

CHURCH WORK ON COOS BAY

Father Donnelly In Interview At Portland Discusses His Projects Here.

The Portland Telegram says: "Father Edward Donnelly, of Coos Bay, one of the most vigorous members of the Catholic clergy of Oregon, has been in Portland a few days in the interests of his church and people in his present field. Under his leadership a splendid new hospital has been built at Coos Bay, and he declares that his people will soon have a fine new church and a Catholic school, both of which are badly needed to keep pace with the progress the church of his faith has been making in that rapidly growing district.

"Not only is the outlook very promising in a religious way down our way," said Father Donnelly, "but I believe a new era of progress and prosperity is dawning for the entire Coos Bay country. The people there, almost to a man, seem to be imbued with indomitable energy to go ahead, not only to keep pace with natural growth and progress, but to lead the procession. We needed a new and modern hotel, and that need is soon to be met with one of the handsomest structures in the Northwest; it will be almost an exact replica of the Cornelius in Portland. The outlook in the lumber industry was never better, and the same might be said in almost every industrial line in which Coos Bay is developing."

Father Donnelly declared that the Senator Tillman incident in connection with timber operations in Southern Oregon is bound to be followed with great interest in his country, inasmuch as quite a number of his personal friends and church people have, from time to time, attempted to enter lands included in the original grant made by the Federal Government to the Coos Bay Wagon Road Company, and on which Senator Tillman is alleged to have filed applications, but that they have always bumped up against the fact that the entire tract is involved in litigation, the effect of which is to keep the title under a cloud.

"I have no information regarding the Tillman transaction," continued the distinguished clergyman, "but I know that our people are deeply interested in having some sort of a final adjudication brought about which will enable citizens to secure some of this land. It is common knowledge that the land, included in this grant, which embraces about 100,000 acres, is extremely desirable."

BRIEFS OF BANDON.

News of City-By-The-Sea As Recorded In The Recorder.

Mrs. R. A. Moran has entered suit against Coos county to recover damages for her husband Robert A. Moran, who fell to his death from the bridge on the county road, by the Oriental hall last October. Mrs. Moran will ask for the full amount allowed by the state in such cases. Her attorney, A. J. Sherwood has taken the matter up, and the case will probably come up for hearing at the next term of court.

Last Saturday as the Wolverine pulled up at the landing at Rocky Point to take on a couple of passengers the Coquille was following her closely and being caught in the current of the river, butted into the stern of the Wolverine before Capt. White could stop her. The Wolverine was badly damaged but just to what extent will not be known until the matter is adjusted. The Coquille River Transportation Company and Captain Willard have agreed to arbitrate and each will select a man and these two will choose a third who will assess the damages, and the matter will be settled.

CHANGE IN SYSTEM.

Umatilla Abolishes Forty District Supervisors and Installs One General Roadmaster.

PENDLETON, Ore., Jan. 19.—Umatilla county now has a general roadmaster instead of 40 supervisors for as many districts. The change in the road policy was made by the county court, when instead of reappointing the supervisors whose terms had expired it appointed Dave Lavender of Weston, to the position of general roadmaster.

The one-man policy was adopted at the earnest solicitation of the county Good Roads Association and upon the recommendation of officials in eastern states where the plan has been worked successfully.

Lavender will have full charge of all road building and road improvement in the entire county. The new plan will permit of the enforcement of a uniform system of road building. Though the plan has been tried in the east, it is entirely new in the west.
