ELECTRIC LINE FROM COOS BAY TO ROSEBURG PROJECTED

Brewster Valley Water Power Company Plans to Build Interurban Soon.

RUMOR THAT HILL TROLLEY IS COMING.

Portland Line Through Salem, Eugene and Roseburg May Terminate Here.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 8.—The Oregonian says; J. S. N. Smith of Coos Bay, consulting engineer of the recently organized Coquille Valley Power Company, was in Portland on business in connection with that project. Mr. Smith reports that the surveys for the pipeline, powerhouse and flumes have been completed and that work on the plant will begin in about two weeks. The powerhouse will be located midway between Marshport and Roseburg on the old Coos Bay wagon road at the gorge near Brewster valley. The transmission line will be 33 miles in length.

Power has already been contracted for by Myrtle Point, Bandon, Marshfield and North Bend. It is believed that the construction of the power system is but the beginning of the Coos Bay and Roseburg Electric Railway, appropriations for which were in part made last fall by citizens of Roseburg, but on account of the unsettled conditions of finances the matter was abandoned. It has now been taken up by Eastern capitalists and there is every reason to believe that the road will be built.

"The construction of the Coquille Valley Power Company's plant," said Mr. Smith yesterday, "will result in giving Coos county a lighting and power system with a minimum capacity of 4,000 horsepower. This amount can be increased to 12,000.

"There is no doubt but that the development of this power system will be of inestimable value to Coos county, which is already rich in natural resources, and with this cheap power can invite the attention of capital in converting such resources into manufactured products. The inauguration of such a system will within a short time transform the Coquille valley into a busy center of industry and wealth."

PART OF HILL SYSTEM.

Northern Trunk Line Magnate Said to be Building This Way.

According to rumors afloat, the electric line being built south from Portland is a project of James J. Hill, the Great Northern and Northern Pacific magnate and has Coos Bay as its objective point. Of course, there is no official announcement to this effect but individuals who have kept close tab on the project since its inception declare that there is no doubt about it.

The electric line is now in operation between Portland and Salem and construction has begun on an extension south to Eugene. The understanding is that it will be continued through Eugene to Roseburg and thence to Coos Bay for a harbor.

In case, the Brewster Valley Power Company projectors build the electric line from Coos Bay to Roseburg, the Portland line will probably connect up with it there.

LUCK BRINGS CLEAR FIELD

Unusual Combination of Circumstances Affect Coos-Curry Representative.

Owing to an unusual combination of circumstances, Colonel I. N. Muncy of Gold Beach Curry county, finds that he has a clear field for the Republican nomination in the primaries April 17th, for joint representative of the Coos-Curry county district. Ed. Rackleff, the present joint representative, intended to be a candidate for renomination and reelection but through an error in his petition, he will be unable to get his name on the ticket. Ed. Jensen of Port Orford, who expected to enter the field for the honors, has been suddenly taken out of the race by being summoned as a witness in the land fraud trials at Los Angeles which will take up his time for several weeks or months.

Colonel Muncy was on Coos Bay yesterday in behalf of his candidacy. Recently he has been engaged in the mining business but was formerly a newspaper man, also worked for a while as an immigration agent to settle up the Northwest and at times stumped in various sections of the country in behalf of the Republican party. He was one of the original boosters of Pasco, the town in Yakima valley in Washington which gained considerable attention in bygone years owing to the slogan that Colonel Muncy gave it, "keep your eye on Pasco." The Democrats have no candidate for joint representative and unless Mr. Rackleff attempts to win at the primaries by having the voters write in his name or an independent candidate comes out for the general election in June, Colonel Muncy will be without opposition.

Colonel Muncy says that politics are quite lively in Curry county. There are about 500 voters in the county and there are nine candidates in the field for sheriff. The Democratic registration has been very light, it being charged by some of the Republican candidates that the Democrats registered as Republicans in order to pass on the Republican nominations for certain offices.

Position of Candidates.

The Portland Oregonian, which is opposed to Statement No. 1, in a resume of the candidates says: "Statement No. 1 has the indorsement of less than a majority of the Republicans who are candidates for nomination to the State Legislature in the primary election to be held on April 17th. Of the 158 Republican candidates for the Legislature throughout the State, only 66 have subscribed to Statement No. 1. The other 92 declined to sign the statement. Forty-six have agreed, if nominated and elected, to support for Senator the choice of the Republican voters of the State as expressed at the primary election this month. The other 36 are unpledged. At the June election 15 State senators and 60 representatives are to be elected and it is for these positions that the Republicans of the State will select candidates this month from the list of 158 aspirants.

"For the 15 senatorial nominations, there are 38 candidates, of whom 13 are pledged to Statement No. 1, 15 will support the Republican voters' choice and 10 are unpledged. For the 60 places on the representative ticket, there are 120 aspirants. Of that number 53 have subscribed to Statement No. 1, 41 are pledged to the choice of the Republican voters of the State and 26 have not signed any statement. Only one candidate, George W. Colvig, of Josephine county, has indorsed Statement No. 2, which will be submitted to a popular vote in June. Mr. Colvig is a candidate for the nomination of State Senator from Josephine county.

"As in Multnomah county, the Democrats throughout the State are not taking an active interest in the approaching primary election, so far as the nomination of a legislative ticket is concerned. In only a few scattered districts have members of the minority party filed declarations and qualified as candidates to be voted for at the primary election next week.

While the improvement in Mr. Evans' condition is all that could be expected and he has suffered no acute attacks since his arrival here, it is now practically certain that he will not rejoin the fleet at San Diego or participate in any celebration or the various functions in Southern California, there being great opposition on the part of his son, physicians and friends to his determination to rejoin the fleet at San Diego. He may be permitted to take command at Monterey and take the fleet into San Francisco harbor, but it is not expected that he will participate in the functions but will return to the Springs as soon as possible.
