Hunter Leaves.—The tug Hunter which came down from Gardiner yesterday left again this morning for that port, carrying merchandise.

See Sails Today.—The steam schooner Bee, which has been loading with lumber at the C. A. Smith Mill sailed today for San Francisco.

Many On Picnic.—A large number went up Coos River this morning with the picnic party of the congregation of the Presbyterian church. The Rev. H. H. Brown is in charge and a delightful time is anticipated.

Has Arm Broken.—The seven-year old son of Dr. Walters sustained a broken forearm in a fall while playing. The fracture was reduced by Dr. Houseworth who does not anticipate any serious results from the injury.

In After Long Trip.—The Ester Buhne arrived in this morning from San Francisco after a long trip. She is a sailing vessel and the strong head kinds made it difficult for her to reach here. She will load with lumber for the south.

Enterprise.—The Enterprise arrived late yesterday from Rogue River, the damage sustained in the rough trip over the Wedderburn bar having been repaired. Capt. Johnson said they had a good trip up. They will leave with a cargo of merchandise Thursday.

Defer Naming of Streets.—The city council last night refused to act on the proposed system for renaming and numbering the streets of Marshfield until the street committee of that body confers with the committee from the Chamber of Commerce concerning J. W. Snover's plan.

To Clean Street.—Contractor W. O. McCann has promised to keep the new paving clean for a month to show how it can be done. Councilman Nasburg is in favor of having the property owners along the streets subscribe to a fund for keeping them clean the same as they subscribe to the fund for street sprinkling.

Special Meeting.—Between the days of the busy week, it is restful to spend an evening where the thoughts may be turned into the higher and purer currents of thinking. To this end the people meet together at the Presbyterian church on Thursday evenings at 8 o'clock. Tomorrow evening Mr. T. P. Howard of Portland, will be present to direct the meditations, and those who have heard him will anticipate an hour of real refreshment. Strangers are warmly welcomed at this meeting.

Trouble Over Dirt.—George Ayres, S. C. Brown and Frank Sacchi and other property owners on 'B' street are threatening to institute proceedings against Hugh McLain for dumping dirt in the street there. Mr. McLain insists that the city officials ordered him to take the dirt from other streets where he was grading to lower 'B' street and dump to bring that street to grade, Mayor Stray and the members of the council deny having given any such instructions. The property owners now want to compel Mr. McLain to remove the dirt.

AT THE THEATRE.

Another large audience witnessed a fine performance of "He Couldn't Marry Two," at the Masonic Opera House, last night. The play was a comedy and afforded Miss Harper excellent opportunities in that line and she made the most of them. Joseph Detrick proved himself to be a most excellent comedian and kept the audience in roars of laughter with the character of "Peter Amos." The fun all hinges on the statue "Niobe" coming to life in the home of Peter Amos Dunn, and the complications that follow. Dunn being a married man tries numerous lies to help himself out of trouble but the "truth must come" and finally it did. Tonight "Zaza" will be put on and Miss Harper's characterization of this famous role has placed her among the best actresses. She will be supported by Joseph Detrick and the entire company of sixteen people.

WAS PREDICTED BY MAJOR KINNEY

Famous Plat B Enthusiast Sees Great Things Ahead for Coos Bay Country.

Editor of The Times,
Please allow me to sinch one of the many flashes of foresight which I have cast off in my passing remarks to the people of Coos Bay and for which I have received much abuse. In the spring of 1906, I was passing the corner of 'C' and First streets. A. E. Seaman was working filling in his fine corner lot. Said I, "Seaman you are working hard on a thing which will have to be taken out again. You, or some one else will be taking that same dirt out for a fine business block within two years." Said he, "Kinney—that is the very thing which hurts you most with the Coos Bay people—you are always making such unreasonable breaks. I have a good corner here and within twenty-five years may see what you claim for it in two years."

The First Trust and Savings Bank building now stands on that corner as a monument and verification of my judgment, at this date, August 11, 1908.

I did then, and do today see Coos Bay's development as clearly as that.
