A GOOD INVESTMENT.

At the last session of the Oregon legislature it passed an annual appropriation of $125,000 for the support and maintenance of its state university.

The appropriation of $125,000 seemed so large that it caused the farmers of the Willamette valley to open their eyes in astonishment and they at once called for a referendum on the bill.

We have in Illinois a university that the legislature appropriates several millions of dollars annually to without one word of protest, and as people are not in the habit of giving something away for nothing, or allowing their representatives to, either, then their must be good returns from the money invested.

What has been accomplished in Illinois by her state university may be repeated in Oregon if the people will care for their state university as they should.

With the Toast and Tea

GOOD EVENING.

O Lord, if only my will may remain firm and true toward Thee, do with me whatsoever it shall please Thee. For it cannot be anything but good, whatsoever Thou shalt do with me.

VIA CRISIS.

Who treads the path of love and loss, With humbled steps and head bowed down.

Then let us bless the weary way, The cross, the thorn, the cruel rod.

The average Coos Bay man is as anxious to make money as the average Coos Bay woman is to spend it.

Son—Pa, what do they have a "Best Man" at a wedding for?

"Woman," remarked the old bachelor at the Millcooma, "is a creature of many moods."

"Aw, I suppose you don't keep puppy biscuits in this benighted village?" asked a new arrival on the Plant who was followed by a dog.

Nerve, Sure Enough.

"The nerviest individual that ever I encountered," says ex-Senator Mason of Illinois, "was a chap that dashed into an accommodation train running from Chicago to Evanston on an occasion when I was occupying a seat near the door."

"Just before this person appeared in my car the other passenger or two and myself had heard a yelping in the train shed, in the confusion of which we heard some one shout, 'Stop thief!'"

Might Be With the Butters.

"I hope," said the new made widow, with a dry sob, "that poor Thomas won't be ranged with the goats instead of the sheep."

"Dear madam," replied the consoiler, "your dear late partner was a truly good man."

He Wanted to Know the Worst.

A miner who was suffering with dyspepsia consulted a doctor and took his prescription to a druggist.

"Well, how much?" said the miner when the prescription was finished.

"Well, hurry up, boss. Put a price on the cork and let us know the worst."—Ladies' Home Journal.

"The Frolicsome Bastard."

A lady and gentleman took a short excursion somewhat early one morning, and the horse commenced kicking in such an extraordinary way that, instead of becoming alarmed, they laughed heartily at the oddity and obstinacy of the animal.

"Look now, ma'am, it's the quietest baste in Ireland" (kick, kick), "but it's a small taste frolicsome out of play" (kick, kick, kick). (Aside to the horse)

"I'll give it to ye, ye baste, when I get ye home, to be exposing me this way." (Aloud) "It's the blood ye see, s'r, the rare quality blood that's in it—sure his mother won the plate at the Curragh o' Kildare, and it's only too quiet this craythure is" (kick). (Aside) "Ah."

J. D. Goss, the attorney, is noted for his trenchant wit, some call some of his shafts sarcasm.

"At the beginning of his career," said a friend the other day, "Goss had an elderly, prosy, longwinded lawyer for an opponent in an assault case."

"The elderly lawyer in his concluding address spoke for six hours—an interminable, foggy, stunted speech, then Goss rose. He smiled slightly, looked at the judge and juror, and said:

"Your honor, I will follow the example of my learned friend who has just concluded, and submit the case without argument."

The other day a fellow went into Tom Howard's jewelry store and putting down his timepiece said: "I wish you'd tell me what all this watch!" Tom stuck his little salt-cellar into his eye, looked at the intestines of the watch and then queried: "Where did you get it?"

"Yes," confided Mrs. A. "I find it very profitable to give my husband a dressing down occasionally. I gave him one to-day."

"But how is it profitable?" queried Mrs. Z.

"Why, he generally gives me a dressing up."

"Dressing up?"

"Yes; to get me in a good humor again he promises me a new Spring gown, a new outing suit and a new Easter hat."

CATO'S FOLLOW-UP SYSTEM.

By Herbert Kaufman.

If a man lambasted you on the eye and walked away and waited a week before he repeated the performance, he wouldn't hurt you very badly.

But if he smashed you and kept mauling, each impact of his fist would find you less able to stand the hammering, and half a dozen jabs would probably knock you down.

Now, advertising is, after all, a matter of hitting the eye of the public. If you allow too great an interval to elapse between insertions of copy, the effect of the first advertisement will have worn away by the time you hit again.

Persistence is the foundation of advertising success. Regularity of insertion is just as important as clever phrasing.

The history of every mercantile success is parallel. The advertiser who does not let a day slip by without having his say is bound to be heard and have his influence felt.

Every insertion of copy brings stronger returns, because it has the benefit of what has been said before, until the public's attention is like an eye that has been so repeatedly struck that the least touch of suggestion will feel like a blow.

INSPECTOR DOES THE WORK.

Owner of Orchard Must Pay for the Spraying, However.

SALEM, Ore., April 17.—County Fruit Inspector E. C. Armstrong today began a new phase of the war upon San Jose scale by hiring a gang of men to go into the orchard of Rev. F. M. George, near Liberty, and spray the trees. Heretofore enforcement of the law has consisted of chopping down diseased trees, but that course is pursued only in the case of trees that have been rendered valueless by disease and neglect.
