DEAF MAN OPERATOR.

Receives Code Through His Frontal Bone.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 22.— William E. Elliott, agent for the Nickel Plate railroad at Tippecanoe, is probably the only totally deaf telegrapher in the world. Although unable to distinguish any kind of a sound, he is able to perform all the duties required of an operator, and will likely hold his office for several years to come.

When Elliott entered the employ of the railroad he was possessed of as good ears as any man, but about 20 years ago his hearing began to fall, and being unable to find a cure he set about to experiment in order that he would not be thrown out of employment.

An old horsewhip fell into his hands. Cutting a piece about two feet long from the butt end, he attached to it a metal plate. The other end was placed against the telegraph sounder. Then placing his forehead to the plate, he received the code through his frontal bone and solved the problem.

MOORE IN HIS SLEEP
WALKS INTO RIVER.

Three Men Make Human Chain and Rescue Somnambulist from Peril of Death.

NEW YORK, May 22.—James Moore's habit of doing road work in his sleep landed him in the East River about daybreak, and but for the efforts of Policemen Morris and Haribus and Christopher Kelly he might now be walking in another world. His three rescuers formed a human chain, with Morris on the business end, and Moore was dragged up on the dock from which he had walked into the river at the foot of East Fifty-second street.

Moore lives at No. 354 West Fifty-fifth street.

"I've been walking in my sleep for a number of years," said Moore, when seen yesterday. Sometimes I wake up and find myself in Brooklyn. This is the first time I ever swam in my sleep."
