A TREAT FOR MUSIC LOVERS

It has been arranged to have the Bandon Concert Band favor this city with a program second to none, and which will be rendered in a manner only accomplished by natural talent, schooled by years of hard study under such masters as their director, Mr. E. B. Kausrud.

This band, almost from its organization, has been noted for the high class and appropriate music furnished by it. Too much praise cannot be given to the old members who have followed the band since its organization, and the boast is that few bands afford as many individual specialists or a body of men so efficient in assembly playing. The band will render the brilliant and difficult overture to "Raymond," by Thomas, which will bear the test as a standard production, as well as a test for the reed section's ability.

The effects of a fortissimo will not be produced by the blasting of trumpets or cracking of trombones, nor the pianissimos by the common delusion of holding the instruments to the lips and not blowing. The diligent rehearsals have given the band sufficient experience in assembly playing to assure it of successful effects without the application of fake or quackish methods.
