JUST FOR THE LOOKS.

Dallas, Texas, is the place, and next July is the time for the assembly of the next Grand Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. It may not appear at first blush that this bit of information interests Coos Bay, but upon further gossip as to the detail that follows, there is something in connection with this approaching Dallas event which we would do well to think about and to emulate.

This detail appears in the Dallas News, and runs to the effect that a committee of Elks in that city has taken in hand a well organized campaign, calculated to insure absolute municipal cleanliness by the time the visitors arrive in July. The matter, as we infer from the statements made in the News, has been gone about in an energetic and determined manner. The committee is sufficiently large to give supervision to the entire city by division into small districts of, say one or two blocks. In each of these districts one man is to assume the work of urging neighbors and residents to tidy up in every way possible. It apparently is the firm belief of the Dallas people that this programme will be successfully carried out, and that, in July, when Elks from all over the United States are the guests of that municipality, Dallas will not only be in its best bib and tucker as to the front room and the parlor, but even the kitchen and the woodshed will be as spick, span clean as the proverbial whistle.

We are bound to have a house-cleaning day in the spring. Why not arrange to make it extra fancy in view of the efforts to boost the bay? Why should not the municipal authorities and all the municipal and social organizations that are directly or indirectly in touch with municipal progress, combine in their effort to make the city as beautiful and attractive as possible? Why not take the one step that will establish what will become a habit once it is given a thorough trial, the benefit of which would be incalculable, the cost of which would be little?

The Dallas plan is the simplest that could be devised and can be made to go the farthest. Every club, and every organization, and every other body which would evince civic patriotism, can join in the movement to demonstrate genuine regard for Marshfield.

One general organization should result from all this—a Marshfield cleanup brigade, or something of that sort—and from this, the city might be well covered, so that every section, if not every block, would have earnest and enthusiastic workers for entire city cleanliness—a condition we are bound to bring about as a matter of good breeding.

WITH THE TOAST AND TEA WOMAN.

Coldest day and thinnest gown— That's the woman of it; Cheek indorsement upside down— That's the woman of it; Worshipping some stagelanded star; Duds and diamonds held over par; Stepping backward off the car— That's the woman of it.

Handing out the cut unkind— That's the woman of it; Fiftal as an April wind— That's the woman of it; Hearts are looked on as mere toys; Frivolities mistook for joys; And life a game that oft annoys— That's the woman of it.

Childhood sung in circling arms— That's the woman of it; Love that bucklers 'gainst all harms That's the woman of it; A glow of wordless sympathy That lights the storm-tossed man at sea And sends him forth, triumphantly— That's the woman of it. —Denve Republican.

F. B. Tichenor, the Coos county booster in Spokane, is evidently having a strenuous time with that new baby girl of his, according to the following from a Spokane paper: "Did you notice that Neighbor Tichenor looks pretty gloomy these days? Some of the Choppers have suggested that Tichenor's mind wasn't juts right. He pretends it's the strenuous life he's been living on the road that causes that absent, woe-begone bearing he has assumed recently, but the real truth has leaked out. The Poetaster of camp 99 was out for a stroll in the wee small hours recently. As he passed Frank's house he heard the organizer's voice hoarsely droning: Thora Theodora, bye bye; Thora Theodora, don't cry; Please do not weep; Let papa sleep, O Thora Theodora, bye bye.

It is to be hoped that nothing like the following will happen to Wm. Wade and his new car. "He used to be a great literary gent, but never again." "Has he reformed?" "No; incapacitated." "Writers' cramp?" "No; he fell out of an auto and fractured his imagination."

Pet Hobbies. "What in the world do Jones and Jenkins find to talk about? They have no children, and yet I see them constantly engaged in earnest conversation." "They both own safety razors."

"I really believe you married me simply because I have money," said the heiress, who was as stingy as she was plain. "No," replied her husband, candidly; "I married you because I thought you'd let me have some of it."

ROBINS' APRIL FOOL.

Who cares what the robins say 'bout the coming weather? What is their opinion worth—not a single feather. Let them chirrup ne'er so loud—let them hop and flutter, I don't take a bit of stock in the notes they utter. Neighbor just across the way says he saw a robin. Tried to imitate the bird—kept his head a bobbin, "What of that?" I says to him, sort of careless hummin', "Why, it means," he answered back, "that th' spring's a-comin'." Ain't it foolish how some men get a cranky notion? Sticking to it all their days with a fool's devotion? I know twenty better ways to fore-tell th' weather. What's a robin's warnin' worth—not a single feather. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.
