ALL FRANCE IS STIRRED BY REVELATIONS IN STEINHEIL CASE

Nation Wrought Up Over Charges of Wrong Doing.

TRAGIC DEATH OF FAURE IS RECALLED

Woman Now Charged With Murder Was in Room Where He Died.

(By Associated Press.)
PARIS, Nov. 28.—The Steinheil case continues to be the sensation of the hour all over France. No one ventures to say where it will end. The political side looms up larger and larger, and the interest harks back the tragic death in Paris in 1899 of Felix Faure, the President of France who died amidst the Dreyfus excitement. The most minute details of the scene in the room where he expired while in the company of Mme. Steinheil are flagrantly published by even the Republican newspapers. The Royalists and Anti-Dreyfus papers are demanding an official investigation of the death of President Faure and intimate openly that he was an insuperable obstacle to the leaders of the Dreyfus agitation and was murdered by plot. The only reason to believe that Faure did not die a natural death is found in the fact that his body decomposed with unusual rapidity. Seven of the best known physicians in Paris certified that he died of cerebral hemorrhage.

Various episodes in the life of Mme. Steinheil, her alleged love affairs and intrigues are coming to light, and the prevailing belief in Paris is that she deliberately had her husband and mother assassinated.

REV. SUMMERS GOES TO TEXAS

Gardiner Preacher Must Answer Charges in Lone Star State Courts.

ROSEBURG, Ore., Nov. 28.—After a weak and hopeless fight against extradition, Rev. George Clark Summers, the Gardiner minister, has left on his return to Throckmorton, Texas, to answer to an indictment charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses. He will travel in the custody of Sheriff J. G. Sperlock, of Throckmorton, who returned from Salem, with his requisition papers honored by Governor Chamberlain. The woman in the case will go back to Texas, too, taking along the two children that are of issue as the result of her life with the minister. At Throckmorton the three will find a home beneath the roof of her forgiving father, John B. Massie.

Sheriff Fenton did not subpoena Rev. T. B. Ford from Pendleton to testify in the accused man's behalf, as ordered by Justice Long. This would have been wholly unnecessary, in view of the fact that the requisition honored by Governor Chamberlain ends all proceedings so far as the local authorities are concerned. The examination, to begin with, was merely a formality to hold the minister until such time as Sperlock could reach Salem and return here.

Summers was taken into District Attorney Brown's office and informed of the governor's action. There were present, besides Mr. Brown, Summers' two attorneys, Cardwell and Miceli, Sheriff Sperlock and Jack Parrott, the last named being the one who brought about the minister's arrest. Summers wanted his attorneys to continue the legal battle, but they told him there was nothing more they could do; that his future battleground was in Texas. Summers then thanked his counsel and paid them for their services. To Mr. Cardwell he tendered $25, with which he might pay the fine imposed on him by Justice Long for alleged contempt. The minister seemed very solicitous about his so-called wife at Gardiner, and made the significant remark that "her sickly condition was all that kept him here." Before being escorted back to jail, he pointed an accusing finger at Jack Parrott and said:

"You told a lie on me."
Parrott jumped up quickly from his chair as if to resent the remark in a physical manner, but others interfered and the incident closed.

The woman at Gardiner has made a complete confession of the affair, and is going back to Texas willingly. Acquaintances are aiding her and the two children to depart from Gardiner.

MRS. MCLEOD WINS ACTION

Circuit Court Upholds Her Right to Retain Alleged Portion of Cedar Street.

Word was received here yesterday that Mrs. McLeod had won her noted suit to prevent the city of Marshfield from disturbing the fence and bulkhead of her lot on North Cedar street. Incidentally, it is the opinion of the circuit court, which has just been handed down, is upheld by the Oregon Supreme Court she will gain six feet of what has been understood to be the street.

The case arose when the city started to cut the grade on 'C' street and improve the thoroughfare. The old street had never been opened its full width and when it was re-surveyed, it was found that the fence and other minor improvements on the McLeod lot extended six feet beyond the lot line into the street. Mrs. McLeod claimed the property under the right of adverse possession and secured an injunction restraining the city from opening the street to its full width.

City Attorney Farrin announced today that the case will be appealed to the Supreme Court.

M'CORD SAYS IT IS UNTRUE

United Wireless Representative Condemns Statement Made By New York Editor

F. B. McCord, who represents the United Wireless Telegraph Company on Coos Bay, declares that the claims made in a letter which was printed in The Times recently quoting the editor of the Financial World of New York and stock brokers there to the effect that the company's stock was selling there at a low figure is absolutely untrue. He says that the company's stock is not for sale on the New York stock exchange and offers to back his allegation up with a guarantee.

Mr. McCord has received advices from his company that the Financial World has for some reason or other attacked their standing and has furnished him with evidence alleging that the character of responsibility of the publication and its editors are such that they cannot be relied upon.

Mr. McCord says that the books of his company are open to any legitimate investigation and that such an investigation will show that the New York publication has maliciously maligned them.

According to reports Lyons and Hunter had an altercation whereupon Sam stabbed Lyons and then jumped into the river in an attempt at suicide. He reconsidered his purpose, however, upon striking the water, and called lustily for help, meanwhile grasping a pile and clinging to it tenaciously. RESIDENCE IN DANGER.

Captain Pond Says the Coquille Is Sapping Lightkeeper's Home.

PORTLAND, Nov. 28.—Unless something is done soon to prevent it from making inroads, Captain Chas. Pond says the Coquille River will undermine the residence occupied by the lighthouse keeper at that station. The channel has shifted to the north side of the river and is washing away the bank at a remarkably lively rate. Captain Pond says a rock embankment ought to be built or the lighthouse property will likely be destroyed. The captain returned home this morning after having spent more than a week inspecting the several stations of southern Oregon. He explains that the dike being built by the citizens of Bandon is responsible for the Coquille shifting its channel.

Cage With Occupants Blown Three Hundred Feet From Shaft.

(By Associated Press.)
PITTSBURG, Nov. 28.—According to State Inspector Louttit, between 180 and 200 men were in the mine when the explosion occurred.
From an authoritative source it is learned that 275 men were in the mine at the time of the disaster.
Shortly after 2 o'clock word from Marianna, says a rescue party succeeded in entering the mine and is attempting to force way the debris to where the miners were caught. It is not considered likely that any one will be rescued alive.

(By Associated Press.)

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 28.—A series of mine explosions occurred today in the mine of the Pittsburg and Buffalo Coal Company at Marianna, Washington county, and while nothing definite is known as to the number of fatalities, it is believed that many lost their lives. Reports from Marianna say that between 200 and 300 men were in the mine. All officers of the company said that about 100 were in the mine.

At one o'clock, an hour and a half after the accident, dense clouds of smoke were pouring from the two shafts of the mine, but there was not a sign of a miner.

Several trains from this city and Monongahela are bound for the scene and the latest appliances from the New United States laboratory in this city, recently tested in saving life in mine explosions, are being carried along.

A majority of the miners are Americans and their families surround the mouth of the pit crazed with frenzy. The Marrison was recently built at a great cost and is said to be the most perfect mining town in the world.

According to officials of the company, State Mine Inspector Louttit and Mine Foreman Kennedy, who had just completed a two days examination of the mine, had come from the mine only three minutes before the explosion occurred. The iron cage which carries the men from the surface to the workings was blown three hundred feet from the shaft's mouth. Two men who were in the cage were killed. But little hope is entertained for the men entombed.
