A MATTER OF STATE PRIDE.

The act increasing the State appropriation for the University of Oregon to $125,000 per annum, which act was held up by the referendum and will be submitted to the voters of the State next June, should be supported by every citizen of Oregon who feels a pride in his State. That the referendum should have been invoked on a measure for the support of the chief educational institution of the State is cause enough for shame, and the majority for the appropriation when the question comes to a vote in June should be so overwhelming as to prove an unmistakable rebuke to those who held the measure up, and at the same time forever discourage the calling of a referendum vote on an appropriation for the advancement of our educational interests.

Oregonians should feel a pride in having their State University as good as any in the Northwest, and the old appropriation of $47,500 was wholly inadequate to maintain it. The appropriation of $125,000 which was provided by the act was not as generous a support as Idaho and Washington gave their universities last year, but it would have made possible many needed improvements, and was a step in the right direction. The people of the State should show their approval by voting for the appropriation, and against the mossback which begrudge the money spent for education.—Madras Pioneer.

THE PIONEERS.

June 11 has been designated "Pioneer Day" for the present year by the officers of the Oregon Pioneer Association. This means that the gray-haired host that has for many years partaken of the hospitality of the citizens of Portland will rally somewhat earlier this year than usual, exchange greetings, renew old friendships, review the scenes of former years, banquet at flower-decked tables upon the fat of the land and pass into the eclipse of quiet home life for another year.

The records of the Association show that an unusual number of pioneers have answered the final roll call in the past year, which, while in accordance with the decree of nature, will cause sadness and regret to all remaining. The pioneers are not given to lamentation, however. They learned early in life to accept the inevitable cheerfully, and take up the events of life as they came to them without waste of time and energy in regretting. So, while they will drop a tender tear to the memory of departed comrades, they will rejoice in the occasion, shadowed though it will be by the absence of some familiar faces, thankful for the opportunity to meet and greet those who are still in the ranks.—Portland Oregonian.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.
Herby announce myself a candidate for representative in the legislative assembly, subject to the approval of Coos County Republican electors at the primary election, April 17, 1908, and respectfully solicit the support of all Republicans.

With the Toast and Tea

SOMEWHERE.

Somewhere a sweetness grows; Somewhere it comes and goes Into your life and mine, Mortal, and yet divine!

Somewhere a sweetness speeds Unto our sorest needs; Under the gloom, the cloud, Upward it grows to God!

Somewhere, in field or stream; Somewhere, in deed or dream; Somewhere a sweetness clings Round us with warring wings!

Somewhere, in darkest hours, Bird-song or bloom-o'-flower, Lo, at our weary feet, Somewhere is sweetness sweet! —Baltimore Sun.

A FISH SCALE.

The following is said to be Jay Tower's idea of a fish scale.

Wisdom of the Young.

"I never saw such a child! You don't seem to know enough to come home!"
"Well, dat's just wot ma says about you!"—New York World.

Exceptions Prove the Rule.

Angelina (gushingly)—And so you're a poet! Oh, I do so love poets! There is something so ethereal about them!

A certain Coos Bay real estate firm had lots for sale in a new suburban addition. The young, enthusiastic member was writing the advertisement, eloquence flowed from his pen. He urged intending purchasers to seize the passing moment. "Napoleon not only met the opportunity, he created it!" The senior partner read this line in the advertisement slowly and carefully. "This fellow Napoleon," he observed, quizzically; "what's the use of advertising him with our money?"

More In His Line.

"I simply dote on soldiers. Are you a son of Mars?"
"No, but I should like to become her son-in-law."

TALE OF A CRAB.

Here is rather a startling tale of a huge crab told in the demure language of a Japanese newspaper: "In the harbor of Shimidzu a great haul of fish is daily experienced since the return of the new year, to the delight of the fishermen. Some of the eager buyers fall off to purchase fish before the fishermen's junks arrive from seaward. Among these competitive purchasers was one named Kato, who sailed out by himself in a small boat.

As he was steering his way onward he espied at a distance some dark object.

As it showed the upper half of its bulk above the water he was convinced that it was a crab of really monstrous size. The man sailed toward the shore with all his might and main. The crab, however, appeared to be bent on a fight with the man and swam after the boat with incredible rapidity. The huge crustacean soon overtook the boat and, putting one of its bony arms over the side, threatened to overturn it.

"After a long and fierce battle the crab was vanquished and captured. Kato brought it ashore and showed it to all his astonished friends. Its arms were over twelve feet in length and the size of its shell is about five feet in diameter. Its weight is twenty kan" (160 pounds.)

Striking Evidence.

"He made a rousing speech."
"He did?"
"Yes; it stirred even inanimate things."
"Oh, come off!"
"Well, the clock sounded an alarm."

Spoiled the Sale.

"Did you buy that lovely picture you were raving about the last time I saw you?"
"No; I have changed my mind about it."
"Some art critic been knocking it?"
"No; it isn't that. When I first saw it the price was $300."
"But that is nothing for a work of art."
"But the next time I went they had it marked down to $150."
"That must have gratified you."
"Not much. Do you think I am going to have any cheap pictures in my house?"

Demand a Square Deal.

"I hear you are going to take in boarders."
"I have changed my mind."
"Why?"
"Well, I discover they are not as easily taken in as they used to be."

Not Found Wanting.

"You know all signs fail in dry weather."
"No; I didn't know it."
"But they do."
"Never saw a drug store sign in a prohibition state. Did you?"
