We make the claim that our Laundry is the best in the town. Best, because we do the most conscientious work, have the best equipped establishment, and charge the most reasonable prices. We call for and deliver work on time, and never injure any article entrusted to our care. We would like to be favored with your work, and shall do our best to earn your continued patronage.

Coos Bay Steam Laundry

noon, having made the run down in less than two days. She will sail from there for Coos Bay tomorrow.

Seriously Injured.—Sam Green, a miner at Beaver Hill, had his right arm and leg broken one day last week by a premature fall of coal. The injuries are serious and will lay him up for some time.

Council Tonight.—The Marshfield city council will hold an adjourned meeting this evening to take up several matters. No meeting was held last week and there is considerable street improvement business accumulating. The new sewage system plans will also come up.

Crushed By Log.—Alex Dashny, a logger at Pony Slough camp, is laid up at Mercy hospital suffering from four broken ribs and a broken right leg sustained from being crushed under a heavy log. The injuries while painful are not serious but will lay him up for some time.

Change In Men.—D. Allison has resigned as cashier at the C. A. Smith mill and will be succeeded by D. Nelson who has been cashier at the retail office of the company. Mr. Nelson will be succeeded by H. E. Quist who was formerly with the company but who has recently been with F. S. Dow.

Fine Antlers.—John Warner of Myrtle Point, was on the Bay the other day with two of the finest sets of horns that have been seen here this season. One set was a result of John's prowess in the Tioga country, where he killed a magnificent buck. The other pair he found in the forest. The two heads were valued at $150.

Mrs. Himebaugh Hurt.—Mrs. C. M. Himebaugh was quite severely injured Sunday morning in the new Lawhorne building. She stepped on a defective board in the temporary floor which broke under her weight. She was alone at the time and was unable to extricate herself until aided by friends about an hour later. Her limb was badly hurt.

Wait For New Boxes.—The new boxes for the Marshfield postoffice are expected in this week and as soon as they arrive, the remodeling of the interior of the office will begin. The other fixtures are being made in Marshfield. It is said that when the remodeling is completed, the interior of the Marshfield postoffice will be as handsome as any of the offices in the state.

Road Will Pay.—Harriman now has a representative at Coos Bay to ascertain how near the proposed road from Drain to that city will pay five per cent on the investment. It is hoped those Coos Bayites will be able to "show" him that the road will pay twice the above amount expended. It might not do it at the start.

Personal Notes

JOHN PREUSS and wife, are spending a few days at the Preuss ranch near Bullards.

S. M. KELLY has returned from a trip to Coos County where he purchased several car loads of cattle. —Roseburg News.

THE REV. C. A. PHIPPS of Portland, who has been here aiding in the Sunday school advancement work, left this morning on the Drain stage.

MRS. POLLEXFEN and Mrs. Turpen did not get away Saturday for San Francisco as they expected and as was shown by the M. F. Plant passenger list. They will make the trip later.

TOM HALL this morning received a letter from his sister, Mrs. A. B. TenBrook stating that Mr. TenBrook who has been very ill of typhoid fever, is improving. The TenBrook family resides at Merrill, Oregon.

ROBERT MARSDEN, Jr., and wife, have returned from their trip to Portland and Willamette Valley points. Mr. Marsden was unwell after the long trip and was unable to get down town until Saturday evening.

J. E. OREN, general manager of the C. A. Smith mill, left yesterday via Roseburg for San Francisco to confer with C. A. Smith and other managers of the company probably concerning the Bay Point property. Whether Mr. Oren's visit there will change Mr. Smith's plan of coming to Coos Bay next week is not known.

GEORGE H. ROTNOR, manager of the Woolen Mills Store, returned Saturday from San Diego, Cal., where he was called by the death of his mother, Mrs. Stella Rotnor, a well-known resident of Coos Bay. Mrs. Rotnor died the night before her son arrived but she had been unconscious for several days prior to her death. The many friends will unite with Mr. Rotnor in mourning the loss of the most estimable woman.

but the railroad magnate will never lose money on the investment—Roseburg News.

Lost His Vessel.—Capt. Hall, who lost his vessel in the straits entering Puget Sound, September 13, arrived here today on the Alliance en route south. His craft, the Rhododendron, a fourteen-ton yacht, was dashed to pieces and all of the crew except himself were drowned. This was the fifth shipwreck for him. He is en route south where he plans to build another craft. While here, he called on local members of the G. A. R.

Delegates to Congress.—Local boosters are arranging to have Coos Bay represented by a big delegation at the Trans-Mississippi congress to be held in San Francisco October 6 to 10. The congress is one of the most effective development organizations in the country and last year went on record as strongly urging the improvement of the Coos Bay harbor by the government. North Bend and Marshfield Chambers of Commerce will undoubtedly unite to sending the delegations from here.

Raises Fine Peaches.—George Beale, the well-known Coos River rancher, was in Marshfield today with some of the finest peaches that could be raised. They were grown on his ranch and are the result of an experiment which Mr. Beale made to prove the fallacy of the claims of some that peaches couldn't be grown on Coos River. The peaches are large, ripened perfectly and have an excellent flavor. The Times can attest to the last statement as a result of a box of the "beauties" left at this office. They were "peaches."

Among the many pleasing features of the Baptist entertainment Tuesday evening will be a recitation by Miss Pearl Watkins, "Ole Mistus," that won for her the Gold Medal at the Interscholastic Oratorical Contest at Whitman College last May against seventeen other contestants from as many different cities.
