PORT OF COOS BAY.

Shall Coos Bay be organized as a port? That is the question which the people who dwell around this bay are vitally interested in at the present time.

The fact is that as far as Coos Bay and its interests are concerned the people are a mob. They are intelligent and worthy, but they are unorganized and their work is not done wisely or effectively on that account.

What is a port? It is a public corporation which is given by law full authority over the harbor and a sufficient power to levy taxes to raise money to improve or police the harbor.

Mr. Smith and all the gentlemen who contributed to the present dredge should realize that the only way to get a mile and a half wide harbor; the only way to get a light house and proper buoys at the harbor mouth; the only way to get a dry dock; the only way to get an appropriation from Congress;

A CHIP ON HIS SHOULDERS.

Satire has always been a kick back weapon. A man will permit himself to be worsted in debate who will not submit to ridicule.

The paragraph which led to the shooting of Senator Carmack might have been written moderately with equal effect. He wanted to expose Major Cooper as a straddler.

It is a just judgment on Senator Carmack that he always weakened his argument by the extravagance of his declamation.

The shooting was unjustifiable, however viewed. It could have occurred nowhere but in the south, where the pistol habit is still considered manly.

MRS. CARNEY.

Mrs. Julia A. Fletcher Carney died a few days ago at her home in Galesburg, Ill. Such is the substance of a recent press dispatch.

Little drops of water Little grains of sand, Make a mighty ocean And a pleasant land.

So reads the first stanza. And the last, with the application of the lesson—though we all remember it, is worthy of reprint

It is a simple bit of verse; a refreshing breath from the spirit of purest altruism that has been wafted to every corner of the civilized world.

WITH THE TOAST AND TEA

GOOD EVENING.

To have joy one must share it. Happiness was born a twin. BYRON.

BESIDE THE GATE OF DREAMS.

An idle youth one summer day Went wandering afield— Nor east or west on any quest That eye or thought revealed

What saw he there? Nay, rather ask What saw he not and heard, Hath mind perceived? Hath heart received?

Hath soul been deeply stirred By radiant things, by whisperings From better lands? It seems All these he saw and heard in awe

What brought he back that summer day From wandering afield? Naught he can show or tell, I know.

Of things on earth revealed, But more than gold, a million fold And all the world esteems He holds the day he strayed away

Many a true word is spoken by accident.

Hope is a good breakfast, but a bad supper.

If you have a secret, you may as well tell it to fifty as to one.

No man can afford to say all the things he would like to say.

A love affair is like a well—so easy to fall into, so difficult to get out of.

A young doctor calls diseases by their Latin names; an old doctor is not so particular.

We have noticed that if you think before you speak, the other fellow gets in his joke first.

Marriage consists of five minutes at the head of the procession, and a lifetime in the ranks.

Platonic friendship is like perpetual motion—a beautiful theory that nobody has ever been able to make work.

The reward a man receives for going to bed early regularly, is that he feels very tough if he stays up late once in a while.

Of course women should marry. No home is complete without a husband any more than it is without a cuckoo clock or a cat.

Take 30 cents worth of cotton wash goods, a rose or two, a pair of shoes and a hat, and put them on a sixteen-year-old girl, and you have a great result.

Mother is so popular in her family that the only reproaches she ever gets from her children originated in their inability to comprehend why she ever married father.

You may abuse your enemy, your friend, and your kin and possibly escape punishment, but if you abuse your stomach you will have to account for it. No matter how good the stomach, it will not stand for abuse.

"TELLING FOLKS THAT YOU ARE ALIVE."

Tell us, are you advertising In the same old foolish way That your granddad did before you, And persist, "It doesn't pay?"

Think the whole world knows your address? "Cause it hasn't changed in years"

Wouldn't the path of such logic Drive a billy goat to tears?

"Just a card," is all you care for; Hidden, lonesome, and unread, Like the sign upon a tombstone Telling folks that you are dead.

Wake up, man, and take a tonic; Bunch your hits and make a drive Run a page and change your copy— ADVERTISE, and keep alive!
