He expresses himself as being well pleased with the political situation this year from a democratic viewpoint.

MYRTLE POINT POINTERS.

Items of Interest Taken From The Enterprise.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Johnson welcomed a bouncing baby boy to their home in Myrtle Point on Sunday, the 19th.

Mike Sumerlin is the latest to get in a shot at the panther family, having laid one of the big brutes low this week. The panther had entered the yard of Mr. Leanord, had attacked and killed his dog and was eating the carcass when shot. It was a female brute and must have been on the verge of starvation to attack a dog, though one or two similar instances have occurred in this section.

Councilman J. D. Barklow, who was directing the work of getting the new boiler for the auxiliary pumping plant to its site on the North Fork, states that the feat was successfully accomplished. The boiler weighs four tons and was hauled out on a truck weighing another ton, three teams being used. It was taken over the Cooper hill and across the bridge, then through Ed. Jenkins place to the river where it was skidded across to its location. It was a severe strain on the bridge, but the structure held. The pump, which weighs three tons, is expected to arrive this week, and after it is installed the service will be commenced. Meanwhile, with the iron piping installed last winter, the service is holding up much better this summer than it did last year, and most of the water consumers have had plenty of water.
