

PRICE STOCK OF WIRELESS

Editor of The Financial World of New York Writes Coos Bay Man.

Editor Times.— Kindly print the following letter from Louis Guenther, editor of The Financial World of New York City, one of the leading stock market publications of the country:

"In reply to your esteemed favor of the 24th inst., about United Wireless, we beg to say that Messrs. Gerold & Banfield, 20 Broad street, this city, secured a price in the open market of the New York curb of $2.50 bid and $3.50 asked. This house is a reputable one in which we have every confidence.

"The price was merely a nominal one and the firm assure us that they think that you could not get $2.50 on an actual sale, and that if one wanted to buy the stock in the open market, they could get very much less than the asked price of $3.50.

"We maintain our first position about this stock, that it is not worth par lot alone from $7 to $10 above par.

"Messrs. Clarence Smith & Co., of 1 Wall street, New York City, also secured quotations on the stock as follows: Unstamped, 2.75 bid, and $3.75 asked; stamped, $1.00 bid, and $2.25 asked."

Woman's World

MRS. HERBERT ASQUITH.

The Brilliant Wife of the Premier of England.

It would probably be no exaggeration to say that Mrs. Asquith, wife of the premier of England, is the most brilliant woman in England. As a girl she was so brilliant that young men fought shy of her, and she was always to be found surrounded by elderly statesmen or middle aged men of tremendous learning and sparkling wit. There was nothing of the bluestocking about her, though she could talk entertainingly on any subject. She was dashing, volatile, spirituelle, delightfully inconsistent and possessed a fund of deep womanly sympathy that endeared her to men who were really great. The friends of her girlhood were such men as Gladstone, Tennison and Balfour. The German emperor rode with her in Hyde park and danced endless waltzes with her at Duchingham palace, and she was a friend of the ear of Russia.

Margot Tennant was the third daughter of the late Sir Charles Tennant, who made an enormous fortune in Spanish copper mines and in the manufacture of chemicals.

Most people predicted that Mrs. Tennant would never marry. She had been engaged by the rumor mongers of society several times among the men with whom her name had been linked being Lord Rosebery and Arthur Balfour, but she reached the age of thirty and was still a maid. Then, in 1894, society was amazed by the announcement of her engagement to Herbert Asquith.

Mr. Stead was truly prophetic then when he wrote of "helping a statesman to climb the steps that lead to the premiership of the empire," for Mrs. Asquith has guided her husband's course with so sure and skillful a hand that he is today, thirteen years after Mr. Stead wrote those lines, premier of the empire.
