Turkey Threatens to Retaliate On Greece For Action of Crete.

By Associated Press. BERLIN, Oct. 8.—It is reported that the Arnauts of Albania have declared their independence of Turkey.

(By Associated Press.) BELGRADE, Oct. 8.—The clamor for war with Austria-Hungary is growing hourly and scenes of wild excitement are witnessed on the streets of Belgrade. Today a mob forced its way into the precincts of the Palace and demanded to see King Peter. The crowd was so threatening that the troops and gendarmes were finally called out. The troops charged several times before the war fevered patriots dispersed. There is a steady flow of telegrams from the interior assuring the government of the support of money, men and arms in event of hostilities.

Peter Loggie of North Bend Introduces Resolution Urging New Survey and Fortification of Harbor.

(By Associated Press.) SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—While comparatively few delegates were present at the second day's session of the Trans-Mississippi Convention, when the congress called to order, nearly every one of the early arrivals provided one or more resolutions and the first hour was devoted to reading and explaining matters on which it was expected the congress will go on record. The resolutions introduced cover a wide range of subjects including one by Secretary Wastel, secretary of the organization and of the Washington Lumbermen's Association, urging an amendment to the interstate commerce act authorizing the commission to suspend and investigate advances in freight rates upon the proper complaint before they become effective.

By George G. Congdon of Seattle, "Urging that the transcontinental railroads grant one way round-trip rate to the Yukon Pacific exposition." By Peter Loggie of North Bend, Oregon, "Urging the appointment of a board of federal engineers to revise the projects for the improvement of Coos Bay with a view to fortifying the entrance and establishing a coaling station."

CHICAGO WINS THE PENNANT

Takes Tie-Game Extra From New York Today and Carries Off National League Honors For 1908.

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Chicago this afternoon defeated New York by a score of four to two in one of the greatest ball games ever played in this country, and before one of the largest crowds. The victory gave Chicago the national league pennant for 1908, the race for which has never been equalled in the annals of baseball.

The score by innings: R H E Chicago 0 0 4 0 0 0 0 0—4 8 0 New Y'k 0 1 0 0 0 0 1 0—2 5 1 At the opening of the game, Pfeister and Kilg were Chicago's battery, and Matthewson and Bresnahan, New York's. Pfeister was taken out of the box and Brown put in the second inning. New York took Matthewson out in the eighth inning and substituted Wiltse. Chicago's victory was due to bunching its hits in the third inning. Tens of thousands of baseball enthusiasts went to the grounds early today to witness the playing of the alleged tie of September 23, in accordance with the decision of the National league. The temper of the players in the final game between Chicago and New York gave promise of a game full of ginger, team work and aggressiveness. Long before the gates opened, thousands were in line waiting to purchase tickets for the bleachers and other unreserved sections, and the mad rush for the vantage points from which to witness the contest began as soon as the gates opened. Scores of police were on hand but there were many "scraps" for seats. At 1 o'clock both teams began warming up and the gates to the grounds were closed, the grounds and seats being unable to hold more. The favorites were cheered or hissed by the partisans, but Manager Chase of Chicago, was particularly the victim of the "booing" from certain sections. Wednesday's scores follow: At Washington—First game in American league; Washington, one, and New York nothing in eleven innings. At Boston—American league first game; Boston, ten, and Philadelphia, one.

LEAKING GAS KILLS FOUR

Moans of Dying Attracts Passerby Who Saves Several Lives.

(By Associated Press.) WATERBURY, Conn., Oct. 8.—Illuminating gas leaking into the sleeping rooms of an Italian boarding house on Bank street, claimed four young Italians. But for the opportune passing of Antonia D. Marco who heard the moans of the dying men, the number would have been more than twice that number. Marco with the police rescued several unconscious persons. said the water passage helped the man of small capital whereas the railroads helped the man with large capital, and that where there is a river every man who can build a boat can engage in the transportation business.

TO TAKE OVER LOCAL LAND

M. N. Knuppenberg Here Today to Assume Possession of Libby Mine, Etc.

M. N. Knuppenberg of Seattle and Spokane, arrived here today on the M. F. Plant, and it was authoritatively stated that while here he would take over the Oregon Coal and Navigation Company's property, including the Libby Mine, the M. F. Plant, etc., which, it was announced a few weeks ago, he had purchased. It is understood that everything is in readiness to give him immediate possession. Mr. Knuppenberg has not been well for the last few weeks and was tired out by the ocean trip. Consequently he could not be seen to secure any statement regarding the deal, today. As to his intentions and whether or not J. J. Hill is interested in the deal, is still a matter of speculation. Mr. Knuppenberg will remain but

BANDIT HOLDS UP MYRTLE POINT STAGE NEAR ROSEBURG

PUT BAN ON KISSING BEES.

No Rummage Sales or Raffles for Seattle Church.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 8.—Kissing bees, bazaars, rummage sales, raffles and excursions have been abolished from Tabernacle Baptist church by the Rev. John M. Dean. He broke the news to his congregation in his annual report last night.

The Rev. Mr. Dean denounced all schemes for coaxing money from the congregation. "We have tolerated no such plans," he said, "and have never asked any man outside of our own membership for a cent. As a church we have always emphasized the giving instead of the raising of money. Let us not lower our standards as we become larger in membership."

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 8.—A lone, masked highwayman held up the stage from Myrtle Point within a mile of Roseburg last night, and after taking about $50 in cash, some jewelry and other valuables, made his getaway. Just before disappearing from the passengers whom he had compelled to dismount and "shell out," he called to the stage driver to give his "regards to Sheriff Fenton." No clue has been found to the bandit.

The stage robber displayed all the chivalry of a plumed knight of centuries ago. As the stage rounded a sharp curve in the road where he stood hidden by trees, he stepped out in the roadway and ordered the drivers to halt and dismount. Keeping them covered, he called to the eight occupants of the stage to come outside. They quickly complied although some of the women almost fainted.

"Don't be scared ladies," said the bandit, "I won't molest you." And he didn't. He ordered them to step away a little to one side and did not ask them to turn over their jewels or money.

The men quickly complied with his order to "shell out." As M. Plumb and Harry McChesney turned over their pocketbooks and change, the bandit noticed something in their hip pockets and sharply ordered them to come through "clean." As they emptied their hip pockets, his eyes twinkled at the sight of two loaded revolvers.

That the bandit did not make a greater haul was partly due to his chivalry in the treatment of the women and also to the thoughtfulness of John Hastings of Bridge. Hastings heard the robber's command to the drivers to "stop" and he, at once, realized the situation. Grabbing his pocketbook containing about $800 in cash, he dropped it to the bottom of the stage and Mrs. J. Barnette of San Francisco did likewise with her wallet which contained about $1,000 worth of diamonds and jewelry.

Passengers and Losses. The names of the passengers and the amounts they lost are as follows: Mrs. J. Barnette of San Francisco, no loss. M. Plumb of Portland, five dollars, watch and revolver. Miss Rooney of Coaledo or Coquille, Ore., no loss. John Hastings of Bridge, one dollar. Harry McChesney of Kahlotus, Wash., fifteen dollars and Colt's revolver. R. Heald of Olalla, Ore., fifteen dollars. C. McKroskan of Olalla, Ore., watch valued at $125. Thomas Duncan, driver, three dollars. W. C. Benham, driver, four dollars and fifty cents.

ROBBERY OF MYRTLE POINT STAGE NEAR ROSEBURG. (Special to The Times.) ROSEBURG, Ore., Oct. 8.—The robbery of the Roseburg-Myrtle Point stage near this city last night is about the "steenth" time the stage has been held up within the last ten years. For a time, it was an annual occurrence for the stage to be held up. The robber was never caught and it was suspected that the same man did it time after time. Usually the holdups occurred much
