MARSHFIELD'S NEW HOTEL

"Old Timer" Wants to Know What Has Become of Improvement Project.

Editor Times: What has become of the Chandler hotel which it was expected would provide accommodations for the visiting and traveling public which may happen into this city or on Coos Bay? Is it not remarkable that nearly all hotels proposed are nothing but air castles? My own residence in this city and vicinity has been long, and I have great confidence in the future of this place, but I am appalled at the fiasco which nearly all hotel propositions result in. There was to be a large, first class hotel in North Bend, but after being located in two or three different spots it vanished altogether and we hear nothing more about it. There was a big hotel—a very big one—going in at Bangor, but it is never spoken of any more. Two different hotels were actually begun, underground and overhead, on Plat B, but they went the way of all earthly things before they became very earthly. Now we believe another one is being designed for that seat of "unlimited resources."

I surely thought the hotel in Marshfield, which was decided upon nearly a year ago, would materialize. I understand it has done so to the extent of a subscription paper, an incorporation, a plan on paper and a selected site. Not a shovel full of dirt has been displaced. Nothing can be learned about it. The subscription to stock was supposed to be and probably is very good. So are the incorporation, the name and the site. But what is the matter? It has been learned that the architect is all ready, but the delay is one which finds its cause outside of him. The hotel is in a sense a public enterprise, although it is also a private institution. The fact that it is proposed, and that the public is assured that it is certain to be built, keeps all other hotel movements down. In the meantime the little village hotels of the city are insufficient and the accommodations so slight that many visitors go away disgusted. If the people who are expecting to build "The Chandler" can't build it, the public would like to know it. If they can but won't, the public has no obligation but would like to know it so they can take it up along other lines. But we can't be charged with undue impatience who have waited for a much needed hotel for five years, when this one is kept coming months after it ought to be in sight.

OLD TIME RESIDENT.

man and Miss Gene Von de Green the bridemaid.
W. C. T. U. for Coquille—Mrs. Robert McCann, of North Bend, was in town yesterday. She is doing some of the work necessary to get under way the organization of a W. C. T. U. in this city. An organizer, Miss Rose Davidson, is expected here by the last of this month.—Coquille Herald.

Mayor Has Grip—Mayor E. E. Straw is suffering from an attack of the grip. He has been fighting the symptoms for a week but last night he came off second best in the steely round and was compelled to leave the council meeting before the session was completed. President A. J. Savage took the chair and presided during the remainder of the session.

Mrs. Bargelt Ill—E. S. Bargelt left this morning for Portland where he was called by the illness of his wife. Mrs. Bargelt, who is grand matron of the Eastern Star in Oregon, was taken ill at Eugene while visiting the various chapters but was able to reach Portland before she was compelled to give up. The many friends of the family on Coos Bay will wish her speedy recovery.

Race Horses Here—The first of the fast horses which will participate in the Coos Bay races during the summer and at the Southern Oregon Fair have arrived at the track to be got in condition. L. J. Simpson's four are there, M. H. Nay has two there and F. P. Norton has two. Others are expected soon as most of the stalls have already been spoken for. It is possible that special race meetings maybe arranged for some date in June and the Fourth of July in addition to the fair races.

Concert by Bandon Concert Band at Masonic opera house Saturday evening, March 21.

NOTICE, EAGLES!
 Every member of the order is requested to be present at the meeting which will be held on Wednesday evening, March 18, as business of great importance is to be transacted.
