, and perhaps almost complete suspension of advertising at other times?

DANCE THE NEW YEAR IN

Hahatonka Club Hold Successful Leap Year Ball Which Is Greatly Enjoyed.

Don't be bashful ladies—1908's for you. The boys have had their chances; Let's see what you can do. —Goodrum.

Over one hundred and twenty-five couples danced the new year in last night at the Odd Fellows' Hall. The occasion was the Hahatonka Club's Leap Year ball, and it is safe to say no more enjoyable dance ever took place in Marshfield. Joyousness reigned supreme amid a scene of beauty which caused amazement on the part of the guests.

Evergreen, Oregon grape, ferns, mistletoe, Chinese lanterns and numerous other features made the ball room look like fairy land. The lights were dimmed by their coverings, the evergreens hung at intervals along the center of the ceiling to the balconies, the lower portion of which were decorated with lanterns, amid a background of tastefully arranged Oregon grape and serried evergreen.

The full piece orchestra was completely hidden from the merrymakers by grouped ferns, evergreens and grape. The announcement cards were the center of a huge green wreath in the center of the dais, while "Hahatonka Club" in huge letters of evergreen decorated the entire south side of the room, and "Happy New Year, 1908," in equally large letters decorated the opposite side of the room.

Punches were served near the orchestra by Master Tommy Minot, and this feature of the entertainment was not the least by any means.

Dancing commenced quite early in the evening and couples continued to come until after eleven o'clock when the New Year was ushered in announcement was made, and the master of ceremonies, Will Lynch, extended a Happy New Year to the entire gathering. The dance was then commenced with the lights turned out, making a dark moonlight, and as there were two or three bunches of mistletoe in the center of the room, it may be surmised that the year was properly initiated with the assistance of the little god who is responsible for so much.

One young lady was seen to hold up three fingers to a friend, after the lights were turned on, but what this meant is a mystery, except that she had taken advantage of the Leap Year.

Several dances were continued in the "moonlight," with just enough light showing from the stage to enable the young folks to wend their graceful way around the floor, and never was a New Year greeted with greater ecstasy than at the dance last night.

The dance continued until quite a late hour, when handshakings and Happy New Years became general as the assembly broke up. The decorations will be left in place for the Leap Year dance of the Fraternal Club, which will be held on January 11.

CHIPS FROM COQUILLE.
Newsy Gleanings From the Columns Of the Sentinel.
Jack and Charlie Sneddon and Joe Harrison, employees of the Peterson coal mine at Riverton, came up Monday on their way to the bay to spend the holidays. Manager Chas. Adams, of the mine, was also in town, and reports that work on the promising property will resume early in January.

Miss Lucia Gould, of Marshfield, is assisting her sister, Miss Georgia Gould, at the Western Oregon hospital.

The news of the death of Fred Stewart of Port Orford, reached this city last Saturday. Fred Stewart, as he was familiarly called by all who knew him, was a son of Hon. F. A. Stewart and a brother of H. T. Stewart, of the Tribune, and was highly thought of by all who knew him. The editors of the Tribune have our sympathy in this their hour of affliction and sorrow.

Claude Belleu, the 16-year-old son of D. L. Belleu, of Remote, died last Saturday of consumption, from which he has been a sufferer for some time. George Gago has recently had a substantial tramway build leading from his coal mine at Riverton to the river's edge. Dan Plymale, the Bandon contractor, drove the spiling for the tramway.

Tattle of the Town

Little grains of fact sifted from the chaff of gossip flying up and down the town.

Marshal is Up Again—Marshal Carter was up and about again today and was feeling a little better than he was a few days ago. He is still suffering considerably from his sick spell, however, and is bothered considerably by the fact that he cannot get about as well as usual.

To Clerk at Local Store—H. Cohen, of The Dalles, is a new arrival in Marshfield for citizenship honors. He arrived on the Alliance and will clerk in the store of Magnes & Matson. He has already made numerous friends in this city, and will undoubtedly become popular.

Eagles Ready For Tonight—Marshfield Eagles are looking eagerly forward to their "blow-out" tonight, when a public installation of the officers will take place. The banquet following promises to be something out of the ordinary, and all the "birds" of the aerie are figuring on having an enjoyable evening at the Eagle hall.

Burial To Be Tomorrow—The funeral of the late James Wyatt Coffelt, who died in Tucson, Ariz., will be held tomorrow, (Thursday) at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. The alert will carry passengers to attend the funeral from the bay, leaving the wharf at 11 a. m. Mrs. Coffelt arrived on the Delhi, which got in the bay this morning, in charge of the remains.

About Football Enthusiasts—Interest in football is growing instead of waning with the advance of the winter months, and quite a number of enthusiasts from all over the county have been coming to the city since Monday in order to witness the big game which is being played at North Bend this afternoon between the team of the former place and the Marshfield eleven. While the local team has not been hurting itself by extra practice, it is still in good condition and an excellent game is in prospect.

Married Last Night—Miss Maud Brown and Robert Hazen, of Marshfield, were married last night at the home of Howard Savage, who resides at West Marshfield. Rev. H. H. Brown performing the ceremony. Quite a number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties were present at the wedding which was celebrated in the most enjoyable manner. The guests and hosts all joined in with their best wishes for a happy and long life for the newly married couple who are well known and popular in this section.

Stops Runaway Team—Charlie Alken, of this city, came to the rescue when a team of horses belonging to the Coos Bay Transportation company tore east along Front street yesterday. His umbrella was waved threateningly at the team, and the horses perceiving some huge black thing threatening them with destruction, almost stopped right in their tracks. The horses had been standing hitched to the transfer wagon, and in the absence of the driver they commenced to trot. About the time the outfit was nearing C street, the horses increased their speed and would undoubtedly have broken into a mad and crazy gallop. Pedestrians attempted to stop the horses by yelling at them. Dogs barked and excitement became general. In the middle of the uproar, Mr. Alken stepped out into a foot of mud and brought the horses to a standstill.

FRUIT GROWERS WILL ORGANIZE
Preliminary Steps Are Taken For Forming an Association—Co-Operation is Asked.
Preliminary steps were taken in Myrtle Point on the 28th of December toward the organization of the "Coquille Valley Fruit Growers' Association," which will hold its first regular meeting at Myrtle Point on Wednesday afternoon, the first of January, to complete the organization. Shares in the association have been placed at $2.50 each, and fifty-six shares were subscribed at the first meeting. The association invites the co-operation of all growers of the county toward making the organization a success. Your membership is hereby cordially solicited. Are you interested in the development of the fruit industry of the county and may we count on your membership?

NEW YEAR'S IS OBSERVED

Happiness and Prosperity the Key Note in the Coos Bay Cities.

New Year's day was observed by the merchants of Marshfield and North Bend by the closing of their stores today. A few of them were open in the morning, but in the afternoon almost every line of business was closed up in order to take in the holiday in the right spirit. Several churches observed the day by holding special service in the morning.

Shooting parties left for various points on the bay to spend the day hunting, while a majority of the people of both cities attended the game of football between Marshfield and North Bend. Dinner parties were not so numerous as on Christmas day, but it is safe to say that the citizens on Coos Bay enjoyed the day in an excellent manner.

While the rain drizzled down at intervals the sun shone for brief periods and on some occasions there was neither rain nor sun. New Year's was brought to the attention of the people by the numerous greetings extended in every direction.

While a great many New Year resolutions were undoubtedly made, there was little in the way of disturbance to indicate that they were made to be broken, and the day passed successfully, happily and peacefully. The Times joins in with everybody else and wishes everybody a Happy New Year and many of them.

SAYS ERROR ABOUT STORY

Local Man Catches Chicago Tribune in Mixup Over Feature Story.

Alonzo Knight, of Marshfield, writes to correct an article published in the Coos Bay Times, taken from the Chicago Tribune, in view of the fact that he was intimately acquainted with the Colonel Wing, who was stated to have left $20,000 to the daughter of the woman who rejected him. Part of the article published on Saturday says:

"Faithful through life to the woman he loved as a youth, Colonel Isaac Wing, of Lincoln, Neb., recently deceased, specified in his will that his estate of $20,000 go to the daughter of the woman who rejected him. Miss Katherine Rittenhouse, a student at the Northwestern University, is the one to profit by the undying devotion of her mother's suitor, who had passed through life unmarried."

Mr. Knight has the following to say of the manner in which the Chicago Tribune makes up its stories: Marshfield, Dec. 30, 1907.

Editor Coos Bay Times: "In your Saturday issue of The Times I note an article in regard to Col. Isaac H. Wing's will and the disposition of same, which seems to have passed through a cyclone in its construction as to the true and material facts. Now in the first place, Col. Wing is not of Lincoln, Neb., but is a native of the state of Maine, and has been an honored and respected citizen of Bayfield, Wisconsin, for the last thirty years or more and where he accumulated his fortune of not only the twenty thousand he bequeathed to Miss Katherine Rittenhouse, but something over nine hundred thousand dollars. I am well acquainted with all parties in question, and was associated with Col. Wing for two years in the United States land office at Bayfield, Wis., during the years of 1881 and 1882. Besides a few other minor bequests, the rest of his estate went to a married sister who resided somewhere in Maine. He was a rejected suitor of Miss Rittenhouse's mother, but simply a friend of her years' standing. Belle, the Colonel's first wife, died before she came to the rescue of the rejected suitor, and state the fact that she was never married; hence I am not a suitor. Thanking you for your interest in the subject, I remain, Sir, your obedient servant,
Alonzo Knight."
