SOCIETY EVENTS

M. Friedberg, Fannie Hazard, S. Lando, Mrs. Kiser, Mrs. Reed, Mrs. Edman, Mrs. McKnight and Miss Susie Eickworth, Mrs. Dimmick and Miss Stella O'Connell were guests of the club.

Mrs. W. S. Chandler entertained the Progress Club last Tuesday at her beautiful and spacious bungalow on Coos River. Substantial and artistic provision have been made by the hostessmember for the satisfaction and entertainment of her guests and there was unanimous expression of appreciation of the hostess's efforts in their behalf. The Portland Journal has this to say of the club which is a member of the National Federation of Clubs to the latest annual meeting of which Mrs. H. S. Sengstacken was sent as a delegate:

"First to send its year book for the season of 1908-09 is the Progress Club of Marshfield—a club whose motto is 'Progress is the Law of Life,' and a club that lives up to its motto.

"The club opened September 6, with a lunch, and holds its meetings every Tuesday until June 5, when the social side of club life will again assert itself in the form of a summer excursion. These seem to be the only two occasions upon which the club takes a vacation from the large amount of work laid out for itself.

"The Bay View reading course on Italy and Greece, will cover the year's study, the individual members taking turns as leaders and on other parts of the program. Each lesson embraces four numbers—a roll call with suitable responses, the lesson review, a paper or talk, and a reading. The Bay View course is the most satisfactory work the literary clubs have yet found. The Chautauqua course has been found too strenuous and requiring too much time for the busy clubwoman. While the Bay View course requires good hard study it is not too severe and is flexible enough to meet the various tastes and demands of almost any club which takes it up in an earnest and conscientious manner. And one has but to carefully examine the year book of the Progress Club to realize that the members have given the proper kind of thought to it.

"The club has 16 active and 5 honorary members. In the latter list we find one gentleman. Andrew D. McClelland of Pueblo, Colo. The Progress club was organized in 1904, and a month later joined the state federation and has been one of the most active and dependable clubs in the state organization ever since. The officers of the club for the ensuing year are: President, Mrs. M. C. Horton; vice-president, Mrs. P. C. Levar; secretary, Mrs. E. G. Flanagan; treasurer, Mrs. H. S. Tower; executive board, Mrs. M. C. Horton, Mrs. J. M. Upton, Mrs. Henry Sengstacken.

"The club flower is the rhododendron and the club colors are green and pink. The year book does not carry out the club colors as in some former years, but is very neatly bound with overlapping cover which is in attractive tones of brown."

The club meets next Tuesday at the home of Mrs. W. C. Bradley. Among Mrs. Chandler's guests were the following: Mrs. M. C. Horton, Mrs. Henry Sengstacken, Mrs. D. Y. Stafford, Mrs. Bradley, Mrs. C. A. Schlbredre, Mrs. H. S. Tower, Mrs. J. W. Ingram, Mrs. E. A. Todd, Mrs. I. Lando, Mrs. J. M. Upton, Mrs. I. S. Kaufman and Miss Doris Sengstacken.

Claude Nasburg is entertaining a small party of friends at an over Sunday house party at the Bungalow on Coos River. The party goes up this afternoon. Mrs. Wilbur will be the chaperone. Among the members will be Misses Helen Doble, Helen Chandler, Genevieve Sengstacken, May Bennett and Kathleen Bennett, and Messrs. Harry Butler, W. F. McKee, Robert Booth and Harry Butler.

Wear Satin This Winter.

Indeed, it is to be a satin season. Not the satin of our grandmothers, so stiff and heavy, but a light, soft, supple material, with a wonderful luster of its own, which adapts itself marvelously to the new clinging type of gown.

Paris is wild with enthusiasm over the satin gilet. A gilet, you know, is a little vest. One of the smartest of these imported small garments, and one which American women are sure to like, is made of black satin bands shaped to the figure and each finished in a point. This gilet is single-breasted and buttons in the front. Combined with the satin is a band of Persian embroidery forming the top. This is a peculiarly French touch, and is sure to be much in vogue. The contrast of the beautiful Persian colors with the shining black satin is most effective and one of those little things which the French make so important. Such a vest as this will prove most serviceable to the woman with a limited wardrobe. It will give a new look to last year's suit, and an attractive look, too.

A vest of this sort is generally worn with a cutaway coat, but I suggest that it be made so that it can take the place of an overblouse and be worn with a gulmpe of the flannel.—Grace Margaret Gould.

BETROTHED BEFORE BIRTH

Redskins Wed According to Rites of the Paleface. SIOUX CITY, Ia., Oct. 10.—Betrothed twenty-five years ago, seven years before either of them were born, according to the Indian custom, Andrew F. Solomon and Jennie Merrick, prominent members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, came to Sioux City yesterday and in the office of the county clerk were married in accordance with the laws laid down by the "pale-face."

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George L. Search of the Helping Hand mission. Because he is a minor the consent of his marriage was given by his mother, Mrs. Nettie F. Solomon. The young couple were married in the full regalia of the tribe and attracted a great deal of attention on the streets after the wedding.

This story is told on one of their local teachers. She drew a picture of a volcano on the board, picturing the eruption with fiery colored crayon. She then asked the youngsters what it looked like. One little tow-head yelled: "It looks like h—1."

The pupils of the Seventh Grade of the Marshfield schools, united in a party at the Rink last evening. Their teacher, Miss Kathleen Bennett and Miss Laura Kruse and Mrs. Kelly acted as chaperones. Dancing was the principal diversion. It was one of the most enjoyable events that the younger folks have held this season.

GOOD LUCK FIRM.

St. Louis Corporation Formed to Give Newly-Wed Auspicious Start.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 10.—"Marriage needs a lot of good luck to make it successful. That's the reason we're promoting the Good Luck Corporation." So said Mrs. Nellie Porter, president and general manager of the newest business in St. Louis, today. Mrs. T. Mellon, fellow director, nodded approval.

The offices of the Good Luck Corporation adjoin those of Justice of the Peace Reichmann, and when the Justice has a marriage to perform his clerk notifies the corporation, and the syndicate is on hand with the rice and old shoes.

Once, recently the syndicate was caught unawares, and the blushing couple almost escaped. Nothing daunted by the absence of their "properties" the officers removed their own shoes and shied them for luck at the fleeing couple.
