BOND ISSUE IS DISCUSSED

voters should know what the money derived from the sale of bonds was going for. He said that it was essential now to submit such a bonding proposition to the voters as would carry as a refusal on their part to vote bonds would leave the city in a bad predicament.

Straw Gives His Ideas.

Mayor Straw said that if they didn't think there were enough honest men here to be elected to the council, they had better vote the matter down. He said that he supposed there were carpet baggers, anarchists, etc., here who would oppose a $100,000 bond-issue, but that they would also oppose a $50,000 bond-issue.

Councilman Nasburg didn't think that $50,000 was enough as he said that would only pay the present outstanding warrants and wouldn't provide funds to run the city. However, he said he supposed they could issue warrants again.

Messrs. Dow and Sacchi said that the city's revenue should be increased so as to pay the running expenses, that it wasn't right to figure on issuing bonds all the time and keep running into debt.

The long discussion resulted in a decision to let the matter go over until today with the understanding that the ordinance be changed so that the council will not be authorized to issue more than $50,000 worth of bonds.

Wants Reports Audited.

Councilman Sacchi last night urged Mayor Straw to see that the monthly reports of the city treasurer and city recorder are audited promptly by the finance committee. He said there was no use in exacting the reports if they were not going to be audited.

Councilman Lockhart, chairman of the finance committee, said the reports would be audited in the future.

Routine Business.

Broadway was ordered improved from Washington to Queen streets, the improvement to consist of filling from the dredge with planking on top. A similar improvement was ordered for Railroad avenue, the street running from Broadway and Queen streets parallel to the coal bunkers to the depot.

Plumber's licenses were issued to B. W. Willey and J. H. Milner.

Adopt Sewer Plans.

The plans for the sewage system of the city as prepared by City Engineer Sandberg, and approved by O. A. Welle, the Spokane consulting engineer, were approved by the city council. Mr. Sandberg was ordered to prepare plans and specifications for several pieces of sewer in order that the contracts may be let and the work started at once.

Mr. Welle was ordered paid $300 for his assistance in preparing the plans.
