

PROGRAM FOR CLEAN UP DAY

Marshfield Women Will Announce Plans at Chamber of Commerce Tonight.

Tonight's meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be devoted largely to a discussion of the plans for "Clean up Day," the initial step in the campaign for "Marshfield Beautiful."

It is expected that Mesdames McCormac, Flanagan and Hazard will have the program for the day ready to present, the matter having been referred through them to the A. N. W. Club, the Chamber of Commerce's idea being to leave the execution of the plan in the hands of the women of Marshfield.

The work to be done, how it is to be done, the women to have charge of the sections into which the city is to be divided in order to carry on the work systematically are some of the things to be announced. Other matters are also likely to come up at the meeting.

COAL CARGO FOR FRISCO

Czarina Takes 850 Tons—Important Addition to Coos Bay's Shipping Facilities.

The Portland and Coos Bay Steamship Company which is now operating the Breakwater between here and Portland, and the Czarina between here and San Francisco, is preparing to rapidly develop its interests here, according to General Manager C. J. Mills. One of the first interests to be pushed is the coal trade, the company now operating the Beaver Hill and Southport mines.

Steps in this direction have already been taken, the company having contracted for heavy shipments of coal to San Francisco and the south. The first of these shipments was a cargo of 850 tons on the Czarina this week. It is expected that regular shipments of 850 to 1,000 tons will be taken out of here by the Czarina from now on.

The addition of the Czarina to the shipping facilities of Coos Bay is an important contribution to the development of the commerce of this section. It furnishes an additional boat for freight to and from San Francisco as well as the Portland outlet through the Breakwater owned by the same company. It is pleasing evidence of the confidence of the company in the resources of Coos Bay and its importance as a shipping point. It is also proof of their desire to do their full share in the development of these resources, a fact that should be gratifying to this section.

CONTESTS HOMESTEAD OF SOUTH INLET GIRL.

Earl E. Schrimsher Wants Nellie Wasson's Land—Formerly Held Under Indian Allotment.

The hearing of a peculiar homestead contest has just been concluded before L. A. Liljeqvist, United States Land Commissioner. It involves a homestead on South Inlet which was taken several years ago by Nellie Wasson and is being contested by Earl E. Schrimsher of North Bend.

According to the evidence, the homestead was originally taken under the Indian allotment law, Miss Wasson's mother being an Indian and her father a white man. Later, acting on the advice of an Indian agent, she changed her claim from the Indian allotment to the homestead. During the time, she was employed in the Central hotel in Marshfield and could not spend all of her time on the claim. A large number of witnesses were heard. A decision in the case will not be secured for some time.

BOYCOTT IN NORTH BEND

Saloon Men Institute Action Against Merchant's Cafe In That City.

The liquor question at North Bend has reached an acute stage. Mrs. Chapman, manager of the Merchant's Cafe in that city reports that on Wednesday she was visited by a committee that requested her signature to a saloon petition. She refused to sign it personally but said that the committee might see the proprietors. Mrs. Chapman alleges that the committee then informed her that unless the Merchant's Cafe placed itself on record favorably it would be boycotted by every saloon man in the city and their friends. She reports that the boycott was put into immediate effect and yesterday a number of liquor men and sympathizers who had been former patrons all quit and only one saloon man braved the boycott and patronized the restaurant. The proprietors are standing by Mrs. Chapman and the next move is being awaited with interest.

HENEY HARD AFTER FULTON

PROSECUTING ATTORNEY REITERATES HIS CHARGES AGAINST OREGON SENATOR IN SPEECH AT PORTLAND—SAYS HE IS LAST OF OLD MACHINE—UPHOLDS PRIMARY.

PORTLAND, April 16.—Francis J. Heney, who came from San Francisco for the purpose, delivered "good government" addresses before large audiences here, speaking twice within a few days. He paid further attention to United States Senator Charles W. Fulton, reiterated many of his past charges against that legislator and adding others.

He eulogized President Roosevelt and Senator LaFollette, and warned his hearers against greed of corporations and great concentration of wealth, and gave the government land swindlers and several local politicians a severe dressing down. He was unhesitating in urging his hearers to guard their law providing for the nomination of United States senators by direct vote of the people, saying that without an effort, people in this state had secured a jewel which was obtained in California only after ten years' effort.

Heney, while he did not devote as much time as expected to Fulton, yet took time to read from a bulky envelope, letters and documents bearing on the "hold up" session of the Oregon legislature of 1897, and discussed alleged methods used in efforts to return the late Senator John H. Mitchell to office.

W. F. (Jack) Williams, T. Cader Powell, Pierce Mays and several other politicians of the state of wide prominence, came in for a round scoring and W. S. U'Ren, "father of Statement No. 1," received both words of condemnation and highest tribute. Some of U'Ren's principles, Heney did not approve of, but he declared U'Ren one of the most brilliant men of this country.

"Fulton," said Heney, "is the last of the old machine politicians in Oregon, and when he is removed from office the last trace of the old regime will be obliterated. Whether or not the old machine will ever again secure a foothold is up to the people to determine."

"Now, my friends, in conclusion, Statement No. 1 is what gives you your power to nominate your senator. Without that there is nothing in that law (applause). Unless you pledge the men whom you nominate for the legislature to vote for the man who receives the highest popular vote of the people of this state, there is absolutely nothing in it. By nominating in that method you control absolutely the election of the United States senator without any machine and without any corporate interest having a chance to interfere. No, do not let them fool you into losing that right. What I object to more than anything else in the election of Fulton is that it gives comfort, it gives power and public office to the machine men who held you in their control so many years. It puts you back again when you have escaped from it by Statement No. 1" (applause).

CALLER CITY, Ore., April 17.—Calling Francis J. Heney a liar and a viper, United States Senator C. W. Fulton addressed a large audience here the other night. It is estimated that he used the words "lie" and "liar" 200 times in his speech.

Fulton reviewed his career in the United States senate and praised the late Senator Mitchell and Congressman Williamson and Hermann, stating that his friendship for Mitchell was in death as it was in life. He excused Mitchell's errors by the infirmities of old age, urging that the dead senator showed no wrong intent.

Fulton's speech was defensive throughout. He did not take the aggressive at any time and failed even to mention Statement No. 1, which in this vicinity is deemed the most important issue of the campaign.

Because the Baker City Herald had the courage to print Collier's attack upon Fulton in full in that evening's

MARSHFIELD SCHOOL NEWS

The school piano will be tuned Saturday.

The High school and Grades during the past week.

Gladys Nicholls entered the First Grade on Wednesday.

New steps have been placed at the rear entrance to the boys' basement.

Two new pupils have been registered in the Third Grade this week.

The Eighth Grade 'B' have finished the arithmetic and are reviewing for the June examinations.

The Eighth Grade are reading "Order No. 11" in connection with their study of the Civil War.

The seven members of the class in Tenth Grade rhetoric made 100 per cent in their examination this week.

The children of the Fifth Grade have been doing excellent water color work in connection with Easter studies.

A sketch of the new school-house on exhibition in the window of the Chamber of Commerce has caused much favorable comment.

A miniature farm has been arranged on the Second Grade sand table. This is in connection with the study of domestic animals. Several pets have visited the room and their habits and peculiarities noted.

A teachers' meeting was held today to discuss the revision of the course of study. This meeting was held at the request of the State Superintendent who desires to have suggestions from all the teachers in the State on this subject.

Mr. Selfridge, representative of the McPherson Heating Company of Portland, visited school on Monday last and looked over the furnace room and heating apparatus. Mr. Selfridge was astonished to learn that our building was twelve years old and considers the fine condition of the woodwork remarkable.

Pupils in First Grade receiving highest rank for the month ending April 17th, are: Lillian Seaman, Clara Ferguson, Ruth Golden, Ruby Carlson.

The following pupils of the Fourth Grade made 97, or above in all of the examinations for the past month: Carl Back, Herbert Bradley, Eva Hansen, Helen Stoltz, Dewey Stutsman and Marie Seaman.

BREAKFAST FOOD MAN SUCCUMBS IN OHIO.

Ferdinand Schumacher, "American Oatmeal King," Dies at Age of 82 at Akron.

(By Associated Press.) AKRON, Ohio, April 17.—Ferdinand Schumacher, the "Oatmeal King of America," and who founded the breakfast food industry in this country, died suddenly at his home here last night, aged 82. His latter years were devoted to philanthropy.

paper in unmeasured terms. He declared the article, which classed him as an "undesirable citizen," had been sent to all cities along his route but no other paper had been low enough to print it. His attack upon the Herald did not come as a surprise, for the people here realized how the publication of the article hurt the feelings of the senator.

The senatorial fight in Baker county is growing very bitter. Friends of Fulton have attempted to coerce business men who favor Statement No. 1 and boycotts have been inaugurated. These attempts have failed in every instance and the boycotts have been unavailing.

At the Crystal.—The all comedy bill at the Crystal continues to be ever popular. The change of program last night proved to be even better than the first half of the week. The film "No More Children" is a travesty on our modern fast way of living. It takes off the fact that the line between children and their elders is fast disappearing. Both of the illustrated songs made a hit with the audience; the colored slides are of exceptional beauty and interest.
