SPEAKS HIGHLY OF COOS BAY'S PROSPECTS

Bellingham Lumberman Believes This Country Has Wonderful Future in Store.

George Loggie, of Bellingham, Washington, owner of one of the largest lumber mills on the Pacific coast, rates Coos Bay as the next coming metropolis on the coast. Mr. Loggie has been away from the bay for several years. Speaking of the changes he said he was dumbfounded when he sighted North Bend and Marshfield from the deck of the steamer on his arrival from Portland. "I anticipated changes," said Mr. Loggie, "but never imagined a growth and development of such magnitude as this. It is most remarkable. To a stranger the residence view from the bay is most imposing. The unbroken line of houses from North Bend to Marshfield gives out the impression of one large city. You have a wonderful future here. Your coal and timber are convenient. Almost independent of railroad haulage, the agricultural possibilities cannot be beaten on the coast, and, with the protection his harbor affords, it will be one of the best when the bar and channel are dredged."

Mr. Loggie visited the C. A. Smith lumber mill and adjacents where he was shown around by Mr. Smith personally. He was deeply impressed by the extent and size of the project and remarked that Coos Bay would realize benefits in many ways, now unthought of, by its establishment.

MYRTLE POINT FRANCHISE

Marshfield Man Trying to Corner the Valley Franchise Market.

S. R. Belote, of Marshfield, has made application to the town board for a telephone franchise. As his application is on the face of it a request that he be authorized to speculate or sell the right to put in a telephone exchange in Myrtle Point, and the further fact that he does not profess to have capital, but probably proposes to get some one else to take the proposition off his hands, the board will likely refuse the request, preferring to do any speculating in such matters themselves, to the advantage of the town.—Myrtle Point Enterprise.

Simplicity.

I do believe in simplicity. It is astonishing as well as sad how many trivial affairs even the wisest man thinks he must attend to every day, how singular an affair he thinks he must omit. When the mathematician would solve a difficult problem he first frees the equation of all incumbrances and reduces it to its simplest terms. So simplify the problem of life, distinguish the necessary and the real. Probe the earth to see where your main roots run.—Thoreau.

Talking Golf.

From the window she saw him coming up the steps.

"He comes!" she exclaimed joyfully.

There was a bit of ice on the top step (for it was an early day in June). He struck it. Then he struck each of the other steps in succession.

"Heaven!" she cried. "He has fooled his approach!"—London Tribune.

Being a Man.

Little Sammy—What's your father, Willie? Little Willie—He's a man. Little Sammy—Oh, I mean what does he do for his bread and butter? Little Willie—He's an artichoke and draws houses.—London Express.

Occupation is one great source of enjoyment. No man properly occupied was ever miserable.—L. E. London.

Facts About the Grip.

The grip is highly infectious. It stimulates other diseases. The grip picks out the weak points of a person's constitution. The grip in itself is by no means a mortal disease. The victims of the grip are adults who perish from pneumonia or bronchitis, and the aged who sink from heart exhaustion. Children, while prone to the disease, enjoy a comparative immunity from its complications and dangers. In adults the attack, as a rule, comes on with lightning like speed, health is suddenly overcome by a feeling of discomfort and depression. He "runs" at the nose; he feels chilly; his head aches; his eyes pain him.

What to do—go to bed at once; take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and quinine as directed for influenza.

Do this and the grip is soon shorn of its terrors. For sale by John Prouss.
