Miss Agnes Ruth, the Coos Bay young woman who died suddenly in San Francisco the other day, will be brought here for burial. So far, the relatives of the young woman here have been unable to secure any particulars of her death or the cause of it. They had not had any intimation that she was critically ill. Miss Ruth worked for a time in Dr. Horsfall's hospital in Marshfield and went to San Francisco to visit a cousin and complete her training as a nurse. She was about nineteen years old. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Axel Ruth, reside on North Inlet. Besides her parents, she is survived by a married sister at Seattle, three sisters here, Misses Florence, Alma and Edna, and a brother, Chester. It is expected that the body will be brought here on one of the first steamers from 'Frisco.

The present school building is about thirty-five years old. The new building will provide two class-rooms, a play-room and gymnasium and other accommodations. The district now has about twenty-five scholars, but the number is rapidly increasing. Plans for the new building were prepared by W. S. Turpen.

STRIKE BIG VEIN.

New Strike Made at the Lillian Coal Mine This Week.

What is declared to be the biggest vein of coal ever struck in Oregon has just been tapped at the Lillian mine. The vein is said to show eleven feet of solid coal. Seymour H. Bell, one of the owners of the property, says the coal is of even a better quality than heretofore taken out of the Lillian. It is their intention to work the mine at its full capacity if the trade can be worked up to utilize the output.

THE MIGHTY HEN

I'm for the hen, the lowly hen;
She lays an egg today and then
Tomorrow goes about her biz and where her nest of rubbish is
Lays us another. Cluck on cluck,
Day after day, with endless pluck;
Happy if in solitude
She may at last hatch out a brood
Of fluffy chicks with yellow legs,
To become hens and lay more eggs.

She knows no holidays at all,
Nor Sundays. At the clarion call
Of Mr. Rooster, with a lurch,
She lunges down from off her perch
And, once upon a footing firm,
She goes to hunt the early worm,
She takes a worm, a piece of grit,
A bug, and makes an egg of it
That will pass muster until met
In scramble, fry, or omelet.

Egg after egg, day after day,
In unobtrusive, cheerful way,
And, when her laying life is done,
She lounges not in shade or sun,
But with a rush that rest doth mock
She lays her head upon the block,
And, the piece of resistance of
Some boarding house feast, shows her love
For humankind in death. Brave hen!
Example for roosters and men!
—Collier's.

According to the last census, there are 233,598,005 chickens of laying age in the United States. These are valued at $70,000,000 and the eggs they lay would, if divided, allow 203 eggs annually to every person—man, woman and child—in the United States. The value of all the fowls, $85,800,000 would entitle every person in the country to $1.12 if they were sold and the proceeds divided. All the weight of the animal products exported, the pork, beef, tallow, ham, bacon and sausage, weigh $46,860 tons, while the weight of eggs laid yearly tips the scales at $70,363 tons.—Homestead.

TRIBUTE TO R. D. CHANDLER

Philanthropy and Kindness of Father of Coos Bay Man Told By 'Frisco Paper.

The San Francisco Examiner in giving an account of the death of Richard D. Chandler, father of W. S. Chandler of Marshfield, pays the following tribute to the venerable pioneer:

"With the passing of Richard D. Chandler a real philanthropist has gone to his reward. Following a long illness and full of years he entered into rest on Wednesday at his home in this city, and news of his death caused sorrow among thousands of persons who had known and felt the warmth of his charity, though perhaps they had not known the man. His manner of dispensing helpfulness was no less unique than effective, and often unexpected by recipients who had not even a speaking acquaintance with this kindly man.

"Mr. Chandler was the pioneer coal merchant on the water front, owning mines in the north as well as yards in this city. Business sagacity made him rich years ago, but throughout his long career he was always noted for his charity, considerable portions of his accumulations being regularly dispensed among not only the actually needy but among friends, particularly ambitious young men who were striving to gain a foothold in business. Mr. Chandler kept no record of his charities.

"He helped organizations and societies, and on one occasion voluntarily went to the assistance of the Police Department of this city, when the municipality itself was too poor to pay its defenders. That was when there were no funds in the treasury to pay the warrants of the policemen, the amount required being about $15,000. Mr. Chandler quietly advanced the money and the police of the entire city obtained their wages without delay. Scorning interest on the loan, Mr. Chandler only asked that the city government make it convenient to itself in returning the money.

"Men employed in the coal business—coal handlers and drivers of carts and men who delved in his mines—were never troubled over their work or wage. Chandler's employes, generally speaking, were always paid more than others for the same work and on Christmas were given an extra month's pay. More than that, there are families in this city who have been provided with free coal from the Chandler bunkers for many years, for no other reason than that they were considered by him as worthy objects of charity. His clerks simply had orders to provide the coal and make no collection.

"Mr. Chandler was a native of Dover, England, eighty-one years old, and had been a resident of this city more than half a century. He leaves two sons, the elder, W. S. Chandler, arriving here by the steamer Carmel from Coos Bay in response to a telegram announcing his father's death. The other son, Richard B. Chandler, has been at home for some time."

NEWS TO McINDOE.

Government Man Questions Shoaling of Coos Bay Bar.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 5. — The Telegram says: "Fine progress is being made by the government dredge Oregon in deepening the Coos Bay channel, according to Major McIndoe, who has just returned from that section. While down that way the major also inspected the jetty at the mouth of the Coquille River, which was recently completed. It was his first trip to the Oregon coast ports. He says he found everything to be in satisfactory condition. So far as the shoaling of the Coos Bay bar is concerned, he states he knows nothing about it farther than the reports coming second-hand to him."
